Rainey of Illinois, in Speech in the House, Revives Old Charges Against Attorney General.

INVOLVES HENRY W. TAFT

Stirs Sharp Debate by Asserting the Cabinet Officer Is a Sugar Combine Lawyer.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois revived old charges against Attorney General Wickersham today, in demanding congressional investigation of the sugar trust scandals.

The legal connections of the attorney general and the president's brother, Henry W. Taft, with the sugar trust were the basis of a speech by Mr. Rainey, in which he stirred several Republicans up to sharp replies.

"The attorney general of the United States is a sugar trust attorney," declared the Illinoisan. "I make that statement notwithstanding the fact that he put in a statement denying it. He has not denied that he obtained a part of the enormous fee paid to the law firm of Strong & Cadwallader."

Fassett Takes a Hand.

Mr. Rainey's charge against the attorney general was challenged by Congressman Fassett of New York. In response to the latter's question Mr. Rainey said he did not mean to charge that the attorney general was now an attorney for the sugar corporation. His withdrawal from the firm of Strong & Cadwallader, he said, had terminated his relations with the sugar trust.

Mr. Rainey again was challenged when he said that John E. Parsons, general counsel for the sugar trust, "is under indictment and is pleading the statute of limitations in order to escape conviction in the courts."

Congressman Herbert Parsons of New York, son of the man whom Mr. Rainey accused, jumped to his feet, as did Congressman Bennet of New York.

"The gentleman alluded to is Mr. John E. Parsons, who, I am proud to say, is my father," said Congressman Parsons. "He stated that my father was pleading the statute of limitations. He is not pleading the statute of limitations. If he has committed any crime he will take his punishment like a man."

"What has he pleaded, not guilty?" asked Mr. Rainey.

"He has," said Mr. Parsons, "and the case will be tried on its merits."

Parsons Defends H. W. Taft.

Congressman Parsons then explained further as to the relations of the president's brother with the sugar trust.

"Henry W. Taft is not now employed by the American Sugar Refining company," he said. "He was employed in one litigation, brought by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company. Mr. Taft is one of the best lawyers in New York. He was first retained in that litigation about four years ago, and took part in the trial of two suits.

"These were both civil litigations. He has had nothing to do with the criminal prosecutions which now are pending. The clients he represented in the civil litigation have all been indicted by the government and through the efforts of the attorney general, who was formerly his partner."

Debating Fitzgerald Resolution.

Congressman Rainey's attack upon the attorney general and the president's brother was made during a debate ending in the passage of the Fitzgerald resolution, which calls upon the president for a statement as to the facts which make a congressional investigation of the sugar trust inadvisable now.

The president advised against such an investigation in his message on the ground that it would give immunity to guilty members of the sugar trust and embarrass the government's investigation and prosecutions.

"There are some things the country may think are embarrassing when the president is given an opportunity to further explain his message," said Mr. Rainey. "In the first place, the attorney general of the United States was until his appointment a sugar trust attorney. In the second place, the brother of the president of the United States is now a sugar trust attorney and appears of record twice, once in the Circuit court of the Southern district of New York and again in the Circuit Court of Appeals, in this the most important suit ever brought against the company.

"Sugar Trust Attorney."

"A sugar trust attorney is the attorney general of the United States. A former assistant attorney general of the United States, familiar with the Republican methods in that office, is the present general counsel of the sugar trust."

The greater part of Mr. Rainey's speech on the sugar trust was not delivered in the house today. With only ten minutes to speak he devoted himself to a single phase of the subject. Then he obtained permission to print the remainder of his speech in the Congressional Record. Had he delivered it all to the house he probably would have aroused more bitter controversies than he succeeded in stirring up in his ten minute talk.

Brings in Taft's Brother.

After reviewing the suit of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, which the sugar trust is accused of having tried to wreck, Mr. Rainey said:

"This situation discloses that in the hour of their greatest stress the managers of this most infamous of all corporations were as resourceful as ever. Matters had been so arranged that a sugar trust lawyer became attorney general of the United States, and the brother of the president of the United States became openly one of the attorneys for the sugar trust."

Referring to Attorney General Wickersham's denial that he ever had taken part in defending the sugar trust, or ever had been consulted by any members of his law firm on such matters, Mr. Rainey said:

"If the attorney general desires to deny his connection with the sugar trust, he should make his denial more complete than this. At the time this service for the sugar trust was being given there were six mem-

HOUSE IN UPROAR VOTES LORDS' CURB

British Commons Upholds Asquith Amid Wildest Scenes in the History of Parliament.

PREMIER TELLS HIS AIMS.

Balfour Wins Forensic Duel and Ire of Irish Is Aroused Almost to the Point of Fisticuffs.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 14.—Amid tumultuous scenes tonight the house of commons recorded its approval of Premier Asquith's resolution curbing the veto power of the lords and heard the premier's declaration of policy for carrying it into statutory effect.

By the time adjournment was reached the tempers of some of the members were so aroused that fist fights were averted with difficulty. No such scenes had been seen in the commons since the Gladstonian home rule debates, and even these were outdone.

The government's main anti-lords resolution was being debated in the evening and closure was to be applied at 7:30 p. m. and the vote taken. Within a few minutes of the time set Mr. Asquith tried to make his expected statements regarding the course the government would pursue if the house of lords should reject his resolution.

Balfour Leads Attack.

The opposition was resentful because the impending closure precluded discussion. Former Premier Balfour led a skillful attack, taking advantage of the rules of the house to interrupt the premier's statement.

It then became a battle of strategy between Mr. Asquith and Mr. Balfour. The latter, always cool and debonair, invoked the support of the chairman of the committee and after a keen tussle won a victory, obtaining the chairman's ruling against the premier.

Taunts, cheers, and incoherent yells were bandied by the opposing parties, each utterance of the premier and former premier and the chairman producing fresh gusts until the chairman ruled in Mr. Balfour's favor and asked Mr. Asquith to defer his statement.

Mr. Asquith took the situation calmly, but he seemed to feel hurt. The guillotine then fell, and his resolution, aimed to cripple the house of lords, passed by a vote of 351 to 246.

Then the resolution limiting the duration of parliament to five years instead of seven carried by a vote of 334 to 236.

After this the house was in a calorific condition during the remainder of the evening. Mr. Asquith had announced he would make his statement on a motion to adjourn the house and the excitement over this dominated everything.

Asquith Outlines Plans.

When the time came the premier rose and was loudly cheered by his supporters. He set forth the intentions of the government. He said it would comply with the demands formulated by Mr. Redmond, the Irish leader, at Tipperary and elsewhere as the price of Irish support.

Mr. Asquith stated in effect that it was not usual for a government to make a statement of policy regarding contingencies that had not yet arisen, but the government was confronted by an exceptional and perhaps unique state of affairs.

The anti-lords resolution, now all passed by the house of commons, and the making of them into law by statutory enactment, was the condition of the government's useful, effective existence. The premier said he had nothing to withdraw or to explain regarding what he had said at Albert hall respecting safeguards. Those safeguards were contained in the resolutions.

Ready to Advise Crown.

"If the lords fail to accept our policy or decline to consider it when it is formally presented to them," said Mr. Asquith, "we shall immediately tender advice to the crown as to the steps which have to be taken if that policy is to receive statutory effect.

"What in precise terms that advice will be it is, of course, not right for me to say now, but if we do not find ourselves in a position to insure statutory effect being given our policy we either shall resign or recommend the dissolution of parliament.

"In no case could we recommend a dissolution except under conditions securing that in the new parliament the judgment of the people as expressed at an election be carried into law."

The premier's statement was interrupted and closed by enthusiastic cheers from the government supporters. It also was punctuated by loud laughter from the Unionists and cries of "Ask Redmond," at the point where the premier declared he was unable to specify the terms of his advice to the crown.

Balfour Replies to Asquith.

Mr. Balfour, in reply, said he presumed the statement meant the culmination of negotiations with the Nationalists. He understood that Redmond and his followers had agreed to swallow the budget, their aversion to which they never had concealed—an aversion which had been growing as feeling in Ireland became more manifest. Both parties were made poorer by these tactics. The Irish were going to accept what they did not want because they thought they might by this means get home rule, but he was not at all sure they would get that.

"The premier has bought the Irish vote for his budget and bought it successfully," said Mr. Balfour, "but the price he paid is the dignity of his office and of all the great traditions of which he ought to be the guardian."

Ire of Irish Is Aroused.

Cheers from the Unionists and ironical laughter from the Ministerialists punctuated Mr. Balfour's speech. The whole house was greatly excited. When the motion to adjourn was agreed to, Mr. Asquith arose to leave. Then his supporters cheered him, while the opposition shouted ironically: "Why not cheer for Redmond?"

Tempers were at white heat. Some one on the Unionist side shouted "dynamitards" at the Irish. This stung them into fury, and a fight seemed probable, but peacemakers interposed.

Among many angry incidents was one in which William Redmond and A. S. Wilson antagonized. It seemed inevitable they would come to blows, but John Burns and others separated them.

The demonstration and excitement continued in the lobbies, where the Irish let off their jubilation in loud whoops and concerted cheers in a manner never before witnessed by living parliamentarians.

PLEA FOR POET IN PRISON

Editor of Century Wants Stillwater Convict Freed.

WON BY LITERARY EFFORTS.

Man Whose Real Name Is Unknown May Be Released Tomorrow.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Robert Underwood Johnson, editor of the Century, has appealed to the Minnesota state board of pardons in behalf of a poet who is serving ten years in the prison at Stillwater for burglary.

Mr. Johnson said today he doesn't indulge in sentimental nonsense where convicts and crimes are concerned, but that this particular convict is a genius, and it doesn't seem right to keep a genius penned up for stealing $24 when he was homeless, cold, and hungry.

The prison name of this poet convict is John Carter. It is not his real name, only a nom de guerre. The real name is known to only a few people with whom the young man—he is 24 years old—has corresponded, most of them editors of magazines who have bought his poems. Mr. Johnson hoped that the name would not come out, because its divulgence might handicap the poet later on when he is freed.

Interest Due to Poem.

Several weeks ago, Mr. Johnson found in his mail a poetic offering, which was signed "John Carter." The poem was entitled "Con Sordini" (With Muted Strings) and it was accompanied by a letter to the editor, which said frankly that the author was in the Stillwater pen. "John Carter" hoped that the fact would not prejudice the editor.

It didn't. As a matter of fact the circumstance sharpened the editor's interest. He observed instantly, he says, that the poem had unusual merit, beautiful expression, feeling—in short, that it was a bit of fine art. He printed it in the April number of the magazine, with a footnote explaining the peculiarity of the case.

"I received," said editor Johnson, "a number of letters from literary friends whose judgment I value highly. All of them were enthusiastic in their praises of 'Con Sordini' and the author. Some of them wrote that they were carrying the poem around in their pocket showing it to friends.

Editor Writes to Convict.

Mr. Johnson was so much interested that he wrote to "John Carter" in prison. Presently he got an answer, a long letter which was phrased in a way that struck the editor as frank and manly. "John Carter" said he was serving a ten year sentence for a burglary.

"He didn't whine, he didn't complain, he didn't beg," said Mr. Johnson. "He wrote the story of his experience as simply as it could have been done.

"They publish a weekly paper in the Stillwater penitentiary called the Prison Mirror, and at first his contributions were printed in it. Later he wrote poems for the Bellman, a magazine published in Minneapolis, I believe. One of his poems which appeared in the Bellman was called 'Lux et tenebris.'

"Occasionally he used the nom de plume 'Anglicus'; at other times he signed 'John Carter.' Harper's Weekly published a poem of his in March which attracted some attention."

Following is an extract from one of his poems:

But the lamp's alight, and the clear, proud song,
Shall reach to the throne of God ere long.
The night must pass, and a strange new dawn
Burst upon field, and copse, and lawn;
For out of the warp of shame and tears
I weave the joy of the coming years.

Poet May Be Freed Saturday.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—[Special.]—Partly as the result of activity in his behalf on the part of the editors of New York magazines who have accepted his poems it seems likely that the young Englishman known as "John Carter" (his true name is unknown) will be released from the Minnesota penitentiary. One of the citizens here who is interested in the case, said after a long conference with a member of the board of pardons today that he felt sure that action in favor of the poet's freedom would be taken when the board meets next Saturday. Formal confirmation is not yet forthcoming, but the belief is general that on Saturday "John Carter" will be freed.

BODY OF MAN ONCE RICH LIES IN MORGUE UNCLAIMED.

Undertaker Holding Remains of S. N. Denton, Harvard Graduate, in Hopes of Saving Them from Dissection.

The body of Stephen H. Denton, Harvard graduate and veteran of the Mexican and civil wars, lies in a west side undertaking establishment, and is threatened with dissection.

Denton once possessed wealth, and was associated with his brother, John, in the dry goods business in Iowa. Friends and relatives appear to have vanished with his riches. He possessed but $2.15, a pawn ticket for his watch, and some old clothes when he was admitted to the Dunning infirmary early in January, and not a person visited him or made inquiry concerning the progress of the disease which carried him off last Saturday, and none has claimed the body.

Soon after his death his body was turned over to J. D. McRae & Co., undertakers at 1723 West Madison street, and members of the firm have since made inquiry for relatives, while the Demonstrators' association, the organization which distributes the bodies of paupers among the medical colleges, has made preparations to cart it away. Mr. McRae, however, is holding on in the hope that some friend or relative will yet come to the front and offer decent burial.

WANTS U. S. TO WASH MONEY.

Eames MacVeagh Says $200,000 a Year Could Be Saved by Cleaning Bills.

"We must wash our currency bills to prevent their conveying disease germs, and reduce them in size so that they will better fit our pocket books, before we will have approached the ideal in our medium of exchange," said Eames MacVeagh, son of Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the United States treasury, before the South Side Business Men's association last night.

Mr. MacVeagh exhibited a dollar bill, half of which had been washed in chemicals at the Philadelphia mint and the other half left as it was when received. There was the same noticeable difference as in a clean collar and one worn a week without change.

Mr. MacVeagh said that the government would save from $200,000 to $600,000 annually by washing its paper currency instead of destroying it.

HATER OF WOMEN! KITCHENER ONE?

General Comes with That Reputation, but "Lady Reporter" Who Asks About It Is Still Guessing.

CHUCKLES AND HAS FUN.

Warrior, in Chicago, Does Not Deny Imputation, but Admits He Must Live Up to Stories.

Is Lord Horatio Herbert Kitchener a woman hater? Or does he merely ignore the sex? Or is he having a good time pretending?

The warrior was in Chicago yesterday. He remained here too short a time to settle many burning questions, particularly where they related to opinions representing the accumulated sentiment of a life of activity. But one reputation had preceded him to America, and this was of sufficient importance to snatch a "lady reporter" from her regular duties and send her to present the question pointblank to his lordship. In its inquisitorial form it went something like this:

"Lord Kitchener, you have the reputation of being the longest term woman hater in all the British isles. Is this correct?"

To be sure a woman had to do it. How could even a fighting English lord remain unperturbed, retain his innate gallantry, and at the same time tell a woman face to face that her sex was not to his liking? Listen.

Surprised, but Shakes Hands.

Lord Kitchener arrived in Chicago at 1 p. m. from the orient, coming on the Overland Limited. He was here but an hour and a half. As he was about to leave from the La Salle station an interviewer appeared. For just one fleeting moment a look of grave surprise crossed his face when he saw that a woman was at his elbow. Then he smiled and shook hands.

As to the reporter, she reminded herself of the small boy who repeated his mother's errand so often on the way to the store that he had forgotten it when he arrived. She had repeated the question in its inquisitorial form all the way over to the La Salle street station all right, but it is so easy to rehearse to a passing street crowd and so hard to put the questions right to a man when he is a big, bronzed individual with a long string of victories at his belt. She swallowed, cleared her throat, tried to stretch her drying lips into a smile, look straight into his eyes, and—there it was out, as per rehearsal. Suppose he had said, gruffly: "And whose business is it?" Suppose he had. What argument could one have used?

Must Live Up to Reputation.

But he didn't. He just laughed, a low, little, "chuckling" laugh, and said, quietly:

"Well, one always must live up to one's reputation, you know."

"O," said the reporter, "then it is true, Lord Kitchener?"

His blue eyes, which look out frankly, danced mischievously.

"No, no; I can't say that, you know; I can't really say that; but, as I say, one has some reputations which must be lived up to."

"At least," went on the questioner, "we trust the feeling applies only to individuals, not to woman as a whole."

"Absolutely, absolutely," replied the fighter, relapsing into an amused silence.

Why didn't he volunteer something nice about the sex? A dragged out compliment is worse than none. The reporter had a brilliant thought.

He Doesn't Commit Himself.

"And the American woman," she persisted. Inwardly she was saying:

"Ah, here is the subject upon which all of them commit themselves."

But to Lord Kitchener she said:

"Have you met many American women on this trip?"

For a moment he became serious.

"No," he said; "no," and the reporter tried hard to convince herself there was a shade of disappointment in his tone. But there he stopped.

"But you have known many of them in England?"

"O, yes; I have met many American women over there."

Why didn't he add "and always I have found them charming"?

"Well," said the reporter, resignedly, "While we are on the subject of women, Lord Kitchener, won't you tell us what you think of the English suffragettes?"

And then Lord Kitchener did laugh.

Never Has Seen One.

"To tell the truth," he replied, "they did not exist when I left England. You see it has been eight years since I have been home and really, you know, I do not know her, so I truly haven't thought of her at all."

Not even the militant suffragette had gained his attention and thought! And this from Lord Kitchener—strong, manly, frank, entertaining, the essence of courtesy and polish, a hero many times over, the combination which all femininity has adored since the beginning of time.

So, is he or isn't he? He says only as to individuals, not as a whole, but is Lord Kitchener's "whole" made up of all the feminine individuals? Woman in general is interested because some woman in particular is missing a great deal. And if it's true, a pity 'tis.

Arrives from Australia.

Lord Kitchener arrived in the city direct from San Francisco. He has been studying army conditions in Australia for the British government, instituting reforms, and collecting information which he is shortly to deliver to the government colonial department. He said that he was making the trip across the country as quickly as possible and that he would sail as soon as he could after reaching New York. He left the city over the Lake Shore route on the Twentieth Century limited.

TWAIN HOME; TOO ILL TO WALK

Humorist in Precarious Condition, Says His Doctor.

SOUGHT HEALTH IN BERMUDA

Daughter's Death Last Winter Shock to Man Already Weak.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Mark Twain, who has been seeking health in Bermuda for several months, returned home extremely ill today on the steamer Oceana.

Dr. Edward S. Quintard, his physician, who has known the humorist intimately for many years, or, as the doctor himself remarked, "since I was knee high to him," said he was suffering from angina pectoris, and that he might live five years and might die in five minutes.

The humorist was not too ill to make an effort to walk after he had been assisted from his berth this afternoon, but he soon found that the willingness of the spirit was not backed by the strength of the flesh. As he was brought down the gangplank in an invalid's chair he smiled at the newspaper men who had seen him go away, and remarked as a photographer took a snapshot of him, "I am not so strong as I was when you snapped me before."

Too Feeble to Stand Alone.

A coach ambulance had been called to the pier and the humorist was lifted into it and taken to the Grand Central station. He wanted to make an effort to walk to the Pullman car of the train on the New Haven line, but abandoned it after finding he was too feeble to stand alone. He was helped into the car by Dr. Edward S. Halsey, who accompanied him to his home, Stormfield, in Redding, Conn., which was reached tonight.

The sudden death of his daughter last winter had a depressing effect on Mr. Clemens, and when he returned to Bermuda he was in poor health. He had been ill of heart trouble more than a year. He was unaware of the nature of his ailment, and attributed the pain in his left side to indigestion. Until about two weeks ago he was doing well in Bermuda, being strong enough to attend several social functions and take walks in the neighborhood of his hotel.

Albert Bigelow Paine, who is assistant in the preparation of the Clemens biography, went down to Bermuda recently and found Mr. Clemens suffering. He said he thought the warm weather was "too much" for him, and believed he would feel better in his Connecticut home. Mr. Paine hired a special tug to take him out to the Oceana, as it was thought he might be crowded uncomfortably on the tender. He went immediately to his stateroom and came out only once on the trip.

Seasick for Awhile.

The air was hot in the Gulf stream, and the sea a bit rough. This affected Mr. Clemens, who is normally a good sailor. He was seasick for awhile, and this did not improve his condition. After the Oceana got out of the Gulf stream, he picked up somewhat and this morning sat up, and after eating breakfast walk a little.

Mr. Paine sent a wireless message to Dr. Quintard, who was at the pier when the Oceana arrived, as were Mrs. Edward E. Loomis, Mr. Clemens' niece; Robert Collier, and Dr. Halsey. It was decided to let the humorist rest a while before removing him. After making an examination of Mr. Clemens, Dr. Quintard said:

"I think Mr. Clemens about a week or so ago had a heart attack much more serious than any preceding one. He seems easier just now, than he has been for some time. As every one knows, angina pectoris is a dangerous affection of the heart. I can say that he looks better than I expected to find him."

Free ice boxes and almost free music are two charities planned by the philanthropy department of the Chicago Woman's club for the coming summer.

The ice boxes, small portable ones, will be furnished by a manufacturer at cost and will be distributed among the poor of the city, accompanied by lectures, delivered through an interpreter, on the necessity of cleanliness in their use.

The music will be distributed through Sunday concerts given by members of the Thomas orchestra at the Art institute, at which an admission fee of 10 cents will be charged. The object of the fee is to hold down the attendance to a point at which it can be handled and to pay the expenses.

Arrangements for carrying out the ideas were discussed at a department luncheon held yesterday in honor of Mrs. Porter Heywood, the outgoing chairman of the department, and Mrs. John B. Sherwood, its incoming head.

TWO CHILDREN ARE INJURED BY AUTOMOBILES IN STREET.

Both Are Bruised on the Head and Are Taken to Hospitals for Medical Attention.

An automobile belonging to Dr. Michael Naughton, 4109 Vincennes avenue, in which the physician, with his wife and two children were riding, struck George Fifer, 7 years old, as the boy was crossing Michigan avenue at Twenty-fourth street last night with his sister Blanche, who is 12 years old.

After the accident Dr. Naughton put the injured boy into the automobile and took him to Mercy hospital. Dr. Naughton said the child was bruised severely on the head. The boy lives at 519 West Twenty-fifth place.

James Glasten, 9 years old, was knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by R. F. Church, 5304 Lakewood avenue, and was hurt about the head and back. He was taken to Passavant hospital. The boy lives at 65 Maple street.

OAK PARK GOES AFTER "L" ROAD

Village Board Again Orders Company to Elevate Tracks—Police to Stop Trains if Disobeyed.

The Oak Park village board last night passed an ordinance giving to the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated railroad eighty days in which to prepare specifications for elevation. After approval a further period of eighty days is allowed in which to start the active work. If the road does not obey, the police then will stop the trains.

WOMEN HISS TAFT; ANGRY AT SPEECH

Tells Them He Fears Grant of Suffrage Would Bring Undesirable Female Voters to the Polls.

REBUKES NOISY HEARERS.

The Rev. Anna Shaw Follows with Address Declaring Association Indorses President's Views.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—President Taft was hissed in the course of his speech to the National American Woman Suffrage convention tonight.

Facing an audience composed of 1,000 women and twenty-five men, he had smiled the famous Taft smile and had been greeted with tumultuous applause. His audience seemed sensible of the fact that he was the first chief executive of the nation to greet a convention of the association in the forty-two years of its existence.

And then, when he voiced his conviction that the present was not the time to grant suffrage to women, his hearers turned from a friendly, applauding assemblage to one of disapproval. A murmur of dissent started and was caught up in the various parts of the hall. Then there were hisses from some of the women.

Calls for More Self-Restraint.

With a gesture President Taft quelled the outbreak of hisses and in a level voice reminded his hearers that self-restraint was the first test of fitness for self-government.

That quieted the demonstration, but the remainder of the president's speech, on which the suffragettes had built such high hopes, was delivered to a comparatively unresponsive audience.

When the president left the platform and wended his way out of the room there was a flutter of applause, but it seemed to be not so spontaneous as that which had marked his welcome.

Officers of the association expressed deep regret that the president of the United States should have been treated "so deplorably," but they pointed to the fact that a majority of the audience was made up of outsiders not delegates to the convention, and charged that the former were responsible for the hissing.

Says It Was Unintentional.

Mrs. Avery, first vice president, said that "under any consideration, no matter what he said, there should have been enough respect among those present not to hiss the president. It was an unintentional, spontaneous outbreak, although that is not sufficient excuse to make it entirely forgivable."

Miss Elizabeth Hauser of New York said: "I think the demonstration was outrageous. Of course the president did not make a good woman suffrage speech, but we regret exceedingly that he was hissed."

Other officers expressed themselves similarly. One of the delegates, however, announced herself as one of those who started the hissing, "after which," she said, "the strangers within our gates standing along the walls took it up."

Fears Undesirable Women Voters.

The president's remark to which the audience took exception was that his political experience had been such as to lead him to believe that if women were granted the ballot at this time female suffrage would be monopolized by an undesirable class of women.

He admitted that on his graduation from the Cincinnati high school he had delivered a fervent oration in favor of woman suffrage, but said he had become a backslider from the perfect faith of his youthful days. He said he still believed in the theory, but held grave doubts as to its practicability.

It was along in the middle of the evening's program that President Taft, preceded by his aid, Capt. Archibald Wallingford De Graffenreid Clavering Butt, in full uniform, entered the packed hall in the Arlington hotel. He was received by a delegation of women in summery evening dress, wearing orange streamers inscribed with the slogan: "Votes for women."

While the suffragists rose with unanimous acclaim for the chief magistrate Mr. Taft was led up the center aisle and seated on the platform beneath a garlanded portrait of Susan B. Anthony and between two immense banners, one of which proclaimed that "Women as well as men support families," while the other blazoned forth a long list of the world organizations, numbering millions of individuals, which have indorsed female suffrage.

Says He Was Assured of Welcome.

With the remark that for the first time in its history the association was entertaining a president of the United States, Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery, who presided, introduced Mr. Taft to the audience.

"I am not entirely certain," began the president, "that I ought to have come tonight, but your committee who invited me assured me that I would be welcome, even if I did not support all the views which were to be advanced. I considered that this movement represented a sufficient part of the intelligence of the community to justify my coming here to welcome you to Washington.

"The difficulty I expect to encounter is this, at least it is a difficulty that occurs to me as I judge of my own feeling in causes in which I have an intense interest, to wit: That I am always a good deal more impatient with those who only go half way with me than I am with those who actually oppose me.

"Now, when I was 16 years old, and was graduated from the Woodward High school in Cincinnati, I took for my subject, "Woman suffrage," and I was as strong an advocate of woman suffrage as any member of this convention. I had read Mills' "Subjection of Woman"; my father was a woman suffragist, and so at that time I was orthodox. But in the actual political experience which I have had I have modified my views somewhat.

Voters All Should Be Intelligent.

"In the first place, popular representative government we approve and support, because on the whole every class, that is, every set of individuals who are similarly situated in the community, who are intelligent enough to know what their own interests are, is better qualified to determine how those interests shall be cared for and preserved than any other class, however altruistic that class may be.

"But I call your attention to two qualifications in that statement—one is that the class should be intelligent enough to know its own interests. The theory that Hottentots or any uneducated, altogether unintelligent class, is fitted for self-government at once, or to take part in government, is a theory that I wholly dissent from, but this qualification is not applicable to the question here.

"The other qualification to which I call your attention is that the class should, as a whole, care enough to look after its interests to take part as a whole in the exercise of political power, if it is conferred. Now, if it does not care enough for this, then it seems to me that the danger is, if the power is conferred, that it may be exercised by that part of the class least desirable as political constituents, and be neglected by many of those who are intelligent and patriotic and would be most desirable as members of the electorate."

Storm of Disapproval Halts Him.

The last phrase of this sentence was drowned out in the volume of murmurs of disapproval and hisses. Mr. Taft continued, after a moment:

"Now, my dear ladies, you must show yourselves equal to self-government by exercising, in listening to opposing arguments, that degree of restrain without which successful self-government is impossible.

"If I could be sure that women as a class in the community, including all the intelligent women most desirable as political constituents, would exercise the franchise, I should be in favor of it. At present there is considerable doubt upon this point.

"In certain of the states which have tried it, woman suffrage has not been a failure. It has not made, I think, any substantial difference in politics. I think it is perhaps possible to say that its adoption has shown an improvement in the body politic, but it has been tested only in those states where the population is sparse and where the problem of intrusting such power to women in the concentrated population of great cities is not presented.

"For this reason, if you will permit me to say so, my impression is that the task before you in obtaining what you think ought to be granted in respect to the political rights of women is not in convincing men, but it is in convincing the majority of your own class of the wisdom of extending the suffrage to them and of their duty to exercise it.

Glad to Welcome Earnest Women.

"Now, that is my confession of faith. I am glad to welcome you here. I am glad to welcome an intelligent body of women, earnest in the discussion of politics, earnest in the question of good government, and earnest and high minded in the cause they are pursuing, even if I disagree with them, not in principle, but in the application of it to the present situation.

"More than this I ought not to say, and I hope you will not deem me ungracious in saying as much as I have said, but I came here at the invitation of your committee, with the understanding as to what I might say, and that I should not subscribe to all the principles that you are here to advocate.

"I congratulate you on coming to Washington, this most beautiful of cities, to hold your convention. I trust that it may result in everything that you hope for, and I am sure that the coming together of honest, intelligent, and earnest women like these cannot but be productive of good."

The Rev. Anna Shaw in Reply.

As soon as the president had left the hall President Shaw, whose address had been interrupted by the presidential visit, resumed with this reply to the distinguished visitor:

"There was not one word uttered by President Taft with which this association is not in entire accord. Nor did he utter one word which could be considered in opposition to the suffrage for which we are working. We indorse the view of President Taft in every particular, and we go further. We do not believe that a Hottentot from the jungle should exercise the right of suffrage, nor do we believe that right should be exercised by the unfit in any class, and we believe this should be true not only of women but of men."

"We differ with President Taft only in this. We do not draw a line placing on one side the fit and the unfit, the educated and the illiterate, the wise and the otherwise, the drunk and the sober, among the men, and, on the other side, the fit and the unfit, the educated and the illiterate, the wise and the otherwise, the drunk and the sober among the women, but we draw the line horizontally, placing the fit and desirable citizens above and the unfit and the undesirable below."

Much Money Is Contributed.

A generous offering of money for the cause was delivered into the baskets of the pretty girl collectors with the orange "Votes for Women" badges, while Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Warren, O., the treasurer of the organization, induced a loosening up spirit with a fire of gentle raillery.

She told how she started out as an antisuffragist by attending a meeting to scoff at the cause—a meeting which was attended by only one man, the janitor, who hid until he thought the women had departed and then lost an overshoe and fell into a gutter in his haste to escape, upon being discovered.

"Times have changed since those days," observed Mrs. Upton. "The man who escorted me to that meeting to scoff I never have seen since. I won't say how long ago it was. Not that I am ashamed of my age, for I am not like one woman on this platform whose portrait appeared together with mine in a morning paper, but whose portrait was taken fully sixty years ago. When I go to a convention I leave my daguerreotype at home."

She said those who had left their purses or their husbands' purses at home might borrow pencils and write a pledge of funds. A woman near the platform playfully asked Mrs. Upton if she did not want a pencil herself.

One Woman Voted for Taft.

"Now the woman who asked that," retorted Mrs. Upton, "is perhaps the only woman here who ever voted for a president of the United States. You are always being asked to present something to me, so I will present her to you, that you may see how masculine and how utterly unfeminine a woman becomes after she exercises the right of suffrage."

At this a comely woman arose, ascended the platform, and was presented as Mrs. L. H. Deming of Ohio, Wyo.

"She said she voted for Taft," pursued Mrs. Upton, "and when I asked her if she would do it again she replied: 'Well, that depends.' I wish President Taft were here so that we might see him shake hands with her. I once asked President McKinley why he shook hands with a Colorado woman so vigorously. He said he didn't, but he did just the same. You see there is something in it. We women get more attention when we have the franchise."

Senator Owen of Oklahoma made a vigorous appeal for woman suffrage, declaring that the future hope of the republic lay in giving the ballot to woman. He said woman suffrage in Oklahoma was defeated by the liquor interests.

One Lone Man Delegate.

Congressman Rucker of Colorado, the only male delegate accredited to the convention, was the principal novelty on the program at the afternoon session. He was called upon to report progress in the suffrage movement in Colorado, on behalf of the president of the state organization whose proxy he held.

"Sister workers in the common cause," was the greeting of the congressman, who then proceeded to describe in detail the refining influence of women on primaries, conventions, and elections in Colorado, since the ballot was given her.

"Primary and election voting places are located in private residences largely," he said, "and the cuspidor has almost disappeared from the convention halls since women began to take a hand in political affairs in Colorado. The politicians have been compelled to cut profanity out of their vocabularies and campaign managers vie with each other to put up candidates whose decency will pass muster at the hands of the feminine electorate."

Mrs. Ella Stewart, president of the Illinois organization, reported the organization of twenty new suffrage clubs in Illinois, the opening of permanent headquarters in the Fine Arts building in Chicago, and general progress in carrying on the propaganda.

COLE 'GOES TO MAT' WITH SULLIVAN

Former President of L. V. L. Charges Democrats Name Too Few Candidates.

OTHER SEES PARTY RISK.

Committeeman Fears Attempt to Gain Many Assembly Seats Would Mean Loss.

George E. Cole and Roger C. Sullivan went to the mat yesterday in a dispute over the Democratic party's failure to nominate two candidates for the legislature, house branch, in every senatorial district of the state. The former president of the Legislative Voters' league cited the inconsistency of appealing for independents' votes for the gubernatorial nominee while nominating for the legislature so few candidates that the election of every one would not have given the party a majority of the house or general assembly.

"I have not received Mr. Cole's letter," said the national committeeman from Illinois, "but my answer is this: I will favor the nomination of two Democrats for the house in every senatorial district where thereby the party does not run an imminent risk of losing even its one representative through the success of a third party man or independent taking advantage of our split vote. There should be more Democratic nominees for the house than two years ago, owing to the improved prospects of the party, but I cannot predict how many of the districts that named one will nominate two in September."

Scoffs at "Call to Arms."

Mr. Cole's fire was drawn by Mr. Sullivan's speech before the Iroquois club Wednesday night, referred to in the following letter:

"Mr. Roger C. Sullivan, Chicago.

"My Dear Sir: You are quoted in today's papers as having issued a 'call to arms' to the Democratic party, in which you say: 'If any one wants to assert himself or make his individualism count, he can best do it, and ought to do it within the party organization.'

"Let me ask you how you expect this to be done when the Democratic party refused in 1908 to nominate enough legislative candidates to give that party a majority in the legislature, even if every one of its nominees had been elected? In that campaign you appealed to the independent voters to support your candidate for governor, in spite of the fact that you and your party associates had already practically disfranchised these same independent voters as to the legislature. Do you call this practical politics?

"Inasmuch as this letter deals with a public matter, I shall take the liberty of giving it to the press and will be glad if you will do likewise in replying.

"Yours very truly,

"GEORGE E. COLE."

Democrats Play Checkers.

Democrats began to play lively checkers during the day, taking their cue from a remark by Chairman W. L. O'Connell of the county committee in favor of giving all factions of the party "equitable representation" on the slate for the county primaries. Committeeman Sullivan said he was for a "harmony deal," welcomed the Hearst followers back to the party, and said that the county committee should work out the method of apportioning the offices on the "official slate" among the factions of the party and the divisions of the city.

"Caucuses in the different sections of the city would be impracticable," he said.

This comment was induced by promulgation of a "harmony plan" that was offered from non-Sullivan quarters as being a fair method of "getting together," since it gave no initial advantage nor control to either the Harrison, Dunne, or Sullivan wings.

City in Eight Divisions.

As a first step, it was proposed to map the city into eight natural political divisions, to be represented in their respective caucuses by their resident county committeemen and a few men, mostly mayoralty candidates, whose prominence in the party entitles them to consideration. This was reduced to writing, as follows:

Lake View—Committeemen and former Mayor Dunne.

North side—Committeemen and former Mayor Harrison and James Hamilton Lewis.

South town—Committeemen and Charles F. Gunther and John Barton Payne.

Hyde Park—Committeemen and Edgar B. Tolman.

Town of Lake—Committeemen and John E. Traeger.

West side—Committeemen and Roger C. Sullivan, Andrew J. Graham, and John W. Eckhart.

Southwest side—Committeemen only.

Northwest side—Committeemen only.

In this list the possible mayoralty candidates are Dunne, Harrison, Lewis, Gunther, Traeger, Graham, and Eckhart. Their presence, it was said, would operate to prevent undue factional representation, owing to their desire to see the party harmonized for the election next spring. The plan contemplates that the men above named, other than committeemen, first meet and indicate the offices for which nominations should be made from the different sections of the city, with regard also to nationalities. The selections to be recommended for the nominations, according to the scheme, then would be made by the full sized divisional caucuses.

Sullivan's Welcome to Hearst.

In his welcome to the Hearst followers, Committeeman Sullivan said:

"I assume that the return of William Randolph Hearst and the Independence leaguers to the Democratic party is indicated by last night's speech of John Temple Graves. It is a sign of the times. It indicates that those who may have been in a minority in the Democratic party in other years believe that the proper place to press their views is within the party fold.

"Mr. Hearst and his followers are welcome. We that have always stood with the party are glad to have them back. The more the merrier, and the better the party's prospects of success at the polls, both locally, in Chicago and Cook county, and nationally in the coming contest for the presidency, preceded by the campaign for control of congress."

CLUB MEMBERS ARE ANGERED; EXPLORER SHACKLETON CAUSE.

Twentieth Century Organization Says He Broke Lecture Contract for More Money from Geographic Society.

Whether Sir Ernest Shackleton, south pole explorer, will lecture to the Twentieth Century club before, after, or during his engagement with the Chicago Geographic society on May 9 is a matter of some uncertainty to everybody, especially to the Twentieth Century club.

Whether Mr. Shackleton will lecture to the Twentieth Century club at all is a matter of more uncertainty still. Some in the organization say he will not, for the reason that there won't be any Twentieth Century club assembled for him to lecture to.

This, at least, is the way they feel at present. They say that after closing an agreement to pay the explorer $200 for speaking before them on the evening of May 5, the Chicago Geographic society induced him to violate his contract and appear before it on May 9.

Prof. Henry J. Cox, in charge of the arrangements for May 9, says the Geographic society insisted on written assurance that he would give his first lecture in the city before the society.

Franklin Head, president of the Twentieth Century club, says:

"The managers of Mr. Shackleton broke the contract with us because he could get a tour, with paid admissions, under the auspices of the Geographic society, meaning more money."

DEMOCRATS BALK AT HEARST

Willing to Accept Erring One in Ranks Only as Private.

TALK AT THE CAPITAL.

Leaders Suspicious of the Motives of Independents.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—The Democracy of the nation, as it is represented in the opposition forces of the two houses of congress, did not warm up today to the tentative proposal made by the Hearst forces at last night's banquet, for a burying of old controversies.

Democratic leaders would not commit themselves to a definite policy or a straightforward opinion. There is a large amount of suspicion as to what the Hearst proposal really means, and as to the degree of authority vested by Mr. Hearst in John Temple Graves, the former Independence League candidate for vice president, who held out the olive branch at the Democratic gathering.

Balk at Hearst Dictation.

If the party has to surrender all old leaders and accept certain terms that Mr. Hearst proposes the Democracy will not be in a hurry to gather the Independence party into its fold. This was made clear by the attitude of the Democrats today.

They are willing to have all the erring ones who followed the Independence party banner in 1908 join with the traditional Democracy for the approaching elections, but upon what terms the property of the Independence party will be taken over is too much for the self-constituted leaders of the party to determine at this time.

Silent on the Bryan Letter.

The letter from W. J. Bryan to the Jefferson day banquet is laid aside for future discussion. Prominent Democrats of the house and senate profess to believe it orthodox in every way, and to accept it as an innocuous Bryan document.

It has become apparent that the banquet last night, notwithstanding the participation of Hearst and Bryan by proxy, will not be allowed to mark the beginning of a Democratic campaign.

VOTE TO END BIG CAR STRIKE

Philadelphia Committee Favors Proposal by Company.

DECISION IS A SURPRISE.

Federation of Labor Is a Factor in the Action.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14.—The committee of nineteen, composed of representatives of striking motormen and conductors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company tonight voted in favor of accepting a settlement offered by the company through representatives of the American Federation of Labor.

The terms have not been made public, but it is said they include many features of the proposal made through Mayor Reyburn on March 20, when the company agreed to take back all the strikers and to guarantee them $2 a day until regular runs could be secured for them. The cases of the 174 men whose discharge precipitated the strike on Feb. 19 will be submitted to arbitration.

News that the committee of nineteen, and C. O. Pratt, national organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés, were to meet tonight to vote on an offered settlement came as a surprise, as it was believed all negotiations were at an end.

The transit company has been hiring new men every day since their first offer of settlement was refused, and only yesterday representatives of the company claimed to have enough men to operate all their cars on the schedules in effect before the strike was declared.

The strikers claimed their ranks were unbroken and that more than 5,000 men were on strike.

Since the beginning of the strike twenty-eight persons have been killed by trolley cars. These accidents, the strikers claimed, were caused by inexperienced motormen.

DOROTHY DUNNE IS BETTER

Daughter of Former Mayor Surprises Doctors by Rallying.

MOTHER NOW ON WAY HERE.

Father Gets News and Delays Return from Coast.

Dorothy Dunne, daughter of former Mayor Dunne, contrary to the expectations of physicians, rallied yesterday and was decidedly better by night.

A long telegraph letter containing this information was sent to meet her mother on the train on which the latter is speeding to Chicago from Los Angeles in the hope that she may reach her daughter's bedside before death. The message reached Mrs. Dunne at Albuquerque, N. M.

Mr. Dunne was informed of Dorothy's improvement and was advised that he might stop another day in Los Angeles and deliver the speech before the California association last night for which he was scheduled. He probably will leave at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Dorothy has been ill with rheumatism of the heart for almost three months. About two months ago her life was despaired of by the physicians, but she recovered from the sinking spell and slowly grew stronger.

In spite of the little girl's brave efforts not to be a burden, the responsibility of caring for her and her little sister, who has been an invalid since birth, and of her grandfather, Edward Kelley, began to tell on Mrs. Dunne, and the doctor urged her to take the trip to the coast.

NORTH SHORE GIRL WEDS A PRISONER

Miss Lillian Jenkins Becomes the Bride of Man Who Is Awaiting Trial.

PAROLED FOR WEDDING.

Groom Returns to His Cell Hour After Ceremony Performed by Judge Dupuy.

Miss Lillian Jenkins, 20 years old, was married yesterday to Frederick Hilliard Coyne, a prisoner in the Cook county jail under the name of Fred Hilliard and under indictment and awaiting trial on the charge of receiving stolen property. The marriage was a civil ceremony, performed by Judge George A. Dupuy in chambers after his hours of court.

Miss Jenkins, who is the daughter of Mrs. Anna C. Jenkins, 4334 Clarendon avenue, appeared before Assistant County Clerk Salomonson and took out the license. Then it developed that the bridegroom-to-be was a prisoner. He was arrested on March 10.

After obtaining the license the problem of the marriage confronted the couple. Efforts to have the ceremony performed by a minister met with no success, the clergymen who were called up hastily over the telephone being out.

Groom Paroled for Wedding.

Finally the facts in the case were placed before Judge Dupuy and the jurist consented to perform the civil marriage service in his chambers. This decision was communicated to Deputy Sheriff Spangenberg and Coyne was paroled for an hour in custody of a bailiff to attend his own wedding.

While the bridegroom and his guardian made the journey from the jail to Judge Dupuy's courtroom the final arrangements for the wedding were made by Miss Jenkins and Attorney James E. Callahan, Coyne's counsel, who had been called up on the telephone and apprised of the couple's determination to marry.

Assistant State's Attorney Sullivan, who happened to be trying a case before Judge Dupuy in the afternoon, was called in as a witness. Neither relatives nor friends of either the bride or bridegroom were informed of the contemplated marriage, the wedding party retiring to Judge Dupuy's chambers as soon as Coyne and the bailiff appeared.

Then, the Separation.

The ceremony was performed quickly, and then came the moment of separation. The bride threw herself weeping into the arms of her husband, while judge, clerk, attorneys, and bailiffs moved to the outer courtroom, touched by the scene. After many farewells and embraces the bailiff informed his prisoner that the hour of parole had expired, and the two left the courtroom for the return trip to the jail. The bride, sobbing, and almost in a state of collapse, left the courtroom a few minutes later and proceeded to her home unattended.

Inquiries at the Jenkins residence at night met with response from the maid that Mrs. Jenkins and her daughter had gone out together in the forenoon and had not returned. The maid said that the mother knew nothing of her daughter's contemplated marriage nor of the actual ceremony.

"It was my duty to perform the ceremony, in my opinion," said Judge Dupuy in the evening. "In this case I refused to perform the ceremony until all the facts were made known to me, and then there was nothing else to do."

TRUST IN RUBBER? FEDERAL INQUIRY

Sims Launches It After Merriam Board's Fire Department Investigation.

AGREEMENT NOT TO BID.

Government Said to Attach Significance to Horan's Story of Dealers' Action.

Government inquiry into the workings of an alleged rubber "trust," with its attendant possibility of prosecution, was forecast yesterday as one of the results of the work of the Merriam commission.

Because of the showing made in the testimony in connection with the purchase of fire hose before the commission on Tuesday United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims assigned an assistant to watch the developments in the case and determine whether evidence of a "combination in restraint of trade" may be obtained.

Alfred R. Hulbert was the assistant detailed for the work, and, although both he and Mr. Sims refused to make any statement, it was known that the case had a serious aspect because of the position of the national board of fire underwriters. That body quietly has been endeavoring to bring about a federal prosecution of the "trust" for more than a year.

Oppose Standard Fire Hose?

The motive of the board in the matter is derived from the fact, it is said, that the alleged combination has opposed the board in its demand for the adoption of standard specifications for fire hose. It has been reported that representatives of the manufacturers in the "understanding" signed an agreement not to bid on municipal contracts in connection with which specifications were made.

The attention of the Merriam commission was drawn to the "trust" the second time in connection with the city's fire hose. The first time was when the subject of automobile tires was under investigation. It was found there that the alleged combination fixed rates on all classes of tires and that a change in prices—in this instance an increase—was observed throughout the market simultaneously.

Because of the abolition of the city automobiles the commission did not take up this matter in its public hearings, but the question of fire hose was deemed of sufficient importance to devote to it a large part of the time of the Tuesday hearing. This was conducted by Walter L. Fisher, who pressed closely on the question of the combination.

Horan Trusts the Manufacturers.

Fire Marshall James Horan testified that the National Board of Fire Underwriters had standard specifications for fire hose, but that he thought "the people who made the hose ought to know best how to make it." He said that New York, St. Louis, and Milwaukee had advertised for bids on these specifications and that not a single bid had been received in reply. He declared that it was the opinion of hose manufacturers that the underwriters' board was not competent to draw specifications for "the men who have been making hose for thirty or thirty-five years."

The examination from this point proceeded:

Question—The fire insurance companies have their regular experts?

Answer—They have a standard they call the national standard.

Q.—They have a corps of experts with all sorts of apparatus for constructing?

A.—Yes.

Q.—They maintain a laboratory here in the city, I think?

A.—Yes.

Q.—That is for the national board all over the country?

A.—Yes. They probably have forty cities in the country—sometimes a laboratory.

Describes Laboratory Test.

Q.—These men consider that hose will comply with a certain specification to be required by a fire department?

A.—Yes, they mention how the inner and outer weave should be made, and the kind of cotton that should be in it, and that more than 40 per cent Para rubber should be used in the inner tube. Imagine if the manufacturer was going to put in 40 per cent, that he would charge you for 40 per cent, and they should know what combination goes into the manufacture—more about it than the people that are not in the hose business. One of the times we took it on ourselves to send our hose to the laboratory, was to find out the difference between the laboratory test and the expert knowledge of the men that made the hose. My experience after sending the different samples to the laboratory is that there is no result from the test although they made a written report.

Later in the hearing, Chief Horan testified that he recently had told the city controller that the manufactures "had an agreement about the price of hose, and that they didn't care whether you buy it or not." He explained that the underwriters had sent their specifications to every fire marshal in the country and asked that they be used.

Tells of Refusal to Bid.

"The hose men called a meeting in New York," he went on, "with all the large manufacturers in reaching distance and said: 'Are you going to bid on this hose?' 'No.' 'Why aren't you going to bid?' 'Because we won't bid on specifications of any city. We won't let the national board tell us how to make hose.'"

It was this testimony that called the attention of District Attorney Sims to the possibility that some of the long sought evidence against the rubber "trust," might be brought out through the Merriam investigation.

This afternoon the Merriam commission will take up in public hearing for the first time the conduct of the city's penal institution, the house of correction. Before going into that subject, which has been investigated by T. W. Betak, the commission's expert who has been studying the city's special assessment business, Chairman Merriam will offer to John J. Hanberg, commissioner of public works, an opportunity to be heard on the purchase of gray iron castings from the T. A. Cummings Foundry company before the report on that subject, which criticises him, goes to the council.

Alvin Stern and Frank Kiss were arrested yesterday in Pittsburg on complaint of State's Attorney Wayman, who charges them with obtaining jewelry and silverware valued at $700 by false pretenses from John S. Townsend, a jeweler at 1554 Wabash avenue.

It is alleged that Stern, who was acquainted with the jeweler, introduced Kiss as a prospective purchaser and obtained the goods.

Jeweler Townsend was an unsuccessful candidate for the city council at the last election, his opponent being Ald. John J. Coughlin.

Wife Agrees to Pay $30 for a "Slow Poison"; Is Trapped.

ADMITS LOVING ANOTHER.

Persuaded Spouse to Be Insured for $3,000; Three Under Arrest.

Two men and a woman are under arrest, and detectives are searching for a third man, implicated in what is believed to be a remarkable murder plot, with love as a motive, and jealousy, the influence that prompted one of the alleged plotters to betray the others.

Mrs. Mary Kuprina, 918 Twenty-third street, Melrose Park, the woman, yesterday admitted that she planned to poison her husband after getting him to be insured for $3,000, because of her love for Frank Demovitch, who boarded at her house.

Julius Kaniff, now under arrest, and said to have been jealous of Demovitch, revealed the alleged plot two weeks ago. He told the police Mrs. Kuprina asked him to help get her "slow poison" to kill her husband.

An arrangement was made with Detectives Vana and Reed, to use the office of Dr. Robert Graves, 2101 South Halsted street.

Agrees to Pay $30 for Poison.

Vana posed as a doctor, when Kaniff brought Mrs. Kuprina there. A written agreement was insisted upon before the "doctor" would give up the poison.

Here is the pact she signed:

It is agreed that I am to pay you the following amount for medicine that will kill my husband, Alexander Kuprina: $5 when the medicine is given to me, $30 when it begins to do the work, and $100 when he dies. Afterward I will see that you are paid more money. I want him to die in three weeks, but not suddenly, because I am afraid I will be arrested for killing him.

Demovitch then was arrested, and in her confession later the woman implicated Kaniff, who also was taken into custody.

Tells of Plan to Elope.

"We had planned to elope, Frank and I," she asserted. "Kaniff learned of it and said: 'Why don't you put your husband out of the way.' He offered to take us to a doctor who would give me poison that would kill my husband in a month.

"Frank went with me and paid $10 for it. This was three weeks ago. After I gave my husband several doses his appetite got better. I found out the supposed poison was only a tonic."

The other man sought by the police is the "doctor" who was paid $10 for the tonic.

All members of the department will vote at their respective stations.

DARNED UNIFORMS DON'T GO

Schuettler Tells Many Policemen to Purchase New Clothing.

MUST DISCARD OLD HELMETS

Sharply Criticises the Men at Inspection in Garfield Park.

Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler cast his eagle eyes over 1,000 "coppers" in spring uniform yesterday afternoon as they lined up in Garfield park for inspection. As platoon after platoon came to a momentary stand before him at twenty paces, and then wheeled away to the right, he was moved to remark:

"Did you ever see such a bum lot of spring millinery?"

Indeed, it was a sorry lot of bonnets that adorned the noodles of those coppers. Many were ripe old helmets of the vintage of ten years ago, and others of more recent date, which bore the scars of many a hard fought battle in the squadroom.

Must Purchase New Helmets.

"Those bonnets," the assistant chief pursued, "wouldn't be a credit to a fifth rate burlesque show. Don't let me catch you with them on your coco's another time. That goes."

Then he proceeded slowly down the lines for a closer inspection of the men's coats.

"Officer," he said to one policeman, "you've got enough cloth in the patches on that coat to make a new one. You'd better see your tailor in the morning, because you can't wear that ragbag any longer."

Seven Darns Are Too Many.

To another old copper further down the line he said.

"Dan, I told you last year you ought to be ashamed of yourself to make your wife wear her fingers to the bone, with the darnin' of your coat, and now what do I see, 1, 2, 3—seven new darns this year. It won't do, you'll have to get another.

These inspections have been going on for the last two days, and the assistant chief has condemned about 1,000 helmets, and nearly 100 overcoats and trousers.

CONSOLIDATED CASUALTY CO. TELLS AGENTS TO GET BUSY.

Report of Armstrong's Investigation Ready—Chief Offices May Be Removed to West Virginia.

C. C. McChord, new president of the Consolidated Casualty company, of which Robert B. Armstrong was president until deposed by the directors, will come to Chicago next week from Charleston, W. Va. With him will be J. W. Scherr, representative of Insurance Commissioner John R. Darst and new general manager of the company.

It is expected that the general offices will be removed from Chicago to Charleston. Agents have been directed to resume business. A report of Commissioner Darst and the company's officials has been prepared and will be made public within a few days. This report is said to contain much against Armstrong's operations as president.

It also is intimated that criminal action may result. However, Armstrong, still in Chicago, expresses no fear. Armstrong's wife, in poor health, is now in California. It is because of this, according to his friends, that he sold his property at 4830 Greenwood avenue, as he plans to go to California soon himself.

RECEPTION GIVEN BY D. A. R.

Many Members of the Chicago Organization Meet Their State Regent in Fine Arts Building.

Members of the D. A. R. of Chicago gave a reception in Fine Arts building yesterday afternoon for their state regent, Mrs. John C. Ames of Rockford, Ill. It was one of the largest social gatherings of their season, and was marked by the announcement of the candidacy of Mrs. A. C. Bartlett for nomination for the regency.

Both Mrs. Bartlett and Mrs. Lewis K. Torbet, the other nominee, were present. Mrs. Frank L. Wean, the present regent, received with Mrs. Ames.

As Mrs. Bartlett said, some of the daughters looked young enough to be granddaughters. Among these were the young girls who gave the play, "Powder and Patches," before the organization a short time ago, all of whom were especially invited. Mrs. S. Ellwood McGrew, chairman of the social committee, had charge of the entertainment.

WOMAN SUSPECTED OF ARSON

Police Think Mrs. Attie Knight Started Fires in Apartments.

MANY FAMILIES IN DANGER.

Supposed Bedfast Invalid Leaps to Ground Eight Feet Below.

For the second time within a few weeks fire of a mysterious origin started yesterday in the apartments of Mrs. Caroline Latner in the Kingsbury apartment building, Twenty-fourth street and Indiana avenue. There are eighty-four families in the building. If the fire had gained more headway before it was discovered there might have been heavy loss of life.

Mrs. Attie Knight, who is under indictment charged with stealing $438 worth of jewelry from Dr. Nicholas Von Schill, 4252 Groveland avenue, occupies one of the front rooms in Mrs. Latner's flat. Since her indictment Mrs. Knight has been an invalid, unable to leave her room, but when the fire was burning fiercely in her room she jumped out of the window on to the sidewalk eight feet below. Her screams aroused the other occupants of the flat and of the building.

Lieut. Smith of the Cottage Grove avenue police station said he believed Mrs. Knight set fire to her room, either with the intention of committing suicide or to gain sympathy in her coming trial.

She told him that two men came into her room at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning and after binding her to her bed with strips torn from one of the sheets, set the place on fire. This story, the police stated later, was untrue.

Clarence Sydell, a chauffeur who rooms in the flat, told the police that Mrs. Knight set fire to his bed two weeks ago.

Leo Stoeckel, who accidentally started the fire in the L. Fish company furniture store in which ten lives were lost, lives with his parents on the fifth floor of the Kingsbury building. He assisted in rescuing a number of persons.

PROBATION OFFICER SEEKS HOME FOR CRIPPLED ORPHAN.

Hopes Some Benevolent Family Will Take Parental Interest in Little John Williams, 9 Years Old.

In all this great city is there no place for John Williams, 9 years old, a crippled orphan boy. The lad's mother died five years ago and ever since then John Ryan, a probation officer, has been his guardian.

The plight of the boy reveals the fact that there is no institution where crippled orphan children can be cared for permanently, but the lad has an all abiding faith that Probation Officer Ryan, whom he has learned to love as much as a father, will watch over him.

Although he is unusually bright looking, John does not even know his A, B, C's on account of the fact that he has spent most of his life in institutions where no provision is made for teaching children. He has been at the Dunning poor house, the Crippled Children's home, part of the time with a family in the country, and is temporarily staying at the St. Vincent's orphan asylum for infant children.

Soldiers stationed at Fort Sheridan and the Chicago police are searching for two escaped prisoners and a guard in whose charge they were. The trio disappeared yesterday from Fort Sheridan. The men are Paul G. They are believed to have been furnished with civilian clothing by friends, as their uniforms were found behind a fence.

FIGHT ON PARDON OF GILL ROBERTS

Thirteenth Ward Republican Club Demands That He Serve Full Sentence.

CONDEMNS KOPF'S SLAYER

Organization of Which Election Row Victim Was the President Takes Action.

The full term of twenty years imprisonment in the penitentiary would be an insufficient punishment, in the opinion of the Thirteenth Ward Republican club, for George Gill Roberts, who is serving sentence for killing the former president of the organization, John V. Kopf.

Resolutions of protest against Roberts' pardon were adopted last night by a unanimous rising vote of the club, meeting at Limpert's hall, on Van Buren street, near Kedzie avenue.

Vice President Charles F. Driscoll presided. The names of President William H. Baker, Secretary William G. Gregori, and County Committeeman David W. Clark were signed to the resolutions.

Resolutions of Protest.

The resolutions were introduced by Julius A. Schafer and are as follows:

"Whereas, George Gill Roberts, the assassin whose murderous hand took from our midst the honored, respected, and beloved president of the Thirteenth Ward Republican club, John V. Kopf, is now applying for a pardon; and

"Whereas, the cruel circumstances of the convicted felon's heinous crime do not admit of extenuation, palliation, or excuse; and

"Whereas, the punishment meted out to the adjudged criminal, of serving twenty years in the penitentiary, is wholly inadequate to the enormous crime of which he was found guilty; therefore

"Be it resolved, by the Thirteenth Ward Republican club of the city of Chicago assembled, that an earnest protest is hereby entered against the granting of a pardon to said George Gill Roberts, and the board of pardons and governor of Illinois are severally and jointly petitioned and urgently requested to deny said application for a pardon, upon the ground and for the reason that said convicted murderer has not received punishment commensurate to his infamous deed; that said pardon would tend to bring the administration of our criminal law into disrepute and engender disrespect therefor; that such a pardon would encourage assassination in political contests and lend countenance to violating the sanctity of the ballot box.

"Be it resolved further, that a copy of these resolutions be sent the governor and board of pardons."

Postpone Fight on Gregori.

An effort to oust Secretary Gregori from his position on charges that he had "knifed" Ald. Evans and thereby caused the latter's defeat at the recent election had been contemplated, but at the last moment was postponed for one week.

In the meanwhile the council committee on elections may have taken action on the election contest brought by Mr. Evans against the successful Democratic candidate, Ald.-elect James R. Buckley. It was stated last night by Mr. Evans that he would press his accusations against Mr. Gregori, who is a brother-in-law of United States Senator Lorimer.

ELLA GAYGEN IS RELEASED DURING MEYER CASE INQUIRY.

Police Investigation of Murder Centers About Admirer of Young Woman Now at Liberty.

Miss Ella Gaygen, the young woman who was taken in custody in connection with the Meyer murder mystery, was released last night. She went to the residence of her aunt, Mrs. Stewart Littleton, 1049 Garfield boulevard.

The young woman was given her liberty after Capt. Alcock had satisfied himself that she knew nothing of the circumstances that brought about the murder of Henry S. Meyer at the door of his residence at 2951 Quinn street.

Miss Gaygen was confined for nearly four days in a cell at the Thirty-fifth street station and was released while her relatives were planning to begin proceedings to secure her liberty.

The police investigation during the day centered about John "Con" Sullivan, an admirer of the Gaygen girl. Sullivan was confronted with the identification bureau's records indicating that he has served one sentence in the bridewell and one in Joliet.

The funeral of Meyer was held during the day from the Quinn street residence. Interment was in Rosehill.

BUTTER PRICE GIVEN BOOST; GOTHAM DEMAND THE CAUSE.

Chicago Merchants Make One Cent Increase to Offset Move of Shippers to Send All of Product East.

Chicago butter merchants yesterday took it upon themselves to do what they restrained Elgin manufacturers from doing last Monday and announced an advance of 1 cent a pound in the price of creamery butter.

An upturn in prices of butter at New York was said to have brought out an unusually large number of orders for stock to ship east and Chicago merchants said they were forced to raise prices to keep shippers from sending all the butter here to New York. Prices there were 34 and 35 cents a pound and the price here was raised from 31 cents to 32 cents a pound.

Gluttony is as vile a sin as drunkenness and its evil results are more terrible and far more rapid. The human system turns into the stomach and alimentary canal from 7 to 35 pounds of digestive fluid every twenty-four hours. Cram your stomach with food and you exhaust these juices. If your stomach cannot digest the food because it lacks juices to do with, you should either eat less or make more gastric fluids.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain ingredients one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in your stomach the evil effects of overeating are removed, for these little tablets when dissolved stick to the food and digest all the good from it. They won't abandon the stomach and leave a mass of decaying undigested food to putrefy and irritate the mucous membrane lining. LAKE FOREST WILL BEAUTIFY Improvement League Formed to Abate Nuisances in Suburb.

CLASS LINE IS ATTACKED.

Prof. Halsey Wants the Rich and the Poor Folks to Get Together.

Permanent organization of the Lake Forest Improvement league, which intends to make "a nice Lake Forest nicer," was formed last night at a massmeeting of residents in the Gordon school. An executive committee of fifteen members, with Walter Brewster as chairman, will conduct the league's affairs.

Men, women, and children, representing the east side and west side, attended the meeting, and there was much enthusiasm. If the objects of the league are carried out Lake Forest is to be cleaned of all bad things, even flies. Dr. Elva Wright is the head of a movement to get rid of flies by the more extensive use of screens and a promotion of better sanitation.

Divided Spirit Is Regretted.

"The chief difficulty in carrying out our objects for a more beautiful Lake Forest," said Prof. John J. Halsey in a speech at the meeting, "is the regrettable divided spirit existing between the east and west sides. The millionaires of the east side and the commoner folks of the west side should get together, because everybody in Lake Forest wants to see this city more beautiful and happy.

"We have a pretty place, but there are things that are bad. One nuisance is our musical dogs. Some people have so many dogs that when they get together at night and howl and bark it sounds like an untrained chorus."

Beer Bottles in School Yards.

"Some other things that have to be looked after are the beer bottles and papers we find around on lawns—particularly the school lawns," said John E. Baggett, superintendent of schools. "Every Monday the school children have to go to work clearing the school yards of beer bottles and Sunday papers strewn about by adults.

"Included in much of the waste paper scattered about are the discarded letters of the pretty maidens of Ferry hall—and some of those letters, by the way, are productive of much laughter when read."

John V. Farwell presided at the meeting. An illustrated lecture on outdoor art, delivered by J. P. Wymans of the Illinois Outdoor Art league formed part of the program.

INVITATIONS OUT FOR FIRST REAL CHICAGO COMET PARTY.

Lina Abarbanell to Be Hostess on Virginia Hotel Roof—Couple Wed in Indiana to Take Peak at the Orb.

As Prof. Philip Cox, director of the Dearborn observatory of the Northwestern university at Evanston, prepared last night to make a series of observations of Halley's comet this morning, the formal invitation to the first real "comet party" in Chicago were issued.

The place for this unusual social event will be the roof of the Virginia hotel. The date announced is next Thursday at 4 a. m. The hostess will be Lina Abarbanell, the former "Merry Widow," who is a guest at the Virginia and the star in "Madame Sherry" at the Colonial theater. Miss Abarbanell admitted that she was not certain as to the correct costume to be worn welcoming a celestial visitor."

A comet party as a combination with an early morning wedding, was an innovation at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Milner Hill of Sanborn, Ind., and Charles M. Young of Waterloo, Ia.

The wedding was at Sanborn, and was held at 6 o'clock in the morning, in order to catch a train to Terre Haute. The guests gathered soon after 4 o'clock, and the astronomical feature of the function continued until time for the marriage ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Young came to Chicago in the evening, and are registered at the La Salle.

Two photographs of the comet were taken yesterday morning at Yerkes' observatory.

"The photographs are so dim as to be of little value except as placing the location of the comet," said Prof. E. B. Frost. "It will not be visible to the naked eye for at least ten days."

SPECIAL WATCHMAN KILLS WORKMAN IN STEEL PLANT.

Joseph Jallete, Refusing to Obey Order to Halt, Is Shot Dead Following Strike at Mill.

Joseph Jallete, a worker in the Republic Iron and Steel company's plant in East Chicago, was killed last night by a special watchman at the plant. There was a walkout of 100 helpers of the steel workers yesterday morning, and fearing disturbances the company officials employed extra watchmen at night.

Jallete was seen running with two companions in a distant part of the yard by two watchmen, who ordered the men to stop. The command was disregarded and the watchmen fired. A bullet penetrated Jallete's stomach, and he died a few minutes later.

Company officials refused to tell the name of the watchman who did the shooting.

The strike has thrown 400 men out of work Those who walked out demanded an increase of 30 cents a day, which the company refused to pay.

WAGE INCREASE FOR STEEL MEN

U. S. Corporation Will Pay Army of Employes $9,000,000 More Annually.

ACTION IS VOLUNTARY.

Nearly 30,000 Workers of Illinois Company and Allied Plants Affected.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Presidents of the head departments of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation at a conference in the company's offices this afternoon ratified the proposal to grant a general advance in the wages of all employés other than high salaried officials. Chairman Gary of the board gave out the following statement:

"The subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation have decided to make substantial increases in wages. Notwithstanding the subject matter has been under careful consideration for the last sixty days the exact amounts have not yet been fully determined, except as to ore companies and coal companies, which have already announced advances.

"As to other companies, the figures will be definitely arrived at in time to become operative on May 1, excepting the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company and the transportation companies, which may not be able to announce the increases until a later date."

Wage Increase Is Voluntary.

The increase is voluntary and prompted by reasons similar to those which led the Pennsylvania railroad to make its increase—namely: the difficulty of its employés in reconciling current wages with the high cost of living. An increase of 6 per cent, such as that declared by the Pennsylvania, would mean an addition of about $9,000,000 a year to the Steel corporation's pay roll.

The raise had been anticipated, although it was thought likely the company would follow the same policy as that pursued in 1902, when, instead of a general advance at one time, wages were raised by degrees in one mill after another. In 1902 a 10 per cent increase was given to more than 100,000 men.

The average number of men employed by the company last year was 195,500, while on Dec. 31 last, due to an increase in business at the end of the year, there were 223,377 employés on the pay rolls. The total amount paid out in wages last year was $151,663,395.

Unions are not recognized in any of the mills of the company or its subsidiaries. This fact prompted President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to declare open war against the company recently.

AFFECTED IN CHICAGO DISTRICT.

The following shows the number of men employed at plants of the Illinois Steel company and affiliated companies:

Illinois Steel company, Gary, Ind.	8,000
Illinois Steel company, South Chicago	7,000
Illinois Steel company, Milwaukee	3,000
Joliet Steel company, Joliet	4,000
Total, steel mills		22,000
American Steel & Wire Co., Joliet	4,000
American Steel & Wire Co., Waukegan	2,500
American Steel & Wire Co., De Kalb	1,000
Total, steel and wire		7,500
Grand total, not including steamship lines and workmen in ore fields		29,500

Brick business has increased the demand for steel rails, until the shortage of labor at Gary is said to be greater than since the opening of the plant there. The Gary mills are 100,000 tons behind in orders for steel rails, and the Joliet plant is six or eight months behind its orders.

THESE WORKERS GET MORE CASH.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The United Railways company announced a voluntary increase of 1 cent an hour to all employés on local street car lines, numbering about 3,000, effective on May 1. The new wage scale will have a minimum of 22 cents an hour and a maximum of 26 cents.

DES MOINES, Ia.—The Iowa mine operators have conceded a 5 per cent advance to the mineworkers in subdistrict No. 1 as a working basis and provisional upon concessions from the mineworkers. The mineworkers conceded the operators' demand that all new mines in the subdistrict be operated on the screen coal basis.

ROANOKE, Va.—Announcement is made that a new wage scale has been agreed upon by which the conductors of the Norfolk and Western get an increase of about 6 per cent in pay.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—The United States Coal and Oil company, employing several thousand men at Holden, W. Va., announced an increase in wages for all employés of 5 per cent, effective on April 15.

POSTAL BANK BILL MANGLED IN HOUSE

Subcommittee Changes Senate Measure in Many Important Respects.

WAY AHEAD IS SMOOTH.

Chances Are That It Will Be Reported Favorably in Amended Form.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—The postal savings bank bill is much the worse for an encounter today with the house postoffice subcommittee, which completed its work on the measure. It put a crimp in the scope of the plan for postal savings. The measure will be reported to the full postoffice committee tomorrow. Its adoption by the committee seems assured.

The approved bill will have the effect of greatly reducing the number of postoffices authorized to act as postal depositories. It provides that only such banks shall take deposits as are designated by a board of trustees. The trustees shall make their designation "in view of the requirement for other and better savings facilities in any locality."

The senate bill provided that all postoffices issuing money orders should be constituted postal depositories without any action on the part of the trustees. Affirmative action by the trustees was required only when it was proposed to authorize deposit of savings in postoffices not issuing money orders.

Fourth Class Offices Hit.

This change was made by the house subcommitee with full knowledge of the probability that most of the fourth class postoffices are likely not to be designated by the board of trustees. The committee has been urged specifically to exclude fourth class offices altogether, but probably adopted this section as a less conspicuous way of accomplishing the same result.

The difficulty with the designation of the fourth class offices as depositories is that many of them are without safes. The government requires the postmasters to furnish safes, ordinarily, and the committee acted upon the belief that in remote sections it would be difficult to get postmasters to retain their offices if they were required to buy safes and handle considerable amounts of money. If the government should provide safes, the expenditure, it was considered, would run well up into the millions.

The amount permitted to be carried by any postal depositor was cut from $500, as it appeared in the senate bill, to $300. The reason for this plainly was that the committee wanted to provide the least possible competition for established banks.

Bond Investment Frowned Upon.

The administration's desire that postal funds be made available for ready investment in government bonds is not met at all by the house bill. It is provided that money must be deposited in the banks and must remain there "except in time of war or the imminence of war." Then, if the president of the United States holds that the interest of the country requires, he may withdraw from the banks all but 10 per cent of the postal deposits and invest them in government bonds.

The senate bill gave the president greater liberty in respect to the withdrawal of money. It provided that it might be done "in time of war or other exigency." The house bill locks the money up in the banks absolutely in time of peace. It provides that if all the banks in any state refuse to accept postal funds then they shall be turned over to the banks in other states. The senate bill provided that in case the banks of the immediate locality where deposits were made refused to accept the funds the money should go to the treasurer of the United States. He was empowered to invest them in United States bonds or other government securities.

All Banks Made Eligible.

The eastern element on the committee made its heralded attempt to confine the deposit of postal funds to national banks. When the subcommittee met two bills dropped from the sky, with no names attached. Presumably both were the work of Congressman Gardner of New Jersey, chairman of the subcommittee. The first one pushed forward was identical with the second, except that it provided that postal funds should be turned over only to national banks.

This raised a tremendous protest, which resulted quickly in disposing of the national bank plan. It is supposed that the opposition came from Thomas R. Hamer, the only far western member of the subcommittee, who sympathizes with those sections in which national banks are scarce.

Some other proposals to cripple the postal savings system did not materialise. Like the senate bill, the house measure will permit the banks to protect the government either with indemnity bonds or with such collateral as the board of trustees may approve.

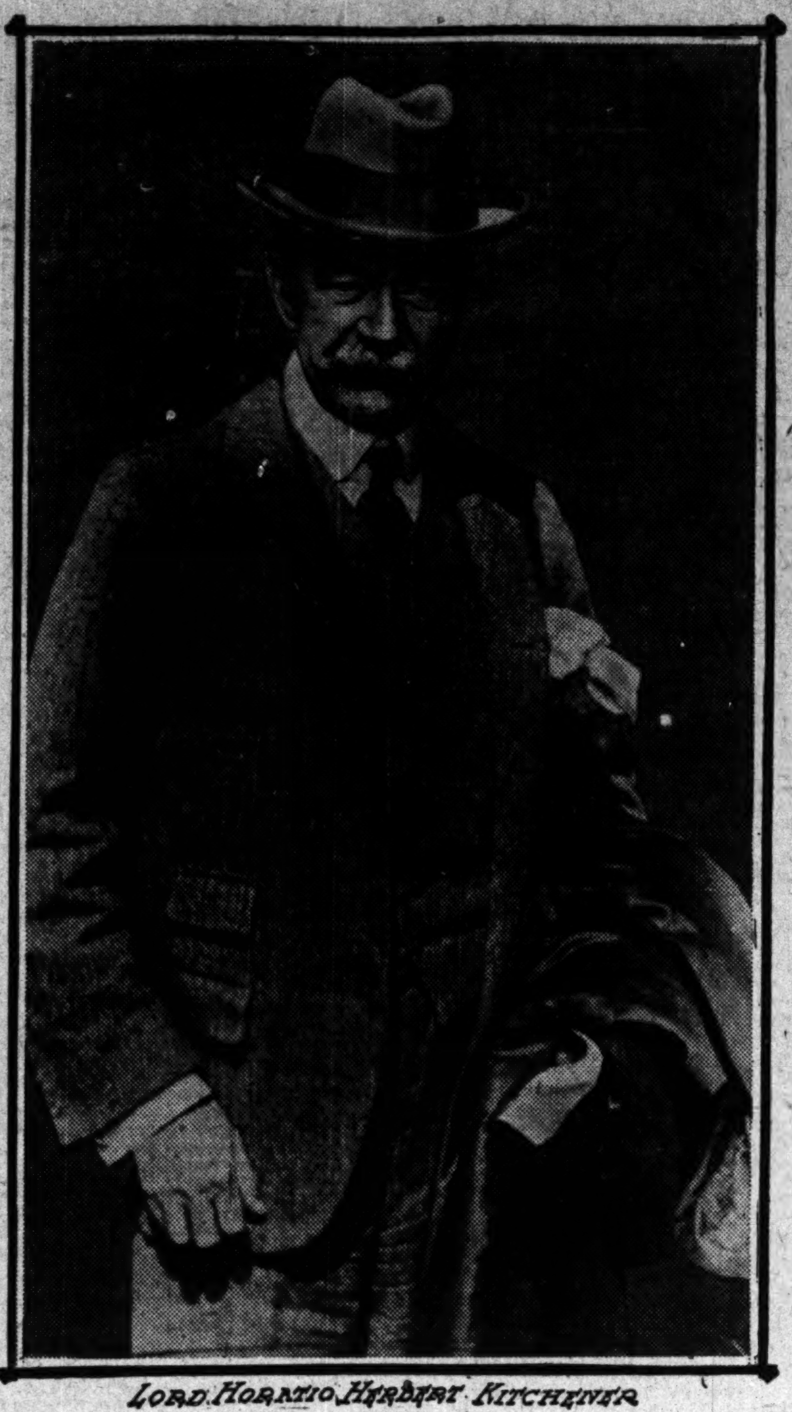
Chicagoans See British General; Does He Look Like a Woman Hater?

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]



LORD HORATIO HERBERT KITCHENER

Lord Horatio Herbert Kitchener passed through Chicago yesterday on his way from Australia to England. The general has an international reputation as a "woman hater," but when asked by a "lady reporter" if the imputation were true the warrior simply smiled and replied with a question. At the termination of the interview his feminine interrogator still was guessing.

ASKS BRIBE TAKER TO QUIT

Mississippi Senate, in Turmoil, Acts Against Informer Bilbo.

CLIMAX TO AN INQUIRY.

President Pro Tem Resigns and Walks Out with Backers.

Jackson, Miss., April 14.—In open session tonight the state senate by an overwhelming vote demanded the resignation of Senator Theodore Bilbo. The resolution attacked the credibility and character of the senator.

President Pro Tem. Hebron then resigned and was followed from the chamber by several other senators, also supporters of former Gov. Vardaman.

Then a resolution was adopted declaring there was no evidence of corruption in the election of United States Senator Percy.

Bilbo alleges he accepted a bribe of $645 in exchange for his promise to change his vote from Vardaman to Leroy Percy in the recent senatorial contest. He asserts he took the money to obtain evidence of irregularities in connection with the contest.

Follows Stormy Session.

The final action of the legislators was the climax to a stormy session. Earlier in the evening the senate by a vote of one less than the required two-thirds majority, 28 to 15, rejected a resolution to expel Bilbo.

The vote was strictly on partisan lines, practically all of the Vardaman adherents voting to sustain Bilbo.

The senate during several weeks has been investigating the charge of Bilbo that he was offered money by L. C. Dulaney, a prominent planter and supporter of Percy.

Bilbo Defends Actions.

Each charge preferred against him reflecting on his moral character was flatly denied by Bilbo in the inquiry. Few new facts were brought out. Bilbo admitted he had tried to prevent the attendance of Henry Ratliffe, a senate witness, who would have testified that he wanted money to obtain the passage of a bill creating a new county.

Bilbo announced that he had carried whisky by the quart out of Dulaney's room.

SEIDEL TO GIVE UP BUSINESS; MEN WILL CONDUCT FACTORY.

Socialist Will Be Mayor Only as Long as He Is the Chief Executive of Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—[Special.]—Next Tuesday Emil Seidel takes office as mayor of Milwaukee, the first Social-Democratic incumbent of that office.

Next Monday Emil Seidel, secretary and treasurer and chief stockholder in the Milwaukee Pattern and Manufacturing company, will retire from that position, in effect, if not in fact, and will allow the business to which he has devoted his time to be conducted for him by his employés, who will share in the profits from the time they take charge until he returns from official duties to take up his private interests again.

In this way does the Social-Democratic executive carry out the basic principle of his Socialist creed. He will devote his entire time to the work of the office.

WICKERSHAM IS CALLED TRUST AID

Rainey of Illinois in House Revives Charges Against Attorney General.

INVOLVES HENRY W. TAFT

Service by Member of Firm.

"The service given by the firm purports to have been rendered through another member of the firm, who appeared as counsel for the sugar trust in this, the most important suit ever brought against the American Sugar Refining company. It may be that the attorney general was not consulted in this suit, and it may be that he did not render any service in connection with it.

"But the attorney general has not yet stated how the enormous fee the firm of Strong & Cadwallader received was divided. Did the attorney general refuse to accept any part of it? The country would like to know.

"I submit that the attorney general ought not to seek to avoid even an inactive connection with this infamous trust by throwing the entire burden and the disgrace of such connection upon the brother of the president of the United States."

Assails Roosevelt and Sugar.

In the speech which Mr. Rainey did not read to the house, but which will appear in the Congressional Record tomorrow morning, he charges that sugar trust influence had a great deal to do with nominating President Taft. The two chief influences that contributed to that nomination, he says, were President Roosevelt, who controlled 50,000 postmasters, and "the Sugar-trust-owned, Sugar-trust-controlled Republican New York county central committee."

"In New York county the Republican central committee is, and has been for some years, a sugar trust organization," says Mr. Rainey, "getting its funds from the sugar trust and looking to the sugar trust for its presiding officers. The activities of the New York county Republican committee to bring about the nomination of President Taft began almost as soon as the activities in that direction by Mr. Roosevelt."

Following the resignation of Herbert Parsons as chairman of the New York committee, President Taft stated at the dinner given in Mr. Parsons' honor by the committee in New York last March, that he had taken Mr. Parsons to the orient with him and had brought him back again because he knew he was too valuable to leave out there.

Assails Parsons Family.

"I think in this connection," says Mr. Rainey, "I might call attention to the fact that Herbert Parsons is a sugar trust attorney, is the son of John E. Parsons, who organized the sugar trust, who directed its crimes for years, and who is now under indictment charged with wrecking the Real Estate Trust company of Philadelphia, and whose only hope for escape seems to lie in his right to interpose the bar of the statute of limitations.

"The same Parsons retained the firm of Strong & Cadwallader as sugar trust attorneys, and now is able to exercise over the attorney general of the United States so much infiueunce.

"Of course Herbert Parsons was brought back from the orient because he was too valuable to leave out there. It would be extremely unpleasant to disturb the friendship apparently existing between the Parsons, father and son, and the present administration, and I am quite willing to believe and to admit that a congressional investigation of the infamies of the sugar trust might be embarrassing.

James M. Beck Is Involved.

"On Jan. 1 of this year James M. Beck became general counsel for the sugar trust, and he is now acting in that capacity. He was an assistant attorney general of the United States for three years, his term of service commencing in the year 1900. He had charge of the Northern Securities case for the government."

The battle for the inside facts regarding the sale of the Philippine friar lands waged by Representative Martin of Colorado, who charges undue favoring of the sugar trust in these transactions, brought out a mass of documents from the war department, but the Martin resolution calling for the detailed and specific information was tabled by the house. The insular affairs committee had reported that the information had been furnished by the secretary of war, and he therefore moved to table the measure. This the house did by a vote of 144 to 121.

Martin Is Indignant.

Mr. Martin, who subsequently declared the correspondence transmitted corroborated his charges that the war department knew the friar lands were not being bought by E. A. Poole of Havana and others, individually, but for the sugar trust, protested against the motion to table, saying it was simply a move to prevent further airing of the Philippine friar land deal.

The war department data showed how John Henry Hammond, a member of the New York firm of Strong & Cadwalader, of which Henry W. Taft is a member, and of which Mr. Wickersham has been a member, conducted early inquiries.

Friar Lands Are Sold.

MANILA, April 14.—Agents for the Dillinghams of Honolulu have purchased 20,000 acres in Laguna province, where it is proposed to establish a sugar plantation and erect a large grinding mill. The property includes the Calamba friar estate and has rail and water connections with Manila. The price paid for the land averaged $20 an acre.

FAST WORK ON PANAMA CANAL.

All of Excavation Work Originally Decided On Has Been Completed.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Although it was generally known that great progress had been made by the army engineers in digging the Panama canal, the statement contained in the Canal Record just at hand comes as a surprise that all of the excavation that was contemplated in the original project has been completed.

Under that plan 103,795,000 cubic yards of material were to be removed, and that has been done. But subsequently, in order to accommodate naval vessels of the Dreadnought type and the giant liners now under construction, the president ordered the widening and deepening of the canal prism.

That involved the removal of 70,871,594 additional yards of material, and that is all of the task of excavation that confronts the engineers. The record of accomplishments has been without precedent in engineering undertakings.

OHIO AT MERCY OF THE TRUSTS.

Legislative Committee on High Cost of Living Blames Packers for the Present Prices.

Columbus, O., April 14.—Ohio food consumers are at the mercy of trust methods, according to the report of the legislative food probe committee made public tonight. The committee says:

"Responsibility for high prices lies chiefly at the door of the packers of various kinds, who beat down the prices paid to the farmer and put up the prices paid to retailers."

Increase in food production cannot benefit either city people or wage earners, those who suffer most from high living cost, because, the committee points out, the laboring people's wages are under trust control, and if there is an increase in production the trusts simply will reap greater profits by selling more and paying less to the producers.

During fourteen years all prices have advanced, according to the committee, at least 61 per cent, as against an increase in wages of 40 per cent.

ROOSEVELT SEES SIGHTS OF VENICE

"Wonderful!" Declares the Colonel of the Wonders of City of Doges.

HE GOES NEXT TO VIENNA.

Duc d'Abruzzi Calls on Former President and Is Pronounced a "Trump."

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN
[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1910: By The Tribune Company.]

VENICE, April 14.—"Wonderful! Wonderful! Wonderful!" exclaimed Col. Theodore Roosevelt when in the gondola of the American consul he was taken through the canals of the ancient city of the doges.

"If there were only one country in the world outside our own I would send my sons to Egypt, and, if only one city, to Venice."

Col. Roosevelt arrived here shortly after 2 a. m. and was met by the consul, James V. Long, and Commander Andrew T. Long, who has been designated to accompany him also to Austria. There also was a crowd of Americans and representatives of the municipality. Silas McBee, editor of the Churchman, New York, had breakfast with the colonel.

Consul Brings Gondola.

Later the consul brought his gondola, rowed by swarthy Venetians, and as the distinguished American was conveyed through the canals the people gathered on the banks to salute the visitor.

The colonel first was taken under the bridge of sighs and shown Verrochio's celebrated statue of Colleoni, which the former president declared to be the most imposing piece of sculptuary in the world. Kermit also seemed much impressed.

The visitor was next rowed to St. Mary's square, where he was interested in the flying pigeons, but above all in the magnificent architecture showing the different periods of Venetian development. He examined quickly the wonderful mosaic in St. Mark's cathedral, and then proceeded to the palace of the Doges, where he was met by the director, who escorted him about, pointing out the beauties of the striking paintings by the old masters.

Knowledge Is Startling.

The colonel discussed the paintings almost as a connoisseur, astonishing the director by the extent of his knowledge of art and painting, and above all by his familiarity with the different periods of Venetian history.

"He would make a better guide than the man we brought," exclaimed the consul.

Returning by the grand canal the different palaces were pointed out and the knowledge of past occupants which Col. Roosevelt possessed surprised the others in the party.

Then came a visit to the Academy of Belle Arts, where he picked out five masterpieces by Titian, Veronese, Bellino, Carpaccio, and Tintoretto, in all of which he evinced a deep interest.

Duc d'Abruzzi Calls.

The Duc d'Abruzzi called on the colonel at the Hotel Britannia, at noon, extending a welcome not only as a fellow hunter, but as a member of the royal household.

The duke gave the colonel for Miss Roosevelt a small photograph of the highest point he reached in the Himalayas, enclosed in a silver frame.

"He is a trump," said the former president, when d'Abruzzi left. The duke is in command of the naval arsenal here.

Subsequently the colonel lunched privately, and left Venice for Vienna this afternoon.

DENIES BARRING AMERICANS FROM CARDINALATE LIST.

Vatican Official Refutes Story of the Pope's Alleged Action Sent Out by the Associated Press.

ROME, April 14.—The report carried by the Associated Press last night that the pope had eliminated the names of American candidates from the list of candidates for the cardinalate has, upon investigation, been found to be erroneous.

It was authoritatively denied today, and the idea that such a step had been taken because Theodore Roosevelt did not visit the pope was characterized as ridiculous.

It is pointed out by one of the vatican officials that no list of candidates for the American cardinalate ever existed. For more than two years, said this offical, the pope has not held a consistory, although there are many vacancies in the sacred college, but, notwithstanding this, nothing has as yet been arranged with referenec to the next consistory, which, it is almost certain, will not be held until next winter, if even then.

All reference to American candidates, therefore, he declared, was premature. The general opinion here is that the pope does not intend to appoint another American cardinal while Cardinal Gibbons lives.

Nomination Reported Postponed.

PARIS, April 14.—A dispatch received here from Rome says that it is stated in ecclesiastical circles that the nomination of cardinals, which was expected to take place in May or June, has been postponed until the end of the year.

MISS GOULD STANDS IN LINE.

She and Fiance, Anthony Drexel Jr., Are Forced to Wait for Marriage License.

New York, April 14.—Anthony J. Drexel Jr. of Philadelphia and Miss Marjorie Gould went to the city hall today for a marriage license and stood in line with a dozen other persons waiting their turn.

After they had stood there for fifteen minutes some one recognized them and they were taken into the chief clerk's office, where they obtained the license.

Mr. Drexel gave his age as 22. He said he was a banker of 3812 Walnut street, Philadelphia. Miss Gould said she was 19 years old, daughter of George J. Gould. The wedding is to take place in this city on April 19.

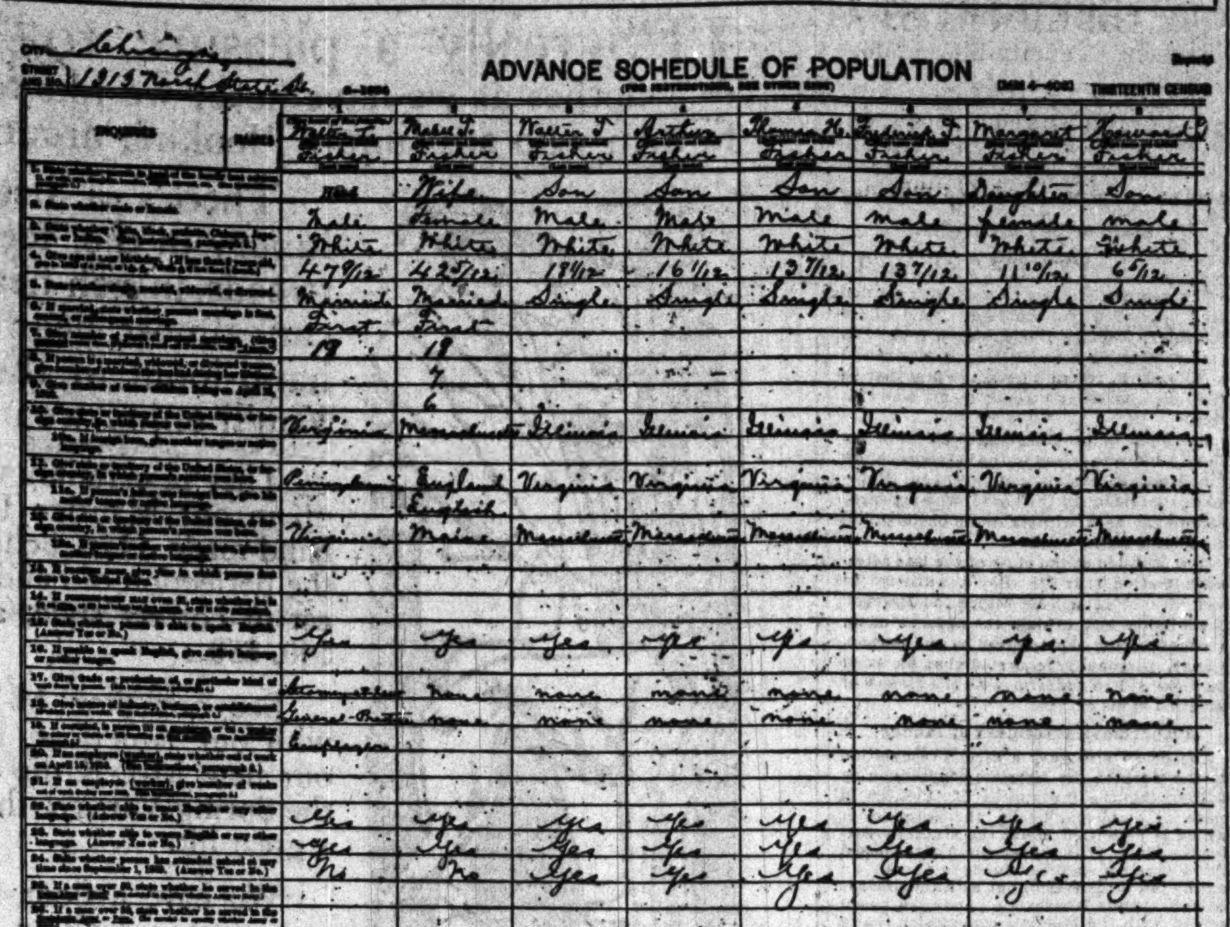
FARM WEALTH LEAPS AHEAD.

Figures of Department of Agriculture Show $8,760,000,000 as 1909 Production.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Phenomenal has been the increase in the last twenty years in the value of wealth produced on farms of the United States.

Figures carefully prepared by the statisticians of the department of agriculture show this increase to have been $6,300,000,000 in the period from 1889 to the close of last year. In 1889 the wealth produced on farms of the United States was $2,460,000,000; ten years later it was $4,717,000,000, and last year, according to the preliminary estimate just issued, it was $8,760,000,000.

Census Blank as Filled by Attorney Walter L. Fisher.



ADVANCE SCHEDULE OF POPULATION

Heads of large families will have their work cut out for them when they start to fill in the census forms which have been distributed to householders. A good example of the amount of labor entailed is shown in the facsimile of the form filled out by Walter L. Fisher, father of six children.

It took him fifty minutes, with the assistance of Mrs. Fisher, to "schedule" himself, his wife, and children, and he must wait until the census bureau sends him another blank before he can conclude the schedule of his six servants.

Other public men, with even larger families, like former Mayor Dunne, who has ten children, to say nothing of the servants, will have to take a day off to fill out the census blanks.

WETS FEAR FEDERAL MOVE

Threatened Prosecutions Stir United Societies Meeting.

BLOW TO 'BLANKET LICENSE'

Sellers of Liquor Discover a Hall Permit Is Not Sufficient.

Special bar permits and threatened prosecutions by the federal government stirred the United Societies last night at a meeting of their executive committee at 59 Dearborn street. Two hours of debate were devoted to discussion of ways and means to block what was styled "an effort of the prohibitionists to make trouble for us."

The name of District Attorney Edwin W. Sims was mentioned as the legal official whose activities had been enlisted for this line of prosecution. State Senator Cyril R. Jandus, Walter L. Michaelis, and Secretary A. J. Cermak were among the speakers.

Hall Owners Secure Licenses.

It has been customary for owners of halls to secure federal licenses, without city licenses, and societies hiring a hall for an evening have assumed that the government license and the special bar permit from the city were al lthe legal formalities necessary.

Last night's meeting disclosed a different situation, of which warning was given by officials of the United Societies. They explained that the attitude of the federal government is to demand that each individual society selling liquors, even if for only one night, secure a license, costing $25, the license issued to the hall owner being held insufficient.

Change Is Suggested.

It was suggested that the liquids be consigned in the name of the hall owner, who also had his federal license. Further, it was decided to adopt different forms of contracts, so it will appear that the profits from the bar, instead of control of the bar, have passed to the society renting the hall.

Federal detectives have been investigating for several weeks, it was stated in the meeting.

It was voted to hold the fifth annual convention of the United Societies at Pilsen Turner hall.

PROMOTER OF MINE SWINDLE GIVEN A MAXIMUM SENTENCE.

William S. Phillips of America-Mexico Company Gets Three Years and $1,000 Fine from Judge Landis.

William S. Phillips, president of the America-Mexico Mining and Development company, a mining swindle that netted its promoters more than $600,000 in fraudulent stock sales, was sentenced by Judge Landis in the District court yesterday to serve three years in federal prison and to pay a fine of $1,000. The penalty is the maximum under his indictment.

A. T. Grove, secretary and treasurer of the company, who turned government's evidence to save himself, is confronted with charges of perjury and will be arraigned this morning before Judge Landis to show cause why he should not be sent to jail for contempt of court.

When the America-Mexico Mining and Development company had been organized under the laws of South Dakota with a $3,000,000 capitalization, Phillips and his associates sold nearly a million dollars' worth of stock and to fool the public into the belief that the concern was making money paid $375,000 in so-called dividends out of the funds received for stock. The company, according to the evidence, never earned anything.

PADRONE SYSTEM IN UNION?

Head of Sewer and Tunnel Miners Is Accused.

WAYMAN ASKED TO ACT.

$5 to $25 Paid for Jobs Charge Against Joseph D'Andrea.

Grand jury investigation of an alleged "padrone" system carried on by Joseph d'Andreafi president and collector of the Sewer and Tunnel Miners' union, will be demanded today by William H. Cruden, chief inspector of employment agencies. Complaints received by Mr. Cruden charge that D'Andrea is doing an extensive business by charging laborers a fee of from $5 to $25 for getting them a job.

In some instances the job does not materialize and in others the men are kept at work until a $25 "initiation fee" in the union is paid, when they are let out, and others able to pay the fee are put to work.

Tony Wynoski, 1127 Cleaver street, told the state official that on April 11 he paid D'Andrea $5 for a "permit" to go to work as a laborer for Bates & Rodgers, contractors on track elevation work, on the approaches of the new Northwestern railroad station.

"Permit" Which Fails to Get Job.

In spite of the "permit" Wynoski failed to get the job. Here is the alleged "permit":

> Mr. Tony Wynoski has paid $5 and is entitled to working privilege until April 18, 1910.
> JOSEPH D'ANDREA,
> President and Collector.

At the request of Mr. Cruden officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor decided to take a hand in the matter. President John Fitzpatrick will send a report to President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and request that the charter of D'Andrea's union be revoked.

The organization is composed largely of Italians, many of them unable to speak English. New members are initiated at $25 a head, paid on the installment plan at the rate of $5 a week. In labor circles D'Andrea is known as a "pupil of 'Skinny' Madden."

City Hall Strike Settled.

The strike on the new city hall was settled during the day at a conference in the office of Mayor Busse. The men will return to work this morning. The contractors agreed to discharge the fourteen members of the bricklayers' union brought from New York.

The painters' district council, formerly dominated by "Skinny" Madden, was dissolved in the evening by J. C. Skemp, international secretary, and other officers of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers.

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—The state board of railroad and warehouse commissioners issued a temporary order today that where gates and watchmen are maintained at street railway crossings of steam railroads in cities they must be maintained from 7 a. m. to midnight instead of 6 p. m., and imposed other safety regulations.

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE STUMP?

Friends Say He Will Speak for the Republican Ticket in New York.

New York, April 14.—Theodore Roosevelt will take the stump next fall in behalf of the Republican candidate for governor, according to a statement which will be published tomorrow morning and credited to Mr. Roosevelt's friends. No former president ever has taken the stump in a state campaign.

I. A. C. HAS NIGHT OF SPORTS

Celebrates Emancipation from Its Debt of $400,000.

Festival Will Continue Tonight and Tomorrow.

Aquatic sports inaugurated last night the Illinois Athletic club's three days' celebration of its emancipation from debts of more than $400,000. Events were scheduled for three nights this week and at the first last night 500 guests and friends of the club were present.

Swimming contests of every variety, diving exhibitions, and "mattress races" entertained for two hours the crowd which gathered around the pool.

A relay race between sons of members of the Chicago Athletic association and the I. A. C. was a feature of the night. Four boys made up each team. The first race was a dead heat. Swimming the tie off the I. A. C. swimmers won by six inches.

In the mattress race Lieut. Edward C. Racey, Arthur Frantzen, and Dr. H. H. Hayes were entrants. Hayes won first, Racey second, and it was announced that Frantzen "also swam."

A forty yard under-the-water swim brought out of the dressing room Lieut. Racey, W. A. Mentzer, W. F. Kenny, George R. Linn, R. B. Richardson, and George R. Ruby. The event was won by Racey.

Two mornings each week the pool is turned over to the use of the wives of members, and one of last night's events was listed for the purpose of demonstrating what had been accomplished in the way of training women to swim. Miss Elsie Hurter gave an exhibition of fancy swimming and diving.

A historical pageant is scheduled for tonight. Fifty men and women are to take part in tableaux which will illustrate every period of history from the stone to the aeroplane age. The entertainment will end with a fencing tournament between twelve men and twelve women.

TELL THE TRUTH TO CENSUS TAKER

Enumeration of Population Under Government Supervision Begins Today.

ONLY FACTS ARE WANTED

Answers Given to the Questions Asked Are Not to Be Made Public.

Taking of the thirteenth government census begins today. An army of 1,548 enumerators will spread to every ward of the city and to every country and village neighborhood in Cook county.

Fill out your advance sheets for the census man now. Have them ready for him when he comes around. He may reach your residence tomorrow. If he doesn't come, then he is certain to get there within two weeks.

If you don't do it some one else may do it for you—your house servant or your 10 year old daughter—and it is possible annoying mistakes will be made. For instance, you don't want to be checked up in Uncle Sam's great portfolios as 68 years old in 1910 when you are really only 54.

Enumerators have been instructed to get information desired from the "head of the house," but in the event of the absence of the head of the household at the time the enumerater calls, he is instructed to obtain from any one on the premises the data called for by the blanks.

The enumerators have found that the government has not supplied enough advance blanks for the 400,000 families of Chicago. That fact will not, however, damage a man's chances to be recorded, for the census takers will call at every house, whether blanks have been left there previously or not.

Must Keep Answers Secret.

The government lays particular stress on the fact that the information obtained through the agency of the census must not be divulged. Enumerators will be suspended from service and refused pay for a single violation of this rule. No bit of information with reference to a man or any member of his family may be given out. If it is used for gossip the enumerator thereby breaks his oath and is open to a charge of perjury.

Supervisor Willard E. Hotchkiss had a final meeting yesterday with his corps of inspectors in his office in the Rand-McNally building. Thirty-six of those inspectors will superintend the taking of the census in Chicago and Cook county. They must be out on the fields from early morning until late at night and must be within call of the thirty to forty enumerators which each inspector has under him.

The inspectors are supposed to be fully posted on the laws and the regulations and will be in a position to straighten disputes of the enumerators with citizens.

Unfailing Courtesy Is Required.

Though the enumerators are vested with considerable authority, they have been cautioned not to abuse these privileges. Supervisor Hotchkiss sent out word to the enumerators that they must be unfailingly courteous and kind to the citizens of Chicago and Cook county whom they approach. Instances of incivility and discourtesy, if brought to the attention of the inspectors, will be sufficient grounds for the discharge of the enumerators.

HYDE JURY NEARLY COMPLETE; TESTIMONY TO BEGIN MONDAY.

Mrs. Logan O. Swope Reported to Have Objected to Fees Asked by Special Attorneys Assisting State.

Kansas City, April 14.—A temporary jury of forty-seven men was obtained on the Hyde murder trial shortly after 5 o'clock tonight. Attorneys will exercise their peremptory challenges tomorrow and at 5:30 o'clock the names of the final jurymen will be announced in open court.

Unless present plans go amiss, the opening statement of the prosecution will be made to the jury Saturday morning. No witnesses will be heard until Monday.

A dispute between Mrs. Logan O. Swope and the special counsel she employed to assist the state in the prosecution of her son-in-law, Hyde, has been brewing for a week over the size of the attorney's fees, it developed today.

Other members of the Swope family having refused to aid in defraying the expense, the burden of payment fell upon Mrs. Swope. She objected to the fee and suggested a smaller one. At one time it appeared as if the counsel would withdraw from the case, but finally a fee was agreed on.

GRAVES QUITS CHARITY BOARD

Resigns as Secretary in Order to Organize Home for Old Men.

WILL STEP OUT ON JULY 1.

Institution for Aged Provided For by James C. King's Bequest.

William C. Graves, for four years secretary of the state board of charities, resigned his job yesterday at a meeting of the board held in Springfield.

Although not officially announced, it became known that Mr. Graves will come to Chicago to organize the home for old men provided for in the will of the late James C. King, who left a large fortune.

The King home for aged men is to be in Chicago. Mr. King was a character well known in downtown hotels, where he lived simply. Late in life he married a young woman and settled upon her a fortune of $200,000. When on his death she discovered he was a millionaire, she insisted upon a widow's dower share of the estate and secured it. His estate is in charge of the Northern Trust company.

Surprise to the Board.

Mr. Graves' resignation came with little warning. Gov. Deneen was apprised of it only a short time before the commission met. The text of the resignation follows:

> Springfield, Ill., April 14.—Dr. Frank Billings, President, and Members Charities Commission—Gentlemen: I hereby respectfully tender my resignation as executive secretary of the charities commission, effective July 1, 1910. I regret to take this step, as my relations with the commission and the nature of the work are agreeable to me, but financial opportunities not possible in the service of the commission have been opened to me, which, in justice to my family and to myself, I feel it my duty to accept. Thanking you for many courtesies and encouragement, I am respectfully yours,
> WILLIAM C. GRAVES.

Place Under Civil Service.

Dr. Billings and Dr. Emil G. Hirsch were appointed a committee to draft a resolution expressing regret for Mr. Graves' resignation and wishing him success in his new position.

Inasmuch as the job of secretary to the board has been put under civil service, Mr. Graves by his resignation has opened a competition for the place. It pays $3,600 a year.

"It will be a difficult position to fill," said one of the members of the board after Mr. Graves' resignation. "When the position was put under civil service and an examination was held Mr. Graves was the only applicant who could pass it."

U. S. IMMIGRATION OFFICERS OUST CAPTAIN OF KOEPENICK

Cobbler Who Played Officer and Made Army Help Him Rob Burgomaster to Be Deported.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—The "Captain of Koepernick," the cobbler who set all Germany laughing by impersonating an officer, and enlisting the army to help him rob the burgomaster of the little German town he has immortalized, was arrested today and taken to Ellis island.

Since his arrival here by way of Canada several weeks ago the captain, otherwise William Voight, has been enjoying himself and telling about his adventures. He has made little effort to conceal his whereabouts and Inspector Pedasco of Ellis island had no trouble in finding him.

He was seen today by the inspector at Lexington avenue and Fifty-ninth street. The inspector tapped the captain on the shoulder and asked:

"Is this Capt. Voight?"

The old man cheerfully and with a touch of pride in his voice said he was. The inspector told him he was under arrest. He smiled, said it was not the first time, and accompanied the inspector to Ellis Island.

The captain said he was going back to Germany anyway and that there was no need of deporting him, as he had a return passage in the steerage of the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, which sails on Saturday. He said he had had a fine time while here and liked the big cities.

He admitted that he had spent two terms in prison in Germany for forgery.

Chiperfield Committee Inspects Tract Sold by Park Board.

SIMMONS GIVES VIEW.

Explains Transfer and Reason That Definite Survey Line Was Necessary.

The Chiperfield legislative committee, appointed to investigate alleged "grabbing" of lands belonging to Illinois along Lake Michigan and other water bodies, suspended its inquiries in Chicago yesterday until April 27, when they will be resumed.

The session which started a few days ago was concluded in the afternoon with an automobile tour of inspection by members of the committee along the north shore where the Lincoln park board is alleged to have wrongfully disposed of state lands.

Charles A. Churan, attorney for the Lincoln park commissioners, appeared before the committee in the morning to deny charges made by Edgewater citizens that the board practiced secrecy in dealings with Connery & Corbett, who acquired fifty acres of lake shore land in exchange for riparian rights claimed by the Connery & Corbett copartnership. On the tour in the afternoon Chairman B. M. Chiperfield and his associates inspected the Connery & Corbett tract.

Defends Work of Board.

"In the matter of the investigation which is now being conducted by a legislative committee regarding the lake shore," said Francis T. Simmons of the Lincoln park board in the afternoon, "the Lincoln park board has been involved by its questioning in a way which would leave in the minds of the public an idea that the board had proceeded not only illegally but unfairly, and without due consideration of public interests, in its handling of the lake shore line during past years. This aspersion the board resents, as it involves neither truth nor fairness.

"The board emphatically states that in no possible way has it depared from strict lines, nor has it in any way been unmindful of what it considered to be the best interests of the property owner, the park, and the public. If the park board can point to any act that is in line with the highest and most considerate beneficence, it is in its treatment of so-called riparian rights.

"After the legislative acts of 1869 and 1895 the board found itself in an unpleasant position regarding the shore line of Lake Michigan, the title to which rested in the board of Lincoln park commissioners.

Need of Definite Shore Line.

"Many and frequent discussions and controversies arose as to where the shore line of Lake Michigan, as affecting the public, was, had been, and should be; what was the scope of the riparian rights, and who should build the barriers against the sea for the protection of the shore. The necessity, therefore, became apparent that the shore line should be established.

"It was therefore decided by the board to establish a line and to employ such line as the basic one for all future boundaries and transactions. It was established by the board according to law, and from it all acts of the board since relating to the shore line have been computed. This left the property owner with an intangible, unknowable asset in his hands called riparian rights. But the property owner found himself unable to borrow upon his property, to sell it, or in any way count upon its future, owing to the unknowable status of riparian rights.

"When the commissioners were faced by the great necessity for more park room because of the increasing population, which has found recreation and pleasure in Lincoln park, and for which purpose it was established, the commissioners decided to extend the park northward from Diversey parkway and at that time entered into contracts with property owners along the shore, whereby their riparian rights were settled, and whereby property owners conveyed and quitclaimed all these rights to the Lincoln park board.

Small Cost to Taxpayers.

"In consideration of this quitclaim from the property owners the board and the property owners fixed their shore line at a point 100 feet east of the survey of 1901. These arrangements were affected through court procedings, and cost the taxpayers of the Lincoln park district not one penny beyond the cost of the recording instruments by which they were conveyed.

"Had the commissioners obtained this result by condemnation, which they could have done, the cost to the taxpayers would have been enormous and would have necessitated a large bond issue to defray the cost.

"The board believes that no act of a public sort has been more wisely or beneficently carried out than this one. The same privilege was then extended to all property owners as far north as its domain extends—navely: Devon avenue—and many have taken advantage of it and have established forever their holdings upon the lake shore. The board offers encouragement to the abutting property owners to proceed along these lines under the protection which is afforded by the knowledge that nothing but park property will ever enter between them and the lake.

"Any aspersions that may be cast from any source against the right and wisdom of the park board in this matter are unfair and malicious. Every transaction with any property owner has been as open as the lake, and the Lincoln park board is in a position to refute any charge of any nature whatsoever that may in any way be made against it.

"The board courts the closest scrutiny as to its record, and is ready to answer any questions in any investigation, no matter how farcical it may be."

Survey Figures Introduced.

Figures produced from recent surveys by E. H. Heilbron, consulting engineer for the legislative committee, were introduced at the hearing as evidence that 532 acres of land bordering three lakes in McHenry county is inclosed within the meander line and is state property held by private interests. Crystal, Woods, and Griswold lakes are the bodies of water named.

C. B. Shedd, who had been called upon to testify before the committee to tell of Knickerbocker Ice company holdings on Crystal lake, did not appear, causing Mr. Chiperfield to become ruffled. The chairman said that should Mr. Shedd fail to appear when again called measures would be taken to force his appearance.

Cases of the Pennsylvania railway company, the Allis-Chalmers company, and the American Steel and Wire company were heard. The companies were called upon to furnish details concerning their holdings along the Chicago river, where the committee charges certain of the holdings rightfully belong to the state.

DEAF MUTE WINS DIVORCE ON GROUNDS OF DESERTION.

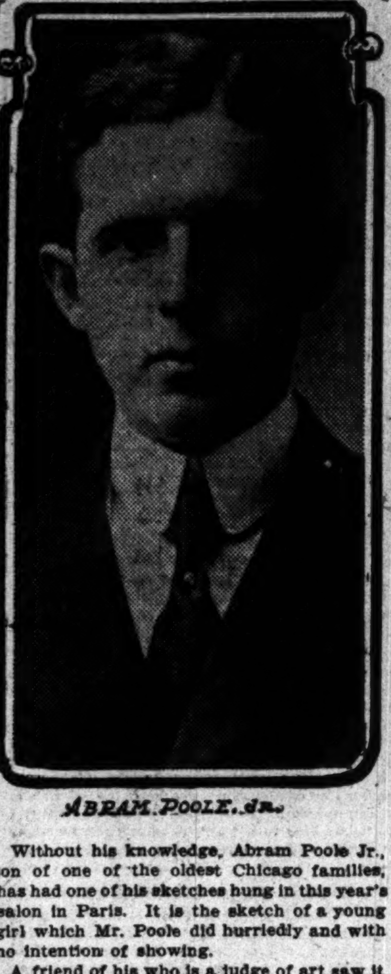
Jeweler's Wife Also Gets Decree for Cruelty—Wife Would Stop Husband Talking to Her.

Two wives were granted divorces yesterday by Judge Chetlain. They were Mrs. Loretta Emmons and Mrs. Mary Howlett, a deaf mute. Mrs. Emmons trapped her husband in a downtown hotel with a Miss Fleming. Mrs. Howlett's charge was desertion.

Mrs. Suzanna Papke, in seeking a divorce, accuses James J. Papke, a jeweler at Colorado and Kedzie avenues, of dragging her about the house by the hair and driving her into the street barefooted.

Charles of cruelty and infidelity are made against Frank Russo, a South Water street fruit merchant, in a bill for separate maintenance. Marguerita Ventura is named as co-respondent. Mrs. Russo also says he frequently drove her and the children out of the house.

Chicago Artist Honored in Paris.



ABRAM POOLE, JR.

Without his knowledge, Abram Poole Jr., son of one of the oldest Chicago families, has had one of his sketches hung in this year's salon in Paris. It is the sketch of a young girl which Mr. Poole did hurriedly and with no intention of showing.

A friend of his who is a judge of art saw it hanging on his wall and asked for it as a gift. Mr. Poole gave it to him. The latter had it framed and submitted it to the board of critics, who accepted it. Now it is attracting widespread attention.

Young Mr. Poole has been studying in Munich for a year. He will come home this summer on a visit. His brother, Ernest Poole, has distinguished himself as a writer.

SCHOOL ROW OVER OLD VIOLIN

PRINCIPAL IS BLAMED.

Joseph Belousek Charges Sarah Fleming with Persecution.

Charges of persecution growing out of a refusal to permit his son to play in the school orchestra were made by Joseph Belousek, who lives at Nutt and West Eighteenth streets, against Miss Sarah Fleming, principal of the Jungman school before the school management committee of the Chicago board of education yesterday. The committee referred the matter to Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools.

"My son John came home from school one day last fall and said Principal Fleming had ordered him to take his violin to school and play in the orchestra," declared Mr. Belousek. "He is a good musician for a 16 year old boy.

"His violin is worth several hundred dollars and has been in our family many years. I told him he couldn't take it to school and risk harming it.

Ordered to Stay at Home.

He told Miss Fleming and she ordered him to stay away from school until he could obey her instructions. My daughter also goes to the Jungman school. When the new geographies were distributed my girl didn't get one because the supply ran short. Miss Fleming told my daughter to get a geography, but the stores weren't selling them and I couldn't buy one. I wrote to the principal and she told the little girl that she couldn't bother with her and that she had better get a geography or stay at home. There was so much trouble I decided to take the children out of school and present the matter to the board of education."

Principal Fleming refused to discuss the case after the session. Members of the committee also declined to speak of the charges.

Objects to Burke School Site.

The proposed erection of the new Burke school at South Park avenue and Fifty-fourth street was strenuously objected to by Mrs. Isabelle O'Keeffe at the committee meeting. On Mrs. Young's recommendation the committee considered a plan to increase the capacity of the school from twenty-four to thirty rooms.

"But that is a poor location for a school," declared Mrs. O'Keeffe. "It fronts on Washington park, it is too far north, and too far east. I think we should look for a better site—a site in the neighborhood of Michigan avenue and Fifty-sixth street, where a new school is needed."

Mrs. Young agreed with Mrs. O'Keeffe and the report was withdrawn.

TAX COMMISSION BEGINS ITS WORK

Gov. Deneen Launches New Reform Body and Expects Great Things of It.

EQUABLE LEVIES ITS AIM.

Three Chicagoans Are Included in Membership; Future Meetings Here.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Deneen today launched his special tax commission at a meeting in the old Supreme court room of the statehouse. In a speech to the members he told them that all the machinery of the state would be set at their disposal for necessary investigation as defined in the act creating the commission and that he personally would do his utmost to aid them in arriving at feasible recommendations for the purpose of insuring more equable taxation.

The governor said it was his desire to embody whatever recommendations might be arrived at in his regular message to the legislature, or, if it were not practicable to do so, in a special message.

The members of the commission are:

JOHN P. WILSON, Chicago, attorney, president.

EDMUND J. JAMES, president of the University of Illinois, secretary.

A. M. CRAIG, Galesburg, former justice of the Supreme court.

A. P. GROUT, Winchester.

BEN F. CALDWELL, Chatham, former congressman.

B. L. WINCHELL, Chicago, president of the Frisco system.

C. E. MERRIAM, professor of economics, University of Chicago.

Only One Absent from Meeting.

All of the members of the commission with the exception of Mr. Winchell, were present at the meeting.

Gov. Deneen stated that he had received a telegram from Mr. Winchell to the effect that circumstances made it impossible for him to attend the first meeting.

"The work of the commission is defined in the statutes," said the governor. "The appropriations, I think, are large enough to provide for a detailed organization. If you find that the men you employ cannot get the information you require I will be glad to assist you.

"I hope we will be able to make some advance in legislation regarding revenue while I am in office. I would like to present your findings to the legislature in my message—a special message if necessary.

"Each man here was sought and urged to take the position. I look forward to great profit from your investigation."

Committee to Map Out Work.

Following the selection of Mr. Wilson as president of the commission and Dr. James as secretary a committee composed of Mr. Wilson, former Judge Craig, and Prof. Merriam was appointed to map out the necessary subcommittees which will be required to take up phases of the work of investigation. This committee will report to the commission next Thursday morning in the rooms of the Illinois grain and railroad and warehouse commission, 218 La Salle street, Chicago, where the sessions of the commission henceforth will be held.

Realizing that they have a big and important job before them, the commissioners carefully reviewed the act setting forth their duties.

BOYLE MUST GIVE BIGGER BOND

Police Pension Board Increases Treasurer's Surety Elevenfold.

TO INVEST PART OF FUND.

Acts on Merriam Advice and Will Buy State or City Securities.

The board of trustees of the police pension fund increased yesterday the bond of its treasurer, Thomas Boyle, eleven fold. His surety formerly was $50,000. It was raised to $550,000 in recognition of the fact that he has fully the latter amount in his stewardship.

The point of the unsatisfactoriness of the small bond was raised in the hearings before the Merriam commission. William Rothmann, president of the board, who appeared voluntarily as a witness, went on record as favoring a larger bond.

It was stated at the close of the late afternoon session that Mr. Boyle, although he had refused to appear before the Merriam commission and explain the absence of an accounting for the interest on the pension money, personally requested that his bond be increased to conform with the growth of the fund in his charge.

Authorizes Investment of Money.

The board also gave a second recognition to the work of the Merriam commission by authorizing the investment of $300,000 in state or municipal bonds, the purchase of which is permitted under the statute creating the fund. With the inception of the board there were not sufficient funds to warrant an outlay in this direction, but with the present balance in the treasurer's hands the board agreed with the Merriam commission that a safe investment would be proper.

The board also voted pensions for sixteen members of the department, and received a communication from Chief Steward in which he notified the board that of a list of 370 men suitable for retirement at least 40 per cent will be eligible for pensions. Of those already examined more than that proportion have been found incapacitated for duty.

Unwilling to Risk Test Case.

Since the abolition of the retiring board Chief Steward has requested the members of the force under scrutiny to appear for examination and all of them have complied in spite of the efforts of Michael J. Sullivan, attorney for the United Police. An effort has been made to find a member of the force who would refuse to obey the summons for examination, and thus create a test case of the matter in the courts, but so far none has consented.

Chief Steward received Miss Lucy Page Gaston of the Anti-Cigaret league. She informed him she was convinced that laxity in the enforcement of anti-cigaret laws had increased recently. The chief assured her he would issue a special order on the subject.

SAW MONEY FIRST; THEN SUED.

Father Adopted Novel Plan Before Allowing Broderick-Post Breach of Promise Action.

It's a wise father who makes sure a man can afford to pay a breach of promise verdict before he lets his daughter file such a suit.

W. J. Broderick, whose daughter, Alma Broderick, has been awarded a verdict of $40,000 against Jerome Post in New York, is one father like this. "Before my daughter filed her suit, I made certain of the ability of Post to pay," he said yesterday. "Her mother, and I are glad she got the money from that man."

Mr. Broderick, who had just arrived from New York, wished to correct the statement, that his daughter is a Chicago girl. She calls New York her home, he said.

ASTOR AIDS WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Waldorf Offers Practically Unlimited Sum to British Association.

BORN IN U. S., BUT BRITON.

Recently Defeated in Race for Parliament; Enjoys Royal Favor.

LONDON, April 14.—Waldorf Astor has offered the National Association for the Prevention of Consumption a practically unlimited sum to carry on the fight against tuberculosis.

Waldorf Astor is the son of William Waldorf Astor. He was a candidate for member of the house of commons for Plymouth in the last elections but was defeated.

Born in U. S., but a Briton.

Although born in New York, as a citizen of the United States, Astor would have needed no naturalization to take a seat in Britain's parliament had he been elected. William Waldorf Astor secured English letters of naturalization while his two boys were under age, which converted them, ipso facto, into Britons. Of course, from an American point of view, they could, on attaining their majority, have recovered their United States citizenship by electing to belong to the land of their birth rather than to that of their adoption. But neither saw fit to take this step.

Waldorf Astor is possessed of great wealth, derived not only from American sources, but from English land. He is a generous contributor to the funds of the Conservative party, to patriotic undertakings, and to philanthropic institutions, and enjoys in a marked degree the favor of the sovereign, as well as the friendship of the reigning family.

Enjoys Favor of Queen.

A few years ago when Queen Alexandra on the occasion of the fortieth anniversary of her wedding gave a dance at Buckingham palace, which, differing from the ordinary court balls, was officially stated to be restricted to "intimate personal friends of their majesties," Waldorf Astor, then unmarried, figured conspicuously among the guests.

Nor does this favor excite any jealousy, either at court or in society. For by his quiet manner and his common sense Waldorf Astor has made himself popular in England.

Mr. Astor was married in 1906 to Mrs. Nannie Langhorne Shaw, a divorcée, and of the type of beauty made famous by C. D. Gibson's sketches.

MAY BAR TUBERCULAR WORKERS.

Columbus, O., April 14.—If persons suffering from tuberculosis can be proved to be a menace to the health of others, boards of health may compel them to give up their employment, according to an opinion given today by the attorney general's department. AERONAUT CAUGHT IN ROPE FALLS FROM LARGE BALLOON.

German Maneuvers for Benefit of Parliament Are Marred by Accident Which May Prove Fatal.

BERLIN, April 14.—Aeronaut Lorenz became entangled in the guide ropes of the military dirigible balloon M. 4 as it was leaving the ground to day and was carried high above the field, where he clung for a moment and then fell. He was probably fatally injured.

The accident occurred on Tegal field, and was witnessed by 300 members of the Prussian parliament who had been invited by the minister of war to see the airship maneuver.

Aeroplane Falls Into Lake.

PLAU, Germany, April 14.—Major von Parseval's new aeroplane, the largest yet constructed, which early this month underwent successful preliminary trials here, was caught in a violent and gusty wind while flying over Lake Plau today, and, turning turtle, fell into the waters. Engineers Blochmann and Hoff escaped uninjured. They dropped with the machine, but succeeded in freeing themselves from the wreckage and were picked up by a passing craft.

VANDERBILT AID IN CRASH.

Woman Is Killed in Wreck of Racing Stable Trainer's Auto in France.

PARIS, April 14.—A persistent rumor was current in Paris tonight that W. K. Vanderbilt had been injured in an automobile accident. It was the outgrowth of an accident to a car containing William Duke, trainer of Mr. Vanderbilt's racing stable; Platt, his assistant trainer; and Mrs. Platt. Mrs. Platt was killed. When Mr. Vanderbilt heard of the accident he withdrew his horses from Friday's races at Maisons-Laffitte.

Riots at Changsha Continue, but Foreigners Are Believed to Be Safe.

PEKING, April 15.—The riots at Changsha, the capital of Hunan, which began Wednesday, still continue. The buildings of the Methodist China inland mission and the Norwegian mission have been burned. No report has been received from the Yale mission. The provincial governor is besieged. It is believed that no foreigners have been harmed. The telegraph wires have been destroyed.

PASTOR UNDER GRAVE CHARGE.

South Dakota Minister Arrested with Youth at Hyde Park Hotel—Denies Guilt.

The Rev. H. L. Hastings, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Claremont, S. D., is a prisoner at the Hyde Park police station charged with a serious offense. Frederick D. Frieling, 19 years old, son of Christopher Frieling, a wealthy contractor of St. Louis, is the complaining witness in the case, and also is being held. They were arrested shortly after midnight at 12 o'clock Wednesday night at the Hyde Park hotel, where the minister had engaged a room. Hastings stoutly denies his guilt. He has a wife and five children living at Claremont.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico—William J. Bryan has sailed for New York on the steamer Caracas. A large crowd was at the pier to bid him farewell. Mr. Bryan plans to return to his home in Nebraska, soon afterwards visiting Texas. He expects to sail for Scotland in May.

SHANGHAI—The Wesleyan China Inland mission at Changsha, the capital of the province of Hunan, has been destroyed by rioters. The missionaries took refuge in the Yamen, which the rioters subsequently attacked. There was no loss of life.

HAVANA—The United States cruiser Montana, with Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood aboard, and in company with the scout cruiser Chester, has sailed for Rio Janeiro.

MADRID—King Alfonso has signed a decree dissolving parliament. The new parliament will be elected in May and will assemble on June 15.

QUAKE PANIC IN COSTA RICA

Over Thirty Shocks Drive People from Homes to Hills.

COMMERCE AT A STANDSTILL.

Damage of $1,000,000, but No Loss of Life Reported.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 14.—A series of earthquakes in Costa Rica in the last twenty-four hours have done damage doughly estimated at more than $1,000,000. There has been no report of loss of life, but the people in the cities are panic stricken and are abandoning their homes for the hillsides.

There have been more than thirty shocks, ten occurring between 12 o'clock last night and 3 o'clock this morning. Property in San José worth several hundred thousand dollars has been destroyed. It is feared there will be more damage, as the vibrations have not ceased.

Commerce at a Standstill.

Today the government ordered a suspension of business until safety is assured. Banks and public institutions have been closed and trade and commerce are at a standstill.

The first shocks last evening were slight and caused little alarm, but later ones were more violent, and buildings were shaken to their foundations. In several instances weaker buildings were wrecked, and many persons slightly injured. Communication between the various towns has been interrupted and details of the damage done are lacking.

Many Volcanoes in Costa Rica.

Costa Rica, which next to Salvador is the smallest of the Central American states, is mountainous, with numerous volcanos, some of which are active. San José, the capital, has a population of 25,000. It lies twelve miles west northwest of Cartage, the chief volcano of which, Irazu, is active and has led to several destructive seismic disturbances. Earthquakes are frequent, and Cartage has suffered heavily four times in the last century—in 1803, 1841, 1851, and 1854.

SUFFRAGIST IN NOVEL PLEA

Produces Imbecile as "Horrible Example" on Paris Platform.

HE CAN VOTE; WHY NOT I?

Woman Candidate Uses Man Rival to Emphasize Argument.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, April 14.—Mme. Margaret Durand, who is standing as a candidate for the chamber of deputies from the Ninth district in Paris and who, if she received a plurality of the votes cast, probably would not be seated on account of her sex, startled an audience of men last night when she presented the latest candidate against her, a man named Charles Marest, who has been widely advertised.

Marest proved to be an imbecile. He advanced to the front of the platform after Mme. Durand had introduced him. He smiled in a stupid sort of way, whereupon the audience which crowded the theater arose and protested against the proceedings.

Mme. Durand, who is handsome and up to date in the matter of clothes, succeeded in calming the audience by explaining what her purpose was. She said Marest was the son of a dipsomaniac. He understood nothing she said. He was absolutely stupid. Her object in presenting him to the audience was to give an experimental demonstration.

"Here," she said, "is an imbecile whom the law allows to vote and be a candidate for the chamber. By his side there stands a woman in the full force of her intelligence, and yet she is denied the same privileges by the same law."

Then a woman walked up to the platform and objected to the proceedings. She was so determined that she succeeded in preventing any further progress until it was time for adjournment.

It is understood that Mme. Durand has decided to exclude women from the next lecture so as to prevent a renewal of this form of obstructionism.

I. C. FINDS GRAFT IN MANY PLACES

Inquiry Said to Have Indicated Fraud Was Practiced in Many Departments.

TRAIL HAS "BRANCHES."

Harahan's Detectives Investigate the Transactions of Outside Companies.

New disclosures of the secret graft investigation which President Harahan of the Illinois Central has been conducting are said to have indicated yesterday that the operations to defraud the railroad by collusion between employés and outside interests extended to many departments and the losses may reach into the millions.

The wide scope and the systematic methods of "holdup," combined with the personnel of the officials and employés said to be involved, already has attracted the attention of other railroads and similar investigations by other lines is looked for if the concrete results are as expected.

President Harahan and his subordinates, as well as Detective W. J. Burns, who has promoted the investigation for Mr. Harahan, refused to discuss the probable results of the inquiry. Reports that evidence had been submitted to State's Attorney Wayman with a view to instituting criminal proceedings against some of the men involved in the alleged conspiracy were denied by Mr. Wayman.

"No complaint has been made to this office," he said, "but if the company has the evidence of conspiracy against any men we will act."

Evidence Points to Officials?

It was learned during the day that the conspiracy evidence points toward men who have held prominent positions with the road in the last two years as well as to minor employés.

Something of the universal activity of the alleged grafting conspirators may be seen from the variety of outside concerns to which the graft trail followed by the detectives led. The car repairing graft, which was emphasized when the investigation began as being of monumental proportions, now is said by men acquainted with the revelations to form only a small proportion of the total.

Among the Chicago companies and others to which the attention of the detectives has been directed by admissions from employés of the road and others are firms which deal in materials used in the manufacture of car equipment of all descriptions, manufacturers of patent devices for cars and railroad appliances of various kinds, car factories, lumber purchases, and even paint and other ordinary supplies.

Trail Leads to Road's Shops.

The trail to find the grafters has been followed into not only a dozen car repairing plants of outside ownership, but even into the plants operated by the railroad itself, it is said, one of these being at Burnside and others outside of Chicago. In Burnside have been found materials that were purchased by the railroad for outside car repairing plants which were of such inferior quality that they were refused. It has been learned, for instance, that poor grades of lumber turned down by outside plants have passed inspection and been used in the company plant.

It was said also that some of the Chicago shippers have not been above corrupting employés of the railroad for the purpose of making profits for themselves. One plan has been in connection with the payment of demurrage on cars in the yards. It has been discovered by the shippers that by "seeing" the right men their cars, which stood overtime before being unloaded, never called for any demurrage charges, or if charges were assessed, they were light.

Men connected with car repairing companies have said that many specific brands of materials which were listed as "must" supplies in the schedules furnished by the railroad, have been found of inferior quality and quoted at prices at which good materials could have been purchased. Also the listing of particular makes of equipment in the schedules to the exclusion of all other similar grades of other manufacturing companies has been investigated with results which have been self-explanatory.

Railroad Holds Bills.

Many of the car repairing companies have bills in the railroad offices which are being held unpaid until the conclusion of the investigation.

Much attention has been paid by the detectives to reports of realty and personal property holdings of the railroad officials toward whom circumstances point as men who may have profited from the graft operations.

The many changes in the officials of the road during the last year, President Harahan declares, have had no connection with the suspected operations of a graft "ring," and he further asserts that no change among the higher officials will result from present revelations.

BEACONS BLAZE FOR BANDIT

Farmers Stay Awake Under Arms to Guard Against Escape.

STOLE AUTO TO GET LOOT.

Searching for Booty of Bank Robbery He Shoots at Posse.

Redwood Falls, Minn., April 14.—[Special.]—The country for miles about is ablaze with beacon fires and the entire rural population is awake and heavily armed in the hope of capturing a desperado who inaugurated a reign of terror in this county this morning.

The hunted man was seen first at an early hour in an automobile. His actions aroused the suspicions of the farmers, who alarmed the sheriff and formed several posses to capture him. The pursuit which followed covered a trail of eighty miles and resulted in the escape of the bandit after he had engaged in a running rifle duel with the sheriff and had shot holes in the tires of that officer's automobile.

Thought to Be Bank Robber.

It is supposed the man is one of the band of robbers who blew the safe of the First State bank of Seaforth and escaped the pursuing posse with $2,600 in cash. The robbers are believed to have cached their loot and the man now in hiding somewhere in the woods near here is thought to have returned to obtain it and take it to St. Paul for division among the members of the gang.

The chauffeur who drove the bandit's automobile was arrested and told a thrilling story of an all night drive at the point of a rifle. The chauffeur said the man, who was a stranger to him, had hailed his automobile in St. Paul last night. As the machine was for rent, the chauffeur picked up his passenger and immediately afterward found the muzzle of a rifle, which the man had carried beneath his coat, poked into his ribs.

He obeyed orders and drove his passenger over the 115 miles of rough roads between St. Paul and this county. He said the man seemed to be trying to get his bearings when near Redwood Falls. The officers believe he was trying to locate the cache in which the gang had placed the loot from the bank.

Sheriff Gives Chase in Auto.

Sheriff Schueller hired an automobile with a chauffeur and gave chase to the mysterious stranger when he received the farmers' report. He picked up the trail from persons who had been following and reporting the location of the two strangers in the machine over the farmers' telephone line, and finally overtook his quarry at the bend in a road, four miles south of here.

The machine sped on, but the sheriff's chauffeur gave chase and rapidly was overhauling the pursued machine. At this juncture the desperado, 200 yards ahead, covered the two pursuers with his guns and ordered them to halt. In answer the sheriff reached for his own weapon and the chauffeur forced his machine faster over the ground.

The desperado fired three times. Two of the shots pierced and exploded the two front tires of the sheriff's machine and disabled it. The sheriff jumped out and ran ahead, shooting at the strangers. The chauffeur of the desperado's machine stopped and the desperado himself darted off into the forest. The sheriff arrested the chauffeur and turned him over to the posse.

Troops Join Search for Bandit.

The sheriff was joined by company L of the Minnesota guard from Redwood Falls armed with regulation government rifles. They pursued the desperado to an abandoned barn, which, upon being riddled with bullets, was found not to contain the elusive quarry. No trace of him since has been found. The bonfires which have been lighted and will be kept burning all night cover a radius of twenty miles. It is certain that the fugitive will be seen if he tries to flee before daybreak.

BOY ROBBER SLAYS WOMAN; OILS DRESS AND FIRES IT.

Caught while Stealing Valuables, Indianian Hits Victim with a Club—Writes Confession in Jail.

Richmond, Ind., April 14.—Charles A. Revelee, 19 years old, arrested today, has confessed, the police say, that he murdered Mrs. Frank Allison, near Cambridge City, sixteen miles west, on April 6.

After spending two hours in a cell Revelee sent for Chief of Police Gorman, and, asking for paper and pencil, wrote a story of the murder, to which he signed his name as the murderer, the police announce.

The night before the murder, this narrative relates, Revelee slept in the barn on the Allison farm. In the morning he watched Allison and his employé go to a field two miles away, and then he slipped into the house. He knew where the Allisons kept their jewelry and money, and he went to this room. He was gathering up the valuables when caught by Mrs. Allison.

Knocking the woman down, he crushed her skull with a club, ran to the kitchen for the gasoline can, poured oil on his victim's clothing, and touched a match to it. Waiting to see the body enveloped in flames, and satisfied that the house would take fire, Revelee fled and came to this city on an interurban car.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

VERDI'S "Otello" was repeated last night to an audience that was perhaps twice as large as that which greeted its performance last week. The public is slow to awaken to the appreciation of a masterpiece. In fact, such an innovator as Claude Debussy is authority for the statement that any art work of real refinement is beyond the perceptions of the masses. M. Debussy is doubtless obliged to discover some explanation not too distasteful to his self-esteem which will explain the relative unpopularity of his own compositions, so one is not compelled to accept his dictum literally, the less so since it contradicts a well established tradition to the effect that though the great public forms its judgments slowly it eventually becomes convinced of the worth of any great masterpiece.

We may therefore conclude that Verdi's great opera will eventually be accorded the same place in the hearts of the operagoers that the patrons of the symphony concert reserve for the great orchestral compositions of Beethóvén. In other words, it will be viewed with respect by many and with veneration and affection by the serious minded few. It is too great ever to be popular in the sense of Puccini's "Mme. Butterfly." Yet there is wealth enough of musical idea and orchestral device, of dramatic symbolism, of sheer beauty and eloquence in the first act of "Otello" alone to supply material for all the operas that Puccini will probably ever write.

The modern Italian school stands to the last two operas of Verdi as the symphonies and overtures of Mendelssohn and Schumann, to Beethoven's works in similar form, as the symphonic poems of Richard Strauss to the music dramas of Wagner, as the impressionistic creations of the present day Frenchmen to a symphony of Cesar Franck. Those who have come after the great ones have only developed and amplified details and isolated phases of their art.

Verdi's "Otello" and "Falstaff" reveal a new musical personality. They develop a nobility of melody, a freedom of harmonic progression, a variety and richness of orchestral color that stand definitely and unmistakably for a great musical individuality. One may not immediately define it. It shares something of that directness of utterance that is Beethoven's, something of that subtlety that belongs to Cesar Franck. It is totally unlike Wagner in that it is free from that deliberateness of purpose, that calculation, which is one of his most marked characteristics. By reason of its greater spontaneity it seems likely that it will exercise a more potent influence on the opera of the future than will that commanding figure of German music.

Last night's performance was masterly. It revealed little that was new nor did it surpass in any particular that of last week. But it equaled that memorable event in general excellence, though the Iago of Amato is not so finished an impersonation as is Scotti's impersonation of the same rôle. Vocally it is more vigorous. Dramatically it is less impressive.

Slezak was again the Moor and repeated his splendid achievements in that enormous part. Mme. Alda was Desdemona and likewise earned abundant praise. The orchestra under Toscanini was all that we have learned to expect and the chorus performed its functions faultlessly. Unless Toscanini surprises us in his interpretation of "Die Leistersinger" next Monday evening we may assume that we have witnessed the most inspiring and musically important events of the season in the two "Otello" performances.

News Notes of the Theaters.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

THE upstart in "The Upstart" is a sophomore with revolutionary visions concerning divorce and the marriage state. Thus equipped, he devotes his vacation to the establishment of his disconcerting theories in the household of a placid parson who gives his pretty wife platitudes about domestic dignity instead of about her eyes and her hair. An Andrew Mack Irishman employed as the preacher's chauffeur incites disturbance then by filling the young woman's empty life with blarney of the wild Irish rose sort, and, encouraged by the upstart with his ideas of domestic freedom, an elopement ensues.

At this juncture a broad old jurist takes affairs in hand, stops the absconding mechanic and the pastor's wife before much harm has been done, upsets all the theories concerning marriage that far submitted, and reëstablishes everything on a sane basis.

The upstart is discomfited at the exposure of his fancies, the preacher likewise with his, and the play ends with the substitution of devotion for dignity in the daily life of the family, and subsequent content and happiness.

The farce is broadly and brightly written by Tom Barry and is acted in the pretty Ziegfeld theater on the lake front. The participants include John Westley in the name part, a combination of insolence and absurdity; Frank Gilmore in the rôle of the preacher; Ralph Stuart as the oily chauffeur; Miss Charlotte Ives as the hungering bride; and James Lackaye as the judge—one of those jovial, capable impersonations in which that player excels. Bertram Harrison, the producer, is a general manager for Henry Miller, for whose benefit a special matinée will be given next Friday afternoon, to which all the operatic and dramatic artists now playing in Chicago are bidden.

Miss Adeline Boyer, a slim and sinuous young woman with a million dollars' worth of eyes, according to the estimate of one of yesterday's enchanted spectators, engages this week at the American Music hall in a dancing drama of oriental scene and action. The display is meant to picture the struggle of a slave girl to escape the arms of King Solomon, and it contains quantities of graceful movement and vivid suggestion. As a dancer Miss Boyer possesses no academic importance and probably claims none, but she is almost as bare as those who do and is fully as beautiful. She comes into view when the bill is about half over, and in proximity to her are the Romany opera company, good singers of selections from Italian opera; Miss Josephine Sabel, a husky "chanteuse," and the Georgia Campers, a collection of negro singers and dancers who play with the characteristic abandon of the performers of their race.

Miss Amelia Stone and Armand Kalisz, late of "The Kissing Girl" organization, announce their marriage.

Hall Caine's "The White Prophet" has been obtained for dramatization by the Messrs. Liebler, and it is said that it will be used as an outlet for Miss Margaret Anglin.

A tour of America is contemplated by Weedon Grossmith in "Mr. Preedy and the Countess."

"The Fourth Estate" will end its run at the Studebaker Saturday night. On April 25 Richard Carle will arrive in "The Echo," with Mrs. Annie Yeamans, Miss Eva Fallon, Joseph Herbert, and others in his company.

When Laurence Irving returns to London he will produce his play which E. H. Sothern exploited in this country some time ago under the title "The Fool Hath Said in His Heart." Mr. Irving, however, will change the title to "The Unwritten Law," and will appear in the rôle originated by Mr. Sothern.

Mr. Irving and his wife, Miss Mabel Hackney, have produced the comedy by Eugene Brieux called "The Three Daughters of M. Dupont," under the management of the Messrs. Shubert. With Mr. Irving and Miss Hackney are Misses Dorothy Dorr and Jeffreys Lewis, Mr. Charles Millward, Misses Emily Wakeman and Isabel Waldron, Messrs. J. Hooker Wright, Alfred Cahil, Henry Mortimer, Harry Scarborough, and others. The translation, a literal one, was made by Mr. Irving. The play, one of the first of Brieux's to be presented in Paris, deals with family subjects. It aims to show how Dupont's narrow ideals wreck the lives of his three daughters, driving one into an ignoble life, one into a convent, and one into a loveless marriage. After a few nights on tour Mr. Irving and Miss Hackney will go to the Comedy theater in New York with the play.

The defection of W. A. Brady and his enterprises from the Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger affiliation to that of the Messrs. Shubert is announced in New York.

David Belasco's company in "Is Matrimony a Failure?" is booked for an engagement at Powers' beginning May 9th. It is likely that the theater will be closed for two weeks in order to prepare for this attraction and to put the playhouse in summer attire. The company includes Frank Worthing, William Morris, W. J. Ferguson, Jane Cowl, Ann Sutherland, Jane Grey, James Bradbury, Robert Rogers, F. Newton Lindo, Louise Macintosh, Louise Woods, Louise Ripley, John F. Weber, Edward Langford, Frank Manning, Blanche Yurka, Josie M. Sullivan, Julia Reinhardt, Gilmore Scott, John Randall, John Theise, Helen Ferguson, Gretta Vendell, Marjorie Polk, Josephine Bernard, Frank Denny, and twenty others.

In the process of establishing the Lyric as a theater of the first class the Messrs. Shubert will send their New theater company there in addition to Marlowe and Sothern.

In New York it is becoming quite a habit to accuse Preston Gibson of plagiarism since the admissions concerning "The Turning Point" were made. A writer in the New York Sun indicts Mr. Gibson's "The Vacuum" for a striking resemblance to Balzac's "Grande Bretèche."

The Wide, Wide World.

Sicilian Code of Honor Serves to Hide Crime.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL. D.

[Copyright: 1910: By The Tribune Company.]

PALERMO, Sicily, Jan. 26.—History shows the Sicilian to be almost everything but a Sicilian. The fact remains that on this island of about 10,000 square miles, which is about the size of Massachusetts or Vermont, there are more than 3,500,000 people. They are packed in here at the rate of 360 a square mile. Only Massachusetts and Rhode Island, among our states, show such density.

There are over half a million Sicilians in the United States. Who are they? We already know something of their blood. Does that blood alone explain their temperament? I think not. The Sicilian has been characterized as bold, fearless, vindictive, a lover of his children, a hater of spies, arrogant, insolent, vivid in imagination, affable, friendly, benevolent, cruel, a gambler, picturesque, poverty stricken, and sometimes a murderer and robber.

Sicilians of the Metropolis.

Out west they still hang men for less than this; but the defenders of the honesty, integrity, and ability of the Sicilian are not few in the United States. The extent to which he possesses any or all of the above catalogue of qualities I am not yet in position to judge. Such judgment can only come from personal acquaintance with him, after an extended journey over the island, seeing him under varying conditions. There are certain facts of his life which may be read here in the metropolis, a city which has sent to the United States more people than any other one city in the island. Some of these facts may be explained in the light of our brief review of Sicilian history.

Varying and divergent as is the above catalogue of human attributes ascribed to the Sicilian, they are, as a rule, not irreconcilable. Apparent discrepancies can be explained only by taking into account the peculiar conditions under which Sicilian culture developed. We may explain the peculiar and to us abnormal traits of Sicilian character by reference to his history. Such light helps us to understand him and makes us tolerant. However much we may withhold adverse judgment, we are still compelled to ask ourselves whether men of the character and disposition of the Sicilian form desirable additions to American blood and culture.

Grant that the Sicilians are excellent laborers, even model colonists, that their children show great ability in school, that we perform an act of humanitarian charity in accepting them in enabling them to escape intolerable conditions, we must look the situation squarely in the face. Can we assimilate the Sicilian? Do they bring to America Sicilian traits of character? Does their tendency to segregate in America foster and perpetuate these tendencies?

Peculiar Situation.

We are confronted with a peculiar situation in Sicily. There is that in Sicilian culture which stands for, encourages, or tolerates without protest, conditions of mentality and of culture in general which not only hinder progress but perpetuate vices which are neither primitive nor savage.

The fact that we are corrupt, that public interests are bought, sold, and traded, that there is carelessness or worse in our handling of immigrants, that colossal crimes go unpunished because the average man is too often engaged in looking after his own interests, does not make the Sicilian easy to be absorbed.

The best index to Sicilian character I have found is a remark made by the chief of police to our consul in Palermo, when talking of the inability of the police to detect the assassins of Lieut. Petrosino. This man said that "If Petrosino had been slain at the Four Corners [the most prominent and crowded spot in the city], the result would have been the same. Nobody would have seen, nobody would have heard, nobody would have given testimony."

This amazing condition is not a specialty of Palermo—it is a Sicilian trait. It is what they call omerata, or manliness. The Sicilians have no monopoly of this attitude toward honor. But it reaches a high development here.

ORANGE VENDER, PALERMO

Murders Go Unavenged.

A woman of Palermo was carried to the hospital the other day, bleeding from a dozen wounds. She swore that she had hurt herself falling downstairs. Investigation showed that her husband, in trying to kill her, had horribly mutilated her body with a bit of broken dish. A man on his deathbed, with a dozen gashes in his body, made with a knife, swears that he has no idea how it all happened. He even suspects no one. A coast train pulls into Palermo with stains of blood thickly bespattered over an empty compartment. The mutilated body of a great banker is found in the dry bed of a river a few miles out of town, where it had been thrown after the murder as the train passed over the bridge at night. At any other season of the year the river would have carried the body on to the sea. All the evidence points to a brother director in the bank, who had been exposed. The case drags on through one year after another. Testimony is not forthcoming. I have already heard three men of prominence say that they would like to have a dollar for every individual in Palermo who knows the names of Petrosino's assassins.

Crimes go unpunished, the police are helpless, even the brave carabinieri, or national police, are powerless to put down crime because evidence is not to be gotten. This peculiar kind of honor is responsible for much of Sicily's degradation. It is not only mean and cowardly and base to tell, but dangerous. They have their own way of settling their wrongs and grievances. These ways are not our ways. The vendetta flourishes, the Mafia thrives. Omeratá is the honor that is among thieves. It represents a stage or a special development of culture.

Truth Far Beneath Surface.

What we call the plain, simple, straight truth lies deep beneath the surface. It must be guessed at, it must be inferred. One Sicilian tells another a bit of gossip. Half of his tale is a direct lie. The part which contains the truth is not direct. He suggests it by signs, by grimaces, by nods, by shrugs. Thus, he saves his face, he has told nothing, he has not violated honor. Should anything ever grow out of the matter, he is able to protest, "I never said it."

We are not utterly unfamiliar with this form of gossip, but it is not our common or ideal method of doing business. To be caught in a lie is no disgrace for the Sicilian, simply because he refuses to be caught. He never admits that he has lied. When I accused the clerk at the stationer's of having changed the mark giving the price of the notebook, he violently protested that he had not. Further protest brought forth the admission that what I had seen was the cost price, and, that I might not be misled, he had erased it and substituted the selling price. He knew that I knew that he lied. But he saved his face. His only chagrin was that he did not succeed. You make a bargain with a cab driver, so much for a certain journey. He swears that it was not thus, but so. He may finally yield, but always with ill grace, because he has met with superior force.

I have been much impressed in watching an Americanized Sicilian doing business with the natives during a short trip in the country. He meets force with superior force, does not tell the man that he lies, but that he is a liar. The Sicilian respects a strong man, he respects force. But in each case it must be demonstrated.

Sometimes Truth Is Told.

There are people who tell the truth, but the time and the occasion must be right. A servant may rob his master at every opportunity. He will allow no one else to rob him. The two sons of perhaps the richest man in Sicily in modern times have been systematically plundered of a huge fortune in recent years, by their own associates. When they have been warned that this or that man is robbing them, their reply is, "Why do you tell me this? Do you want the position, that you may rob me? I find this man agreeable." They have even gone so far as to say that they would rather be plundered by a genial companion than associate with an honest but disagreeable agent.

The Sicilian's conception of truth and honesty is the result of his social environment through a long period of time. He manages to do business under this code, even to thrive and prosper. But it is the code of the orient.

"Maslin" Bread.

Among many curious consequences of the general election one comic result is that rye bread, which played an important part in the political controversies, has become a favorite viand of the house of commons. It is also, probably from curiosity, in frequent demand at most London restaurants. Rye, now seldom seen in England, was formerly grown a good deal in Lincolnshire, together with wheat and barley. From the combined flour of these three cereals was made the "maslin" bread, much appreciated by Tennyson's "northern farmer." The wheat gave strength, the barley sweetness, and the rye the quality of keeping moist for weeks. "Maslin," variously spelled, seems obviously the short for "miscellaneous."—Westminster Gazette.

Notes of Foreign Lands.

According to Consul General Jones at Winnipeg, Canada is in great need of rat traps. Farmers in the grain belt are becoming anxious over the invasion of rodents from the United States and are willing and able to pay a good price for a trap that will combine durability and efficiency. The rats are nearing Winnipeg and attempts to check them by inoculation with a communicable virus have so far failed to stop their march.

Although Birmingham, England, has a population of over half a million, it had but thirty-seven fires last year, in which the losses equaled one-sixth of the value of the property endangered.

Of 12,000,000,000 letters written in a year by the world at large, 8,000,000,000 are in English, 1,200,000,000 in German, and only 1,000,000,000 in French.

The French national congress of firemen has offered prizes for maxims to be taught school children so that they will realize the danger of fire.

Woman, Her Work and Interests

Just Between Us Girls.

BY SISTER MARY.

THE woman who is in love expects too much of marriage and the long year before that first anniversary is sure to have some unhappy moments for her. After that she gets the right perspective on married life and ceases to imagine that Freddie has ceased to love her just because he wants to spend an evening or two a month with the "fellows," or because he has stopped holding her hand at the breakfast table.

Most women marry with a lot of high ideals which are bound to get fearfully jolted. For instance, they think they will never, never quarrel. And then when the inevitable moment comes when she tells Freddie his necktie is unbecoming and offers to select one for him and he tells her he'd rather wear a strip of gunny sacking and she retorts that he may wear none for all of her, since he accepts her kindness in so rude a spirit, and he comes back with a few mutterings about how touchy and unreasonable women are, and she calls him a brute and begins to sob, well, where is the ideal about not quarreling?

My dear girl, two human beings of any spirit cannot live together without occasionally disagreeing and telling each other so.

Recollect a moment when you were a girl at home, didn't you and your sister pass some heated remarks occasionally about beaux and borrowed hats and whose turn it was to dust the parlor?

Haven't you even been known to give your own mother an unkind word, now and then, and hadn't she replied in the same spirit?

Well, then, if you did not always live in amity with the family which you were born in, if occasionally you let your angry passions rise against your nearest and dearest by blood ties, can you expect always to live peaceably with a young man whom you have only known a couple of years and whose claim on you is the perfectly disinterested one of love alone?

Why, certainly not.

So don't get the idea that the whole world of domestic happiness has gone smash because you and Freddie had a few words at breakfast time.

Give him a sweet smile and a slice of real home made apple pie at dinner and he will forget all about it. And you be a sensible girl and forget about it, too.

O, that first year of marriage! When you've been married twenty years and look back at the mistakes and the blunders and the silly little troubles you thought were such big ones during that first year you will smile and sigh, too.

You must realize, you know, that you have not married a peerless demi-god, far above all human frailties.

Your husband is much like other men, fond of peace and good eating, cajoled by a kiss, but obstinate under argument, easy to lead and hard to drive, a perfect child when any small ill of the flesh overtakes him and therefore intensely appreciative of any care and coddling which you can give him when pain and anguish wring his brow. We all know this is the exact description of 99 per cent of all the husbands on earth.

Make up your mind, then, that the happiness of this first year of marriage and therefore of all your married life rests with you, the wife.

Your husband will follow where you lead. If you quarrel quickly, be as quick to make up. Remember that creature comforts mean a great deal to a man.

If he remembers to send you flowers occasionally, let him see how intensely you enjoy the attention and he will continue it. And if he forgets to make love to you, ask yourself if you perhaps may have forgotten to play the merry coquette with him.

In such wise, your first year of married life may be happy, and a presage of the years that are to come.

Cleaning White Kid Gloves.

If they are not stained, only soiled, take a little sweet milk, a piece of soft white flannel, and a piece of common brown soap; put the glove on the hand, and put the flannel tightly over your finger, dip it in the milk to moisten it a very little, rub the soap on it, and rub the gloves gently. The kid must not be wet through.

$500 in Prizes

Best Suggestions for Bride's Trousseau

The Tribune offers the following five prizes for the best suggestions for a bride's trousseau:

One prize of $100 for the best trousseau to cost between $100 and $150.

One prize of $100 for the best trousseau to cost between $151 and $200.

One prize of $100 for the best trousseau to cost between $201 and $250.

One prize of $100 for the best trousseau to cost between $251 and $350.

One prize of $100 for the best trousseau to cost between $351 and $500.

In awarding these prizes quality must be taken into consideration as well as prices.

In order that there may be no dispute as to prices or quality it is necessary that in the list of articles which the competitor submits she must use the following style in naming each article:

First, the name of the article and a description full enough so that the judges may be able to decide upon the merits of the quality.

Next, the price.

And lastly, the Chicago shop at which the article could be bought and the day on which it was on sale at that price.

In order that out of town contestants may have the same advantages as those living in Chicago, it has been decided that descriptions given in advertisements in The Tribune may be submitted by the contestants, together with the prices at which the articles have been advertised and the date. The articles, however, must have been advertised in The Tribune either today or some other day during the week ending Saturday or be on sale in the Chicago shop named at the price given during this week. It is not necessary that the articles be advertised, but they must have been actually on sale at the price given in the competitor's list.

All of the articles must be bought ready made, with the exception of the wedding gown itself, which need not be ready made, and if not the materials must be specified, with the cost of each separately, and an allowance made for the making and findings.

The wedding gown must be one suitable for an afternoon wedding.

All entries in this contest must reach The Tribune office not later than 9 o'clock Monday morning, April 18, but no prices quoted in the newspapers of April 17 will be considered, as such prices might differ from those at which the articles were sold during the week ending April 16.

Lists submitted in competition should be addressed to

BRIDE'S TROUSSEAU,
TRIBUNE, CHICAGO

Trousseau Contest.

THE bridal trousseau contest, announced in this paper last Sunday, is on in full swing. While it is on the bill of fare for daily events all other questions must wait. The air is full of wedding bells, and crowds of women bearing burdens of samples congregate at every counter like voters at the polls.

On State street matrimony appears to be assuming the proportions of an epidemic.

Perhaps this season's fascinating fashions for brides has something to do with the universal and immense popularity of this contest. Never, within memory of women, did a season's modes offer so many suggestions for picturesque as well as practical wedding clothes; even if a suitor is not all he might be in eligibility, a young woman of taste might be tempted to accept him as a background for a picturesque wedding.

There is no disputing the fact that, artistically, the effect is much better when no commonplace, bifurcated, black broadcloth mars the shimmering glory of the scene. Men are out of their element at a wedding. Even the bridegroom is no exception. He isn't happy—he is usually scared to death—and it seems a pity that he has to be taken into consideration at all in the scenic arrangements.

With the bride it is different. Weddings were especially arranged for her delight. To begin with, she loves to shop, and the State street shops never were so fascinating as they now are in all their bridal finery; all the most delightful epochs of fashion are shown in this season's wedding trousseaux, and women readily see how to make delightful pictures of themselves without being conspicuous or freakish.

No wonder the contest is promoting the interests of matrimony.

The popularity of the contest is shown in the hundreds of letters received in each mail. To those who may not have seen the announcement of the contest the following will explain the conditions:

First, the name of the article and a description full enough so that the judges may be able to decide upon the merits of the quality.

Next, the price.

And lastly, the Chicago shop at which the article could be bought and the day on which it was on sale at that price.

In order that out of town contestants may have the same advantages as those living in Chicago, it has been decided that descriptions given in advertisements in THE TRIBUNE may be submitted by the contestants, together with the prices at which the articles have been advertised, and the date. The articles, however, must have been advertised in THE TRIBUNE either today or some other day during the week ending on Saturday, or be on sale in the Chicago shop named at the price given during this week. It is not necessary that the articles be advertised, but they must have been actually on sale at the price given in the competitor's list.

All of the articles must be bought ready made, with the exception of the wedding gown.

All entries in the contest must reach THE TRIBUNE office not later than 9 o'clock Monday morning, April 18, but no prices quoted in the newspapers of April 17 will be considered, as such prices might differ from those at which the articles were sold during the week ending April 16.

The judges will make personal examination of the articles advertised and satisfy themselves as to their value.

Don'ts for the Hostesses.

Don't invite uncongenial people. Have some stupid and some brilliant; some who will talk and some who will listen.

Don't watch for mistakes in the service.

Don't be absent-minded when the man at your side is talking to you.

Don't give orders to the maid if it is possible not to do so.

Don't seat a husband next to his wife.

If mistakes are made, remember they are more important to you than to the others.

D. K. PEARSONS, 90, SAYS "I'M HAPPY"

Rejoices Over Payment of Largest Debt, $1,000,000 He Thought Due Chicago.

REVIEWS HIS LONG LIFE.

Gives Credit for Fortune to the City's Business Princes of an Earlier Day.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons, 90 years young, celebrated his birthday yesterday by rejoicing over the payment of his largest debt.

"The thing which gives me most happiness today," he said, "is the fact that I am square with the city of Chicago—my largest and most patient creditor. Long ago I made up my mind that I owed Chicago $1,000,000, and with my $20,000 gift to the Y. M. C. A. this week I paid the last cent of it. I've been a long time paying up, but I finally managed to do it, and I feel that joy which always comes to a man when his last mortgage is lifted and he is square with the world."

Dr. Pearsons attributed his wealth to the fact that to him had been given the opportunity to live in Chicago at a time when fortunes were in the making, and to his association with the Chicago merchants and business men of half a century ago.

"Those men, Phil Armour among them, gave me my chance," he said. "For months and months I had to report regularly my progress to Mr. Armour, and it was due to his help and advice, along with that of other men of his type, that I got started. No credit is coming to me. If I have done good it is but a reflection of their generosity."

Many Remember His Birthday.

Dr. Pearsons spent the day reading congratulatory letters and telegrams and receiving callers, of whom there were more than a hundred. A stream of visitors poured into his residence at Hinsdale, some bearing boxes of American beauty roses and some merely stopping to wish him well. Among the callers were Wilbur Messer, general secretary, and E. P. Bailey, president of the Y. M. C. A. From each of the forty-seven colleges—his "children," he calls them—to which he has given money came telegrams. It made him happy to be remembered by them.

"It's a wonderful thing that these Chicago business men and these college presidents should find time in their busy lives to write an old man a letter on his birthday," he said. "It's truly wonderful. I'm very, very happy."

Dr. Pearsons wanted to talk about Berea college in Kentucky more than anything else.

"The best thing I ever did in my life," he said, "was to help out that little struggling college down there in the Kentucky mountains. I wanted to get down there today to make them a speech, but couldn't do it. I wrote out a speech for them, however, and it was read along with others prepared by those poor boys and girls from the mountains."

Advises Berea College Students.

In his letter to the Berea college students, Dr. Pearsons urged them to pay particular attention to voice culture and to keep scrap books.

"Cultivate the vocal organs," he said. "The power of speech is a wonderful gift. Learn to produce clear tones, and to think clearly. If the young men will spend their spare time cultivating their voices we shall have gifted orators in the future. I advise the young men to make much of oratory, and not to leave school until they can speak the English language in beautiful tones to win the hearts of men.

"I also advise you to keep scrap books. Paste in them your choice selections, and beautiful compositions. If you begin this work in your school days, you soon will have a treasure house of material on which you can draw all the rest of your lives."

SELLERS OF GIRLS CONVICTED.

Louis and Philip Watchman, Recruiters for Vice District, May Be Deported Under the Federal Law.

Louis and Philip Watchman, alias O'Neil, who were convicted in Belleview, Ill., yesterday of traffic in girls, may be deported under the federal laws, as both claim to be British subjects. The penalty under the Illinois law is from six months to a year in jail, or a fine of from $500 to $1,000, or both fine and imprisonment.

Witnesses testified that the Watchman brothers were offering $2 each for every girl whom they could get sent to a certain Chicago address. Ethel Smith, of East S. Louis, testified that she was one of their victims.

When the men were arrrested in East St. Louis, on March 26, a signed lease for a house at 1026 West Thirteenth street, Chicago, was found on them.

CANNON'S RULES FOR LONG LIFE

Massachusetts Club Receives Letter from "Uncle Joe" Containing Suggestions.

Attleboro, Mass., April 14.—[Special.]—At the Pierian club annual banquet the feature was a letter to the club from Speaker Cannon. The letter closed with the following rules:

Honor thy father and mother.

Take no thought for the morrow and don't worry.

Work, work, work, with hands, feet, legs, and brain.

Learn to sing, no matter how miserably.

Sing and laugh and keep on a keepin' on.

Last year the club was honored by congratulations from Speaker Cannon. This year he sent the above rules as his version of the art of long life.

ASKS $25,000 FOR HUSBAND

Mrs. H. A. Leonard Sues Mrs. F. Ferguson for Alienation.

ECHO OF OLD TROUBLE.

Recalls When Former Chained Auto to Keep Leonard from Other Woman.

Specific instances of alleged improprieties are named in the suit for alienation of affections filed by Mrs. Henry A. Leonard against Mrs. Florence Ferguson in the Superior court yesterday.

This suit involves the divorce Mrs. Ferguson recently got from Lawrence W. Ferguson, a coal dealer, who has offices in the Fisher building. Cruelty was set forth in the court records, but Mrs. Leonard has contended right along that Mrs. Ferguson's infatuation for Leonard was the cause of the domestic disturbance in the Ferguson household. Subsequently when Mrs. Ferguson threatened to have annulled Ferguson's marriage to Miss Clara Schwartz because it took place within a year of the divorce decree, Ferguson gave an interview corroborating Mrs. Leonard's charge.

Long Has Been the "Goat."

He said:

"Well, murder will out. I've been the goat, submitting to criticism because I did not want the family scandal to become public. I didn't yell when she procured her decree, because I knew she was in love with Leonard."

Ferguson may be forced to become a witness for Mrs. Leonard in the pending suit.

Leonard left his wife and child at their residence, 4443 Champlain avenue, last November, when Mrs. Leonard chained the automobile to the garage floor to prevent him from taking Mrs. Ferguson out riding.

Arrested on Abandonment Charge.

Later Mrs. Leonard had Leonard arrested on a charge of abandonment, and she made a public statement alleging "he has gone crazy over Mrs. Ferguson, and that since the latter's divorce the pair have been together daily."

In her declaration, in which she demands $25,000, Mrs. Leonard charges Mrs. Ferguson with "enticing, corrupting, and debauching" Leonard and with "wickedly conspiring to deprive her of her husband's society."

Word was received in Chicago last evening that a Chicagoan, the Rev. Father Michael J. O'Connor, is to succeed Father J[illegible]n J. Wynne as editor in chief of the America Review, one of the leading Catholic publications of New York. Father O'Connor was graduated from St. Ignatius college, now Loyola university. OBITUARY.

LUCIUS CHITTENDEN PLATT, one of the earliest members of the Chicago board of trade, died yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Henry C. Durand, in Lake Forest after an attack of pneumonia which seized him on Saturday. Mr. Platt was born in New York in 1836. When he was 10 years old his parents moved to Janesville, Wis. He attended school at Beloit, and after teaching school in Iowa for a short time he entered the grain business in Iowa City. He was married in 1867 and two years later moved to Chicago and joined the board of trade, continuing an active member until his death under the firm name of L. C. Platt & Co. His wife died in 1898. Three daughters, Mrs. Durand, Mrs. Lloyd C. Whitman of Hubbard Woods, Ill., and Mrs. Henry Ferris of St. Louis survive him. The funeral will be held from the Durand residence in Lake Forest on Sunday at 3:30.

JAMES SCAMMON BARKER, at one time a prominent member of the board of trade, died suddenly yesterday at the age of 78 years at his home, 1350 Seventy-third street. Mr. Barker was born in Exeter, N. H., and came to Chicago in 1865. He had extensive property holdings prior to the fire of 1871, and was a member of the board of trade, with R. W. Stevens as a partner. He was active in politics and was a member of the school board of Hyde Park prior to annexation. He leaves a widow, whose father was Folsom Bean, an Elgin pioneer, and four children—Charles S., Ann, and Frank Barker, and Mrs. Lucy Murray.

MRS. CHARLES H. FULLER, wife of the founder of the Charles H. Fuller company, advertising agents at 373 Wabash avenue, died yesterday in San Diego, Cal. The Fullers reside in Evanston. Mr. Fuller was with his wife at the time she died. L. C. Fuller, a son, left Chicago on Tuesday for San Diego in response to a telegram telling of his mother's illness. The bursting of a blood vessel is said to have been the cause of death. The body will be brought to Chicago. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MARIETTE BUTTERFIELD BOLLES, 64 years old, wife of Charles E. Bolles, president of the Avenue State bank, Oak Park, died at her residence, 358 Lake street, yesterday morning. Bolles; Mrs. Abraham Gale, a daughter; two brothers, Charles and Samuel Finley, and a sister, Mrs. F. Allerdice.

C. H. COLSTON, grand marshal of the grand lodge and grand state deputy of Illinois, Fraternal Order of Rangers, is dead at Peoria after a short illness with typhoid pneumonia. The body has been sent to Indianapolis, the home of the deceased.

BRIBERY WITNESS SKIPS TO CANADA

Buckley, Legislative Agent for Fire Insurance Companies, Quits New York.

MAY TIE UP INQUIRY.

Fled to Europe When "Yellow Dog" Fund of Life Concerns Was Under Fire.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—[Special.]—The man who was slated to be the chief witness before the Hughes committee for the investigation of legislative corruption has quietly gone away and is now in Montreal, Canada, beyond the reach of subpœnas.

The man who has left is William H. Buckley, chief beneficiary of the "yellow pup" fund, maintained by the fire insurance companies to swing legislation their way in Albany.

Went Away Once Before.

In going to Canada at this time Buckley has done what he did during the life insurance investigation of 1905, when the subpœna servers of the Armstrong committee, under the direction of Charles E. Hughes, hunted vainly for him day and night for weeks at a time.

Buckley was badly wanted during the life insurance inquiry because of his intimate relations with the late John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, and with "Andy" Hamilton, the handler of the "yellow dog" fund of that company.

Refused to Answer Hotchkiss.

The absence of Buckley, should he continue to remain in Canada, will be a serious loss to the investigators of legislative corruption. While on the witness stand in New York, before Supt. William H. Hotchkiss in the recent investigation, he flatly refused to answer scores of the most important questions and also declined to have his bank account with the Commercial National bank of Albany examined.

CHICAGO SHRINERS IN PERIL; CORNICE FALLS, KILLING BOY.

Members of Delegation Narrowly Escape Injury at New Orleans—Will Start Home Today, Arriving Sunday.

New Orleans, La., April 14.—[Special.]—Shriners are prepared to leave on the return trip to Chicago tomorrow morning. Stops will be made at Mobile and St. Louis. The Chicagoans will spend four hours in Mobile tomorrow evening and all day Saturday in St. Louis. They will arrive in Chicago Sunday morning.

Members of Medinah Patrol were near the building at Rampart and Canal streets when the cornice fell, killing Howard Halliday, a New Orleans boy, and injuring several. Some of the Chicagoans had a narrow escape from falling bricks.

The patrol and high officers of the Chicago shrine visited the board of trade, cotton exchange, and other commercial institutions this morning. Business was suspended at all places during the visit. With the patrol were Capt. Benjamin S. Wilson, John C. Hollenbeck, Bob Daley, and Harry Platt. A visit was paid to the Jerusalem patrol's headquarters where luncheon was served.

Tonight the Chicagoans were prominent in the gaities of the shrine balls, one at the French opera house and one at the Atheneum. Harry Platt and John C. Hollenbeck, potentates of Medinah, were accorded seats of honor on the judge's stand when the maskers passed in review and prizes were given to the best costumed of them.

Miss Florence Gerard of Chicago was one of the four maids chosen queen at the Imperial council ball at the French Opera house.

INSANITY ENDS LONG PRAYER

New Jersey Man Resists Arrest After Week on Knees.

AT HIS SICK WIFE'S SIDE.

Quits Business to Attend Woman and Loses Reason.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—After more than a week of continuous prayer, Arthur Classen of Jersey City arose from his knees at the bedside of his wife today to give desperate battle to four policemen.

A month's vigil over Mrs. Classen had wrecked his reason, and tomorrow an inquiry into his sanity is expected to result in his commitment to an asylum.

Classen is 36 years old and has prospered as an ice dealer. His wife, who was a widow with two children when he maried her eight years ago, has been critically ill during the last year, and two months ago she was sent to St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken, to undergo an operation. She bore it well, and almost immediately Classen began to ask when she would be brought home. The physicians advised against this, but at the end of a month the husband had his way.

Gives Entire Time to Wife.

Classen at once closed out his business and gave his entire time to his wife. A fortnight ago he began to offer long prayers for her recovery and to sing hymns by the hour as he sat beside her. Harry Classen, his 20 year old stepson, and Anna, the 15 year old stepdaughter, were inclined to object to the treatment, but Mrs. Classen sided with her husband.

Last Wednesday afternoon Classen, who had been praying and singing all night as well as all day for a week, began to show signs of derangement. The children protested and he became violent. He shut them from their mother's room and renewed his appeals to heaven.

Attacks His Stepson.

Classen today attacked Harry when he made a determined effort to lead the man from the sick chamber. The boy was overpowered, and when Anna attempted to quiet her stepfather she, too, was attacked.

Then Classen left of his own accord. He went downstairs and within a few moments had wrecked the parlor. He had passed into the dining room when Harry obtained a warrant. After a struggle Classen was locked up.

EUROPEAN SURGEON PRAISES THE HOSPITALS OF CHICAGO.

Dr. Freiherr A. von Eiselsberg Congratulates Surgical Society on Work Being Done Here and in America.

Chicago hospitals were praised yesterday by Dr. Freiherr A. von Eiselsberg in an address to the Chicago Surgical society at the University club. Dr. Von Eiselsberg is chief surgeon of the Allgemeine Krankenhous of Vienna, Austria, and editor of the Archive für Chirurgie. He is making a tour of inspection of the medical institutions of the United States.

"No European surgeon now considers his education complete without a tour of the United States," said Dr. von Eiselsberg. "Twenty-five years ago the current of medical thought was directed toward Berlin, Paris, and London. Now it is thoroughly recognized that America is abreast of the world in research.

"You are doing good scientific work in Chicago. I have heard of your institutions, but I realize now that I had no real appreciation of them before seeing them. It also has given me great pleasure to find that 80 per cent of the medical men of this city have been in Vienna."

The wedding is to take place at the Park Street Methodist Episcopal church in Cincinnati.

Another Revolutionary Idea in Typewriter Construction

It was only a few years ago that visible writing was put forward as a new thing. To-day it is generally adopted, and everybody wonders why it wasn't thought of in the first place.

Now comes another new idea: Build the frame to fit the mechanism, and not the mechanism to fit the frame.

Of course. But why wasn't it thought of before? The first typewriters had a cumbersome frame, improvements came and were built to fit it, and all later developments have been largely along the line of making improved mechanism to fit the old frame.

ROYAL STANDARD TYPEWRITER

The inventor of the Royal simply wiped off the slate and began anew. He got back to first principles, and found it possible to make a perfect typewriter with half as many parts as the older machines, yet with nothing essential omitted.

The result was a machine that has no lost motion, nothing to get out of order, nothing to wear out, nothing to keep in repair. This means the maximum of efficiency with a minimum of mechanism and expense.

There was no thought of making a cheaper typewriter, but of making a better one. When it was completed it was found that the Royal could be sold at $65, and that price was adopted as the new standard.

Thus simplicity not only secured the greatest efficiency and durability, but also saves the business man a large item in investment for office equipment.

Thousands of large users, who could buy any machine they desired, find upon investigation, that for efficiency and durability no less than for economy in the original investment, the Royal is best suited for general adoption throughout their offices.

Do you want to know why they do this? Give the machine a chance to show you for itself. Ask to have representative call. Or stop in at our office and see the machine for yourself.

THE COUNCIL AND THE OAK PARK 'L.'

Wednesday night Mayor Busse sent a message to the council in which he said "under the existing ordinance the city is at tremendous expense." It is the one making it an offense for the Oak Park "L" to run its cars on the surface west of Fifty-second avenue. "It requires a special detail of police," said the mayor, "to check up the cars run on the surface and impose fines on the company. It has already cost the city $36,000 to do this." Therefore he was of opinion that if the road was to be required to elevate the matter should be settled at once.

The tracks ought to go up. Everybody agrees to that, the president of the road included. But he wishes to be rewarded for doing it by an extension of the franchise of the road for fourteen years. Then it would cumber the earth until 1944. The council was not willing to pay the price. It passed the ordinance the mayor refers to in the illusory hope of forcing the Oak Park "L" to terms. The ordinance has cost the city $36,000. It has cost the company nothing, for as far as is known no fines for violations have been paid by it. Nobody imagines that any would be if policemen were to note violations till the end of time.

The tracks are on the surface, a constant danger to life and limb. Either they should be raised or the crossings constantly guarded. If the road cannot be forced to do the one, it can the other. It can be made to spend on watchmen the money the city now spends in the unprofitable business of recording violations of an ineffective ordinance. The demand for a franchise extension is extravagant and should not be listened to.

AN ENLIGHTENED PROJECT.

The International Harvester company has decided that it does not care to rely upon the legal defenses which an archaic theory of social justice has built up about the employer of labor.

With an enlightened acceptance of the real facts in modern industry this great corporation has adopted a plan by which those who work for it may be compensated without resort to the courts for the accidents inevitable in industry. An outline of the plan was given in yesterday's TRIBUNE and it is not necessary to describe it further in this place. But we wish to call attention apropos of this conspicuous departure to a series of articles by Mr. William Hard, the first of which will be published in THE TRIBUNE of next Sunday. Mr. Hard has made a thorough study of the subject of industrial insurance against accidents, employers' liability laws abroad, and the legal theories governing injuries received in industry. In his hands what might have been a dry discussion has become a forceful statement, vividly illustrated with actual cases and full of human interest. The articles are not only informed and expert, they are exceptionally interesting reading.

The enlightened proposal of the Harvester company is a sign of the times. It means that a great corporation has recognized a great social injustice and has set about, as well as it could singly, to correct it. The attitude of the Harvester company is a refreshing contrast to that expressed in a recent pronouncement of a committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, which wished it "thoroughly understood that this committee has no desire to tear down our present doctrine of assumed risk, contributory negligence, fellow servant, and other laws."

We invite the attention of our readers to Mr. Hard's discussion of these precious doctrines. It will throw an interesting light on the social morale of some business men, and it will indicate how necessary is the intervention of the public in this matter in order that enlightened social legislation may bring about a reform which cannot be left to private initiative.

THEY'RE OFF.

An untrammeled Democracy again has asserted its right to the pursuit of the presidency, and such mild declarations of intent as had come to notice prior to the uprising of Wednesday night in honor of Thomas Jefferson are now merged in a general chorus making up for what it lacks in unanimity by the excess of its vociferation.

In Indiana we have that friend of the people, the Hon. John W. Kern, dragging the reluctant Marshall to the track. "I am not a candidate for anything under the sun," protests the governor as the Hon. Mr. Kern pulls off his blanket and pushes him into place. In New York the whimsical Mr. Gaynor, with the Wisdom of Ben Franklin in one hand and the sayings of Epictetus in the other, is led gently on the course by Mr. John W. Shea. Ohio offers Harmon, Martin J. Wade of Iowa produces Gov. John Burke of North Dakota, and New Jersey brings out Woodrow Wilson.

Such are the consequences thus far of the genuine rising up and striking down in which the Democracy indulges itself once a year at the Jeffersonian revival of the party of which ex-Gov. Frank S. Black of New York said that it formulated its policies by guessing at what would have been the opinion of a man if he had been born a hundred years later than his time.

With interest we catch clearly an utterance here and there in the swelling chorus of Jeffersonian protest against things as they are. We note that John Temple Graves, speaking for the Independence league in Washington to the section of Democracy assembled there, said that his organization, although now bereft of Mr. Hisgen, could not amalgamate with a party "half Bryan, and half Belmont, half Hearst and half Ryan." Certainly not. We do not stop to inquire which half is objectionable, merely understanding that an objection lies against some half.

Here in Chicago we note that Roger C. Sullivan, reiterating his well known belief that there is too much opinion and too much talk in the Democratic composition, said "the press of today for its own selfish purposes is attempting to educate the people to pay no attention to parties." No, Roger. The press is endeavoring to educate the parties to pay some attention to the people. It is the more difficult of the two tasks.

We can see no hope for the amalgamation of the elements represented by Mr. Graves and those represented by Mr. Sullivan, although we observe the statement of Mr. Bryan, writing from San Paulo, Brazil, that "the time is ripe for a return to Jeffersonian principles." Mr. Sullivan, we suspect, is obdurate and will not return, but the sentiment has its annual appropriateness and has been used with success in the past.

AUSTRALIA TO THE RESCUE.

The antipodes are competing with the Chicago packers in the New York market. The high price of meat has made it possible for the Australians to put down their product there at a profit. Notwithstanding the duty of 1½ cents a pound, they are able to cut prevailing prices 2 cents a pound. The meat they are shipping is of excellent quality and commands a ready sale.

When the packers sell their meats in Great Britain they have to face Australian and Argentine competition and fix their prices accordingly. Hence it comes that they ask less abroad than they do at home. After foreign competition shall have become acute in New York City they will be obliged to lower their prices there and the cost of living should be reduced a little in that city. If sufficient quantities of Australian meat should come in to warrant shipments to interior points the decline in prices would not be confined to the seaboard.

The Australians are more enterprising than the Argentines. The latter, because not so far removed from the United States, should have been first in the race for what bids fair to be a profitable market. The meat eating population of this country is growing rapidly. Its bovine, ovine, and porcine population is not. Imported meats will be a necessity if prices are to be kept within bounds. Now is the Argentine opportunity. There are reports that advantage will be taken of it soon. If it will supply the beef this country will supply the consumers. The meat will be paid for in manufactured goods. American industry will be doubly benefited. There will be a larger market for its products and cheaper food for those who make them.

MR. BRYAN'S BAG.

All the faunal naturalists are not working for the Smithsonian institution, by several long shots. The impending arrival of Mr. Bryan in these parts is heralded by a collection of animals made by him during his journeying in South America. Unlike T. R., he does not shoot his quarry; he catches the animals alive after the manner of Mr. Jack Abernathy.

Mr. Bryan would scorn to shoot a defenseless animal. He would not harm a living thing, not even a gold bug. Therefore his collection comes to us alive, as it roamed its native wilds. It is not as large as Noah's nor perhaps as valuable as Mr. Roosevelt's, but he has enriched our fauna by One llama.

One Siamese cat.
One monkey.

There is no overestimating the hit which Mr. Bryan's methods as a naturalist will make with the humane persons who were so profoundly shocked by Mr. Roosevelt's cordite slaughter of the African innocents. Unarmed and barehanded he chased the fierce llama over the Andean heights, leaping from peak to peak until he overcame it with his fascinating personality and his matchless eloquence. We await with impatience his account of how he captured the Siamese cat, so far from its native haunts, and how he climbed the rubber tree in Amazonian jungles and drew down the chattering simian.

His return is opportune. The political millennium is approaching and we shall see the llama, the Siamese cat, and the monkey lie down with the Democratic donkey, and a little politician shall lead them.

HONOR IN TENNESSEE.

Gov. Patterson's use of the executive prerogative on behalf of his friend, Col. Cooper, is an interesting departure. The pardoning power has been supposed to be conditioned upon a discovery of facts unknown to the court or upon the appearance subsequent to condemnation of new circumstances affecting the convicted. It has not been understood that the chief executive is a court of last resort.

Gov. Patterson sets us right. A jury of Col. Cooper's peers thought he was guilty. The highest tribunal of the judicial branch of the government agreed with the jury. The head of the executive branch disagreed with them both and set Col. Cooper free.

Doubtless this is entirely satisfactory in Tennessee, so far as it goes. But we remain unsatisfied. Gov. Patterson has declared that Col. Cooper is not guilty of killing Senator Carmack, and it is more than probable that young Mr. Cooper will not be retried. This leaves the question at issue in a state of uncertainty. In the circumstances we permit ourselves a respectful suggestion to Gov. Patterson. He has overruled the Supreme court as to Col. Cooper; he might issue a proclamation finding Senator Carmack guilty.

And we have still another suggestion for the governor. We do not presume to criticise the Tennessee idea of what punishment fits the crime of poking fun at a Tennessee Gentleman. Doubtless we are incapacitated from passing on that question, because it is quite true—and we hasten to admit it—any variety of Honor which upon such provocation has to be assuaged in the life blood of a fellow being seems to us merely a form of criminal egoism whose appropriate destination is the padded cell, if not the gallows.

But, waiving this question, we can see no reason why there should not be a full restoration in Tennessee of the duel. We protest that these informal affairs are not consonant with the Dignity of a Tennessee colonel. We do not plead such consideration as the interruption of traffic or the safety of the innocent passer-by, for what are such matters when it comes to a question of Honor! But we maintain that a human soul ought not to be hustled into eternity save with due formality even at the behest of the outraged goddess of Honor.

The thing should be easy to arrange. Gov. Patterson has the executive prerogative of pardon, and he knows how to use it. No changes in legislation are necessary. Courts might condemn, but what of it? Presently prosecution would tire, executive clemency having made it profitless, and the duel would be once more an institution.

DISTRESS AMONG BRITISH NOVELISTS.

Bad news for Grub street. The London publishers have cut down the price for fiction and one author—not an unknown man, either—was offered only a beggarly £15 for the manuscript of a novel. Hall Caine and Marie Corelli are reported to have thrown 200 pounds of fiction on the market, and this caused the slump. Mr. Chesterton is working nights dictating six novels to six stenographers at the same time, and Mr. Arnold Bennett has learned to write with his left hand, that he may turn out two books at once. The Silas K. Hocking factory has put in two new machines lately invented by him, and the nonconformists now get their fiction delivered like newspapers on their doorstep every morning.

Not since the Kailyard overproduction of fifteen years ago has there been such a flood of romances. Of course the price has been depressed correspondingly. A meeting of the Dartmouth novelists recently declared they would go on a strike unless the publishers either offered more money or took some measure to restrict the output of certain writers and ceased using the fiction machines. Great distress is reported among the Staffordshire journeyman novelists, some of whom have recently been compelled to eat their own words.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1910: By the Brentwood company.]

FIELD MARSHAL LORD KITCHENER, who spent an hour and a half in Chicago yesterday, is hastening home, without visiting Canada or spending any time in traveling in the United States, in order to impress upon King Edward and upon his ministers the fact that Australia is virtually powerless to resist attack by a hostile power. He has been examining, on behalf of the crown committee of imperial defense in London, the defenses of Australia against invasion, and has found that they are virtually nonexistent, although there is magnificent raw material for an army, and since last year compulsory military service has become the law of the commonwealth—the first part, indeed, of the British empire to succumb to the inevitable in this matter, the mother country herself being bound ere long to follow suit.

Lord Kitchener finds that the northern territory is wholly open to any invader, who, once in possession of the coast, could not be attacked from the rear. In fact, Australia is at present wholly at the mercy of a Japanese invasion or of a German coup, if the latter were to be made in the north, from that Teuton owned archipelago of islands which lies within easy striking reach of Australia and is now being converted by the kaiser into an extremely important naval base.

Another source of weakness in the means of the defense of Australia is that the railroads have not been constructed with regard to strategical use, that they are wholly inadequate in extent, and that they differ in gauges. The weakest point of all in Australia from a military point of view is the absence of any properly constituted staff, and to supply this Lord Kitchener urges the organization of a military college on the lines of West Point for the formation and instruction of officers and from which the staff of the Australian army would be mainly recruited. According to Lord Kitchener West Point is a pattern to the entire world for such institutions.

Some misapprehension exists here with regard to the suit recently brought by the marquis de Castellane against his former daughter-in-law, the duchesse de Tallyrand et de Sagan. From the cable dispatches it appeared that at the time of her marriage to Boni de Castellane the former Miss Anna Gould had placed herself under an obligation to pay an annuity to his father, the marquis, and to the marquise for the remainder of their respective lives, and that the courts had held her to this contract. This is not the case.

At the time of Boni's marriage his father surrendered to him and to his other two sons, Jean and Stanislas, all his own rights to the family property in return for an annuity, to which his various children pledged themselves to contribute an equal share. Boni's wife guaranteed her husband's pledge, and it is not as principal in the affair but merely as Boni's guarantor that the marquis sued his ex-daughter-in-law.

While this does not relieve the marquis de Castellane of the imputations of gross indelicacy, to call it by no worse name, in making monetary demands upon the woman who was so abominably used by his son and whose marriage with the latter has been dissolved by a divorce granted in her favor, yet it does in a measure clear the French tribunals of the accusation freely made here of having rendered a judgment contrary to all justice, equity, and common sense.

For the decree expressly states that it is against the American duchess not as principal but merely as guarantor, and that it remains for her to recover in law from Boni de Castellane the sum which she has been obliged to pay in his behalf. In short, the courts intimate that if she applies to them for a judgment against her husband in the amount they will immediately grant it.

Although the kaiser has, more than any other German ruler, past or present, accorded not only marked favor but also warm personal friendship to captains of commerce and of industry, a number of whom have figured in his cabinets, while others are invited to accompany him each year on his holiday cruises on board his steam yacht Hohenzollern, yet he manifestly considers that the Teuton aristocracy is better fitted than any other class of his subjects for diplomatic work abroad.

According to the Official Annual of 1910, all the posts of ambassadors are filled by noblemen, and, what is more, the councilors of all the embassies—that is to say, the men who are called upon to undertake the duties of chargé d'affaires in the absence of the ambassador—belong to the same caste. Of the twenty-nine envoys of the rank of minister plenipotentiary and minister resident only five belong to the bourgeoisie—namely: the emperor's representatives in Abyssinia, Morocco, Peru, Uruguay, and Mexico, where the German envoy is Dr. Buenz, for so many years consul general in New York.

All the secretaries of embassy belong to the aristocracy and all secretaries of legation, with the exception of two—namely: those of the German missions at Cairo and at Caracas. Moreover, there are at the present moment but half a dozen attachés of embassy and legation belonging to the bourgeoisie.

In Chicago, San Francisco, St. Petersburg, New York, Rome, and Bucharest the German consuls general are all of bourgeois birth. But in all the other important consulates general, such as at Pesth, Naples, Warsaw, Shanghai, Tunis, Zurich, Turin, Genoa, Prague, etc., the German consuls general pertain to the titled classes.

This marked predilection for the aristocracy in the distribution of diplomatic and consular appointments abroad has naturally excited a considerable amount of grumbling in the reichstag and in the German press, but is the result of experience. For as a general rule diplomats and consular officers belonging to the aristocracy have some private income of their own and are not wholly dependent upon their salary and allowances. Moreover, in the countries and cities where they are stationed their name, their birth, and their nobiliary title usually endow them with advantages in official and in social life—advantages that are of benefit to their government—and that do not fall to the share of their bourgeois confrères.

Whenever rulers pay state visits to one another the speeches of the host and of the guest at the first banquet given in honor of the latter form an important feature—so important, indeed, that not only the speakers but also their respective ministers have communicated to them in advance what the other is going to say. In fact, these speeches are looked upon as important political pronouncements and are the object of no end of discussion and comment in the domestic and foreign press.

But there were no speeches of any kind at the state banquet given by the sultan of Turkey on the occasion of the recent visit of the king and queen of Bulgaria to Constantinople. It was decided to abandon them when it was found that the sultan would be prohibited by Koranic law from drinking the health of his guests in anything but water, while his knowledge of the French language is so restricted that it would be out of the question for him to attempt to say even a few words in French.

Ferdinand, on the other hand, is equally ignorant of Turkish. Nor has he any knowledge of Persian, which may be described as the court language of most of the Moslem powers.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY IN ENGLAND.

England passed a few years ago an employers' liability act such as no other country has dared to enact or enforce. Practically this law requires that compensation shall be conceded at once, irrespective of the question of contributory negligence; while the employer cannot take refuge in the "fellow servant" clause which is so constantly an instrument of injustice under our present form of enforcing the law. These drastic enactments, moreover, apply to all employés, including even domestic servants. The maximum liability is limited to $1,500, with corresponding weekly compensation for temporary or permanent disablement.

With remarkable common sense the British people have adapted their business to this condition. Everybody insures all his employés, and the insurance works out at an annual charge of 3 shillings 6 pence a head. A household of four domestic servants can be insured against death or disablement for an annual charge of $3.50. The business of the accident insurance companies has been enormously stimulated. Some hardship has been worked in individual cases. But the result has been eminently satisfactory. The railroads can insure 8,000 employés for $7,000 a year. They are relieved of any further concern, and they know where they stand.

There is such a mass of statutes applying to the question in every state in the union that what is needed is a simple short cut if such a thing can be found. No doubt insurance would not be as cheap here as it is in England, but there is the germ of an idea in the Wisconsin legislature's proposed laws and every employer of labor should give the matter thoughtful and even friendly consideration.

SPRING.

[From the Works of Nelson Goodrich Humphrey.]

I heard the cattle lowing
  On the prairie, stiff and cold;
And the rooster, he was crowing,
  But his voice was harsh and old.

And I saw the maidens raking
  With their strong and steady arms,
As their kindred friends were taking
  Oats to sow upon their farms.

And I saw two wives together
  Making soap, and their tongues did use,
Talking there about the weather,
  And that neighbors did abuse.

And I saw the butcher driving
  For the city's daily need,
Where the flocks and herds are thriving,
  And return with greatest speed.

And I saw a bulk of treasure
  In a basket—they were eggs;
And a portion went for pleasure,
  And the balance go on legs.

But the crops maturing later,
  Like the chickens, they must grow,
But the harvest will be greater
  If we only reap and sow.

DR. DUBBE ON GRAND OPERA.

"For several months," said Dr. Criticus Flub-Dubbe to the Program Study Class, "we have listened to the roaring of a typhoon in a teapot. There has been much ado about grand opera, and the poorest opinion has been aired with the weightiest. 'Down with Italian opera!' cry adorers of the Ring. 'Perish Wagner!' cry the lovers of Verdi. 'Give us more modern stuff!' demands Dr. Gunn. 'Give us anything, so long as it is opera!' says Dr. Hackett, smiling beatifically. While Dr. Neumann waves a banner with the strange device, 'Give the people what they want!'"

"As if one knew," said Miss Sara Band.

"Precisely," said Dr. Dubbe. "I doubt whether any two of you ladies, who represent the public, are agreed as to what you want operatically."

"Me for the 'Meistersinger,'" said Miss Gay Votta.

"I should love to hear 'Pélléas and Mélisande,'" said Poeta.

"I perfectly adore 'Aïda,'" said Mrs. Givu A. Payne.

"And there you are," said the Doctor. "So the simple problem for an impresario is to guess which of you predominates on a given evening. As easy, you perceive, as rolling off a prairie."

"Should not opera be educational?" asked Mrs. Fuller-Prunes.

"In its feeble way, yes," replied Dr. Dubbe. "But if it is to be educational it should be paid for by the state, or by a Rockefeller, which is the next thing to a state. No reasoning creature expects a private enterprise to be conducted on an educational and losing basis. If the state supported opera we should have a right to demand that 'Trovatore' be canned; but as it is offered for sale the same as cheese, one might as well write a letter to the papers complaining of Mr. Neumeister as a composer."

"Mr. Hammerstein gives modern opera," said Mrs. Evingston.

"Mr. Hammerstein," responded Dr. Dubbe, "is neither an educator nor a business man; he is a sport. He holds operatic races, and backs 'Pélléas,' or 'Salome,' or Mary Garden as he would back a filly in a sweepstakes. Sometimes his filly wins."

"Where does he get his money?" asked Mrs. Rogers-Parke.

"He draws royalties of a million more or less from the sale of a device that pares parsnips without injuring the skin," said Dr. Dubbe; "and he has other inventions. Conried, you know, made his fortune by renting chairs on ocean steamers. Nobody, except the singer, makes any money out of opera."

"Has Dr. Neumann invented anything?" asked Mrs. Evingston.

"He is now at work," said Dr. Dubbe, "on a pink pill for captious critics, from which he expects excellent results."

"HARD manual labor does not elevate one to poetical flights," writes J. H. H. from Arcadia. "Hired help is simply unobtainable; have to grit teeth and dig in. But there have been no funerals in the family; stock all healthy (two more 'fresh' cows); trees are budding in profuse bloom, wheat field and grass wear a cheerful verdure, and the goose hangs high."

HOME-BOUND WITH ROOSEVELT.

[BY JOSH SLINGER.]

VENICE, April 14.—Arrived here with the Colonel early this morning and took a swim in a gondola. The Colonel was greatly pleased with Beppo, our gondolier, with whom he discussed the technic of gondoliering. After breakfast Kermit read to us from Baedeker's Venice, and when the Chevalier of Pensieri Vani paid his respects to the city's distinguished visitor, the Colonel discussed with him exhaustively the art treasures of Venezia, amazing the Chevalier by the extent of his information. At noon the duke of the Abruzzi called, and the theme was mountain climbing. The Colonel exhausted this in his happiest vein, mentioning the height of Mt. Everest, Mt. Blanc, and other famous peaks. The Duke was dazed, but, recovering himself quickly, complimented the Colonel on his vast fund of knowledge. Vienna will be exhausted tomorrow and Saturday.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

ABUSE OF CHRISTENING CEREMONY.

Chicago, April 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Allow me to register a protest against the use of the term christening in connection with the naming of any animal. Any ceremony in this connection is out of order. To introduce godmothers and sponsors is still more improper. It is an offense against the second commandment of the decalogue, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." It has become quite common to christen battleships. Would some one who takes part in these ceremonies kindly explain what benefit has been derived by the battleships and the animals? There are human beings enough to be christened right here in the United States without going into the business of christening all the ships, animals, etc., in the country. I would respectfully request THE TRIBUNE to use its influence towards discontinuing this unchristian practice. C. A. KETTLEBY.

GRAND OPERA PRICES TOO HIGH.

Chicago, April 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I think you will find that the general opinion among Chicago people is that grand opera prices are too high. In many cases like my own, it means great self-denial to attend just one. I am a singer and a student and not only find pleasure but gain knowledge by hearing the opera. But it always means going without many necessary things for some time. There are many students in Chicago exactly in the same predicament who would like to go but have not the price. If you pay $2.50 or $3 for a seat you are so far back you cannot see either singer or action well. Often you only hear the orchestra and not the voice. That happened several times last year. Why not make some special prices to singers and musicians and all worthy people who would go if the prices only were reasonable? H. Du R.

SING IT IN ENGLISH.

Chicago, April 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—If the Metropolitan Opera company threatens never to return unless we fill the Auditorium each evening at prices which can cover its enormous expenses and exorbitant professional fees to its artists, we must submit, and those of us who cannot afford this luxury or do not care to listen to music which only the singers understand must wait and console ourselves with the Aborn English opera company in May, which promises us opera in the vernacular at reasonable prices. A love for music can best be awakened through the medium of our own tongue. If Mr. Santayana is right in saying we are wanting in ethics, let us sing the English poets, for in their verses we can find everything to elevate "vile" man! In establishing the Metropolitan Opera company in New York and similar performances in London, the wealthy patrons forgot America and England, for in establishing an institution in which the English language plays no part this institution is not for the public but for the patrons. E. R. F.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE OPERA?

Chicago, April 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—This has been bandied about recently until Chicago resembles an interrogation point. The answer is simplicity itself. The Metropolitan company is offering a product for which there is no market at the price quoted. Under such conditions to abuse Chicago for not filling the Auditorium every night is not only bad taste but foolish. In this country business instinct is supposed to have reached its highest development, but it is difficult to imagine anything more unbusinesslike than the operations of the Metropolitan Opera company.

The merchant who buys goods at $5 a yard and sells at a loss of $2 a yard is usually satisfied with one such experience. Not so with the Metropolitan Opera company. Year after year it buys opera at $5 when the real market value is not above $3. It would take an expert juggler with figures to show a profit in such a transaction.

Considering the present market price of opera the price the Metropolitan company pays for its artists is ridiculous. Is it necessary? By no means. The American managers are masters of the situation. They pay the foreign artists two or three times as much as musical Europe will pay them, and then abuse the American public for not paying the bills. In consideration of this the foreign artists will not even do us the honor of singing in our own language. The whole thing is inartistic, unbusinesslike, and absurd.

But it will be urged that it is impossible to obtain these artists for less money. Very well, let them remain in Europe for a year or two and they will see a great light. When Jean De Reszke decided to retire a wail went up, but it was soon hushed, for there were others to take his place, and he is only mentioned now when one becomes reminiscent. Suppose we should lose some of our great artists, there are others equally great waiting to be heard, and at reasonable rates.

The cold, unpoetic fact may as well be faced. There is no paying market for $5 opera in a foreign tongue. New York boasts much of her musical interest, but a million dollar deficit would indicate that it is not directed toward grand opera.

There is but one solution of the problem. Our operatic managers must buy so they can sell at the market price, which is at present not above $3 per seat. An attempt to force the market will be about as fruitful as blowing against the north wind. D. A. CLIFFORD.

"PRAYING FOR PITTSBURG."

Chicago, April 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—When you wrote that editorial for Saturday's issue there was a twinkle in your eyes, a little smile upon your face and, consciously or not, you let drop, along between the lines, some very important suggestions, as you began:

"If Pittsburg does not show signs of repentance after Sunday it will not be the fault of Bishop Whitehead of the Episcopal diocese there, for he has set aside the day in his churches for 'special prayers and sermons on civic righteousness, corporate repentance and confession, intemperance and political chicanery, graft and fraud—on any topic, indeed, which bears upon the present deplorable situation in Pittsburg.'"

The prayer quoted by the bishop as a sample of the petition the clergy were to use is what I wish to comment upon. He says:

"O, Lord, the great and dreadful God, who keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love thee."

Does the "great and dreadful God" keep covenant and mercy with them who do not love him? Does he? Then what hope have we that he will perform a miracle for the asking—that of making a decent people of those who are "intemperate," guilty of "political chicanery, graft, and fraud," and who have reduced Pittsburg to a "deplorable situation?" Why did not the people ask the Lord to do these things long ago? They have asked the same things thousands of times. If anything is to be done to redeem the city from this condition the people must band together, throw the rascals out, and see to it that laws are enforced for the betterment of conditions.

"O, Lord, let thine anger be turned away from thy city and people. Turn our hearts unto thee in true repentance," prays the bishop. Wait until the people have reformed before expecting that "great and dreadful God" to "turn away his anger." And if it belongs to him to "turn our hearts unto him in true repentance and amendment of life," why does he not do it without our telling him? It is rather the work of noble, brave, desperately in earnest men and women to make these evils of the city impossible. Put a check upon the vicious element. Make them feel the iron hand of justice. Put a stop to their deeds and don't stand off and say it can't be done. Do it, and don't go whining around God about it forever. He can't help it. F. M. YATES.

WHAT'S FUNNY ABOUT "23"?

Chicago, April 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—If there is anything peculiarly mournful or somber in the number 23, I fail to see it. Since it pleased the powers that be to change my house number to 2323 is has been one long continued never to be concluded joke. The small boy brings his small boy friends for blocks around to gaze at my house number. They invariably make the remark, "Gee, wot a number! Double skidoo!" Then convulsions. If there be anything mournful or depressing about the number 23, I feel that I am entitled to give testimony. I have been married 23 years. When I received my contribution envelope for current expenses of the church of which I am a member the number on the envelope was 23. My fire insurance policy calls for $2,300. My eldest daughter is in her twenty-third year. I call up a transportation company and ask them to send me a time table. I give the girl at the phone my name and number. She tee-hees and asks if this is a joke. I fail to get the time table. I call up a publishing house and order a certain book, giving my name, number and street. Man at the phone haw-haws, and remarks another April fool. All this coupled with the name Smith should be depressing, I admit, but like Josiah Allen's wife, I fail [illegible] to vamose, skidoo, or 23. As I own my house I have no choice but to remain here and keep smiling every time the mail carrier hands me an envelope [illegible]

NATIONWIDE PLAN FOR SHOP RISKS

Metal Trades Association Will Insure Toilers in All Cities Against Accidents.

LAUD HARVESTER MOVE.

Members of Liability Board See Aid in Scheme to Secure Good State Law.

Following the International Harvester company's announcement yesterday of a benefit plan by which it assumes liability for shop injuries to employés, came an announcement of an immense benefit scheme for shop workers in the metal trades which has just been put in operation by the National Metal Trades association.

The metal workers in all of the shops in the United States which are members of the association may participate in this benefit scheme, which differs from the harvester concern's plan in that the benefits will be paid through an insurance company, a contract having been entered into with the Phoenix Preferred Accident Insurance company of Detroit.

The plan is modeled more after that of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad company and Swift & Co. The insurance company issues a factory special policy to employés. It is a combination sickness and accident policy paying from $20 to $80 a month for both accident and sickness disabilities. The cost to each employé is $1 a month.

No Benefit Paid First Seven Days.

Services of a physician are provided for either accident or sickness without charge. No benefit is paid for the first seven days. This obviates the criticism that men might lay off a few days. Should a man be sick for thirty days, full benefits are allowed, including the first week. In case of death from natural causes, the branch of the association pays the insured $100. No deposit or membership fee is required.

Information concerning the scheme was given out at the Chicago branch of the National Metal Trades association. Paul Blatchford, secretary, is in New York, where the final details of the national scheme are being worked out. The members of the committee who framed the proposition are Phillitus W. Gates, L. E. Burr, Carleton Elmes, H. B. Goodman, Will Mohr, F. S. North, and E. S. Norton.

Because of the absence of Mr. Blatchford no estimate of the number of employés eligible to the benefits could be obtained. The association was organized several years ago for the purpose of dealing with questions of liability between metal working concerns and their employés.

Praise for Harvester Plan.

Words of praise for the Harvester company's scheme came during the day from Prof. C. R. Henderson of the University of Chicago, who was a member of the first Illinois liability commission appointed four years ago. He also commended the plan of the National Metal Trades association. He volunteered the information that the Illinois Steel company had been considering a liability benefit proposition for a year or more. At the Chicago offices of the steel corporation it was said that all such matters were handled from New York.

"I have sent copies of the Harvester company's announcement, giving the details of their plan, to Berlin and Paris," said Prof. Henderson. "I have told the European authorities this step makes the greatest advance in the question of employers' liability of anything that has ever been done in this country.

"The most visionary enthusiasts wouldn't have asked any law as binding as the voluntary proposition of the harvester concern. The plan has been worked out by hard headed business men with the assistance of actuaries."

May Tempt Men to Get Hurt.

Alfred D. Eddy, general counsel for the Standard Oil company of Indiana, said that concern had been practicing the main principles set out in the Harvester plan, but criticised the new scheme in some of its details.

"Absurd as it may seem, this definite assurance of an allowance in case of accident might tempt some men to be careless at their work," he said. "If a workingman knows he will be paid if injured he will not be quite so careful.

"We have made it a rule to settle with our employés in case of accidents, and we have few personal injury suits. Our rule is to pay $1,000 in case of death and half wages in case of injury. We take care of persons permanently injured by furnishing them light employment. We also have a pension system for employés.

The Illinois liability commission, which began its work this week by preparing an employers' liability bill, will get copies of the harvester company's plan and study its details.

Will Aid in Securing Law.

"The adoption of this plan by the harvester company will assist in the securing of a law," said Samuel A. Harper, attorney for the commission. "It has set the pace far in advance of any law we are likely to obtain and will tend to discourage opposition to a reasonable law."

DENIES CONTEST CONFERENCE.

Pullman Directors Not in New York to Plan War on New Rate Order, Says J. S. Runnells.

A report that the directors of the Pullman company were to meet in New York yesterday to consider beginning a legal fight against the order of the interstate commerce commission reducing a number of Pullman rates, was denied yesterday by John S. Runnells, vice president and general counsel of the company. Mr. Russell did not deny, however, that the company will contest the order. John J. Mitchell, Norman B. Ream, and Chauncey Keep are the directors said to be in New York.

Peerless Suction Cleaners

Draws in Dust and Germs

Take a Carpet that you think is clean—that has been broomed, swept and beaten.

Pass the nozzle of the PEERLESS Cleaner over it a few times, take out the dust bag—and you will find more dust there than you have just broomed out in the past half-hour.

Stand on steps and notice the thick layer of dust on the plate rail or cornice—raise the nozzle and pass it along the top—now stand on the steps again—you can pass your fingers anywhere and find not a speck of dust.

Notice the fluff and dirt under and around the tufts of your mattresses or chairs; place the end of the hose there for three seconds—and it's vanished.

The PEERLESS is death to dust, dirt and germs.

LOW FOR HIGH ART IN BILLS

New York Critic Suggests Censor for Street Advertisements.

GIVES IDEAS TO STUDENTS.

Finds Merit in Some of the Displays in the Magazines.

Municipal censorship of billboards, requiring the display on each to conform to an artistic standard of form, size, and color, is suggested by Will H. Low, famous in America and Europe as an artist and writer, who is giving the annual series of lectures for students of the art institute.

According to Mr. Low, this plan would rob the billboards of most of the objectionable features which at present wound the sensitive feelings of those boasting the artistic temperament.

A world from which such jarring notes as highly colored billboards, rattling elevated trains, and creepy surface cars will be eliminated is to be the product of higher civilization, according to Mr. Low. Until that time comes, however, he declares, the only relief in sight is by subjecting copy of advertising designs to a commission of artists.

Belgium Has Censor System.

"No attention ever has been paid to the artistic quality of the billboards," said Mr. Low, "and the only attempt at censorship has been to keep the signs from descending below a certain standard of morality. A committee fitted to pass on the artistic merit of a poster rather than on its salaciousness would eliminate the screams of conflicting colors, figures out of proportion, and impossible creations of painters.

"Belgium already has a system of art censorship, and there public posters are so far advanced as to have an improving effect on the artistic standard of the people.

"New York has an art commission consisting of representatives of painters, architects, sculptors, and laymen chosen by the mayor. This organization, while backed with the power of the law, never yet has undertaken any billboard reform, but I understand it is considering such an action."

Some Advertising Is Artistic.

"As a matter of fact many of the posters picturing theatrical attractions, and pictures of the broad shouldered young men who reside in the back pages of the magazines, possess a high degree of artistic merit. Many of them are drawn by artists of high attainments."

Despite an assertion by Mr. Low that the earliest concrete form of his artistic desire was manifest in gazing wonder eyed and awe stricken at a paint brush artist developing a bill board creation he refuses to regard signs in the light of an inspiration to the public.

"When one has to enter a city through a twenty-five mile lane of glaring pictorial punches, each an effort to outdo the other in size and colors and each shouting aloud the merits of every conceivable article of commerce, it is time some form of regulation was devised.

"So great has been the improvement of standard in the American people that bill boards have followed the general upward current, and those given the public now are much finer than those of twenty-five years ago."

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the cure of complaints of children.

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory.

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Cincinnati, O., April 14.—[Special.]—Cincinnati's record baseball crowd numbering 21,221 souls, saw the Reds win the opening game of the National league season of 1910 today. The contest was a thriller and it took the home team ten innings to get a verdict of 1 to 0.

It was Orval Overall's first defeat in an opening game since he became a Cub and the result was a bitter pill for the tall Californian to swallow, for he pitched wonderfully through the regular nine innings, during which time the Reds were in the hunt only once. It was a hard game for Big Orrie to lose and his only comfort is that his opponent, Fred Beebe, deserved something better than a beating for the swell showing he made, on the occasion of his first appearance in a Cincinnati uniform.

Beebe and Tom Downey are heroes in this town. It was Fred that kept the Cubs from scoring for ten long and some of them hard rounds and it was Downey who drove in the winning run with a scorching single that went past Steiny so fast he didn't have time to make a stab at it.

Red "Bugs" Go Wild.

The victory caused a furore that reminded one of the celebrations which usually follow football games between Yale and Harvard or which used to follow those between Michigan and Chicago. There are torchlight processions and all kinds of noise on the streets and the scene at National league park immediately after Downey had delivered his death blow to our hopes would have made a bunch of college boys ashamed of themselves.

O, yes, Cincinnati has celebrated and is celebrating its victory and well it may, for it is in first place for once in its life, and that honor can't be taken away from it even if it never sees the top again.

There are lots of congratulations coming to the Cubs for the manner in which they behaved. No Sunday school class could have given a better exhibition of true submissiveness and patience than did Frank Chance's pets.

Three Decisions Hurt Cubs.

Three decisions, two of them by Mr. Brennan and the other by Mr. O'Day, were against the visitors, and any one of the three might have been blamed for the result. They were close and it looked as if they were wrong guesses. The Cubs say they were any way and stuck to their stories after they had left the field, but their kicks were as mild as brown pop in direct contrast to the performance in Columbus, this state, last Sabbath.

In the first inning Evers saw a chance to steal third and tried to do it. Clarke's throw was low and Lobert had to take it off the ground. It seemed as if he was too busy picking up the ball even to make a stab at Johnny, but Brennan said he made the stab all right and called Evers out. Johnny walked silently to the bench, merely indicating with his two hands how far Lobert had missed him. Right after this play Frank Schulte delivered a single which might have produced the winning run.

With Mitchell on second and Egan on first and no one out in the tenth Archer let loose one of his famous throws to catch Mike napping. Tinker took the peg and seemed to fall right over on Mike before the latter scrambled back to the bag, but Brennan ruled the runner safe. Joe and Evers threw up their hands in despair, but refused to let their tempers and part of their salaries get away from them.

O'Day's Error Hurts.

The third ticklish decision was made by O'Day just before Downey broke up the game. There were two strikes and one ball on Tom when Orrie pitched one right over the heart that looked shoulder high or even lower. Hank said it was a ball, and Downey, who might have been called out on strikes, immediately pickled the single that set the crowd wild.

The Cubs lost the game, but did not lose the services of any of their regulars, as would have been the case if they had not had perfect control of their tongues.

Bob Bescher, the base stealing champion of the National league last year, shared the honors with Beebe and Downey by pulling off an apparently impossible catch in the Cubs' half of the tenth and robbing Joe Tinker of a triple and the Cubs of one of their best chances to win.

Joe was the first man. He hadn't looked especially dangerous before, but he was due, and he lifted a long fly that was tagged for the crowd. Bescher used all his speed to get back into the first layer of "bugs" behind the left field ropes, stabbed the ball in his bare hand, and fell headlong among the spectators, holding up the lucky paw in which the ball had stuck. If that one had gone safe there is no telling when Beebe could have stopped us.

The bright light on the Cub side was none other than Frank Schulte. If the others could have hit nearly as hard as he did there would have been nothing at all to it. His single in the first inning came after two were out, and Chance couldn't deliver. In his next two trips to the plate he landed for two almost identical triples into the throng in left center, once with one man down and once with two. The men following him failed on both occasions. Schulte's fourth attempt tried to be another triple but Bescher was there with another nice catch.

Schulte Is Fielding Star.

Schulte had three chances in the field, and none of them was easy. One was a fast assist which caught a daring Red at second after said daring one had reached first on a muff by Evers. Another was a catch of a fly ball almost on the grass of the diamond when there was a Red on third and the infield was playing close in. But Schulte's catch in the tenth rivaled Bescher's best play and staved off defeat for a minute or two.

McCabe, Griffith's brand new right fielder, poled one to the right field crowd with no one out and men on first and second. Frank started back with the crack of the bat, weaved his way into the third row of fanatics, and hauled in the drive. Mitchell went to third on the catch to be sure, but he would have had the privilege of walking home if Schulte had done his part less perfectly.

Before the Cubs were allowed to go to the ball park they were called into Manager Chance's room and required to listen to a brief sermon by the P. L. He told them he thought the Chicago club stronger than it ever was before and that it could not be kept out of first place if every one went in with the proper fighting spirit and the determination to win. He also pointed out the evil consequences of too many and too loud verbal attacks on the umpires and this part of his speech may have been responsible for the lamblike actions of the athletes at the grounds.

The Cubs reached the park shortly after 1 o'clock and were on the field long in advance of the Reds, but not before the crowd got there. They looked really swell in their new gowns, which are prettier than any of the traveling costumes the club has had in the past. They were given a warm welcome by the spectators already gathered. They amused themselves tossing the ball around and listening to the band until it was their turn to practice.

Fans Pack the Grounds.

By the time the Reds were on the grounds the field was filled almost to its capacity and it was easy to see the attendance record of about 18,000 would be busted.

The bugs went crazy when the Reds appeared in their fresh white uniforms with the loud trimmings. The band continued to make more than its share of pleasant noise and the home players marched up for their batting drill.

When the gates were closed, human beings were occupying points of vantage never before discovered. A gang of desperate fans climbed to the top of the first base stand and sat on the roof with legs and feet hanging over. Brave young boys stood on the fence and clutched the air with their finger nails. The Rooters' club, out in force, was in evidence all around the field in front of the big grand stand.

Managers Griffith and Chance, Capt. Lobert, and the two umpires met near the plate for the usual consultation about ground rules. Hank announced that hits into the crowd would be good for three bases and over throws in the multitude for two. He also announced the batteries and gave out the important information that Mr. Beaumont would play left field. Then the players of both teams were gathered together in a half circle, while several cameras shot them.

Mayor Schwab was not in plain sight and it took some time for Griffith to locate him in the stand. He was given a brand new ball and tossed it out on the field with tremendous force. The game was on.

Beebe was shaky and Evers walked. Beaumont sacrificed him to second. Johnny got a big lead and attempted to steal the far corner, but was called out. Then Schulte beat out a hit past Lobert and Chance was tossed out by Downey.

Poet Gets First Triple.

The Cubs' second and third innings passed quickly and uneventfully. After Beaumont had gone out in the fourth, Schulte produced his first three bagger, but perished miserably on third, for Chance popped to Downey and Steinfeldt was gone on a bounder to Capt. Lobert.

Archer, who was in on the hit trust with the Syracuse poet, beat one to Downey in the fifth, but two were out and Overall flied to McCabe.

Schulte's second triple came with two out in the sixth. The manager fouled to Lobert.

Beebe was great thereafter and only two Cubs saw first base, these being Archer, who landed for another infield single in the eighth, and Steinfeldt, who walked in the ninth.

Only twelve men faced Overall in the first four innings. Evers dropped Clarke's fly in the third, but Schulte recovered the ball in time to shoot out the Toronto product at second base.

Hoblitzel singled to right with two out in No. 4, but he was nailed in an attempt to steal. Two out in the fifth, McCabe singled and Downey walked getting the only pass off Orrie. Clarke struck out in this pinch.

There was nothing stirring then until the eighth, when the Reds had their first real opportunity. With only one out, Downey tripled into the crowd back of Beaumont. The infield was close in and Clarke popped a fly over Evers. Schulte chased to the base line and gathered it to his bosom. Beebe let a third strike cut the plate in the middle and that crisis was past.

Reds' Rally Unexpected.

The Reds didn't look dangerous at all in their ninth, and no one was expecting them to come so strong at the finish. But the fatal round was opened with a single from the huge bat of Mike Mitchell. Egan was going to sacrifice, but switched his plans and tried a hit and run. Steinfeldt's play was at first base, and that's where he threw, but the peg was low and both men were safe. Then came Schulte's nice catch of McCabe's terrific lift. Mitchell took third unchallenged after the out, so far away was Schulte.

It was a breathless moment, and a long one, for Overall was working more slowly than is his custom. Finally, with the count two and two on Downey, as previously related, he pitched against Tom's bat and it was over. Score:

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Cincinnati, O., April 14.—[Special.]—Mordecai Brown will pitch for the Cubs tomorrow and George Suggs probably will work for Cincinnati.

President Murphy came in from Chicago and was a sad witness of the defeat.

Big bouquets were handed Mike Mitchell, Honus Lobert, and Manager Griffith before the game.

Joe Tinker played a swell game at short, three or four of his seven chances being extremely hard ones.

Larry McLean was in the stand and admitted he would have broken up the game early if he had been allowed to play.

Members of the victorious and vanquished teams attended the performance of "A Fool There Was" at the Grand tonight, the guests of Robert Hilliard.

Garry Herrmann is expecting another record crowd at next Sunday's game. He couldn't have picked a better baseball day than this one had he tried.

King Cole has joined the anti-cigaret league, of which Artie Hofman is grand exalted ruler. Artie is on the cigar and pipe wagon for a stay of over eight months.

During the Reds' rally in the tenth a large party full of German tea swooped down on the home plate and told Downey what to do. Downey did it, but not until the large party had been escorted off the field.

Mr. Schulte got his three hits and therefore came through with the promised poem, as follows:

Of all sad words of tongue or pen—
You know the rest of that, good men;
But let's not grieve; think of the joys
That game brought to Clarke Griffith's boys;
And also think of this with pride:
We've got the New York Giants tied.

DOVES VICTORS IN ELEVENTH.

Beaten in Early Stages by Giants, Lake's Men Show Grit and Turn Defeat Into 3 to 2 Victory.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Apparently doomed to defeat, Boston rallied in the ninth inning, tying the score, and finally won from New York in the eleventh by a score of 3 to 2, in the opening game of the season.

In the seventh New York scored a run on two long hits and again in the eighth on a three base hit and an out. The locals scored once in the eighth on two hits, a sacrifice, and an error, and tied the score in the ninth. They won in the eleventh, when Devlin fumbled a hard grounder with a man on third and two out.

The usual flag raising ceremony and band concert preceded the game. Mayor John F. Fitzgerald threw out the first ball. President Thomas J. Lynch of the National league attended the game. Score:

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—Pittsburg's world champions won from St. Louis in the first game of the season by a score of 5 to 1. Hans Wagner was the star and made a three base hit in the third inning, which brought in the first two runs for his team.

The grand stand and the new bleacher seats were filled and because of the crowd on the field the two base rule for hits prevailed. Umpire Johnstone ejected newspapr photographers from the field. Score:

Brooklyn Whitewashes Philadelphia in Opening Contest, Featured by a Pitchers' Duel.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14.—Brooklyn won the opening game of the National league season from Philadelphia by 2 to 0.

The largest crowd which has witnessed an opening day game in Philadelphia in many years saw a pitchers' duel between Rucker and McQuillen. The latter kept Brooklyn's hits scattered except in the third inning, when Bergen scored on his triple and Burch's single, and in the ninth inning, when Wheat scored on doubles by himself and Lennox. "LET ME SIT WITH THE FANS."

(The subjoined is from the pen of L. B. L., a talented young lady of Niles, Mich., Mr. Lardner's home.)

Thus the Smiling One said,
As though no fresh laurels encircled his head.
From ocean to ocean those six words have spread:
"Let me sit with the fans!"

"Let me sit with the fans!"
Vain honors ignored and ambition at rest,
He joined with the people—like boyhood's his zest,
Enlivening the scene with his laughter and jest:
"Let me sit with the fans!"

O, happy the land where the ruler is one
With those he rules over—in work and in fun.
The heart of Chicago he surely has won:
"Let me sit with the fans!"

GOTHAM RACING OPENS TODAY

Carter Handicap Is Chief Attraction at Aqueduct.

SEVENTEEN HORSES NAMED.

Jack Atkin and Nealon Are Favorites for the Initial Prize.

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—Racing on the Metropolitan circuit begins tomorrow afternoon at Aqueduct, the chief attraction being the time honored Carter handicap, seven furlongs, for which seventeen thoroughbreds have been named to face Starter Mars Cassidy at 4 o'clock.

In the list of entries Barney Schreiber is represented by Jack Atkin, the champion sprinter, and Nealon, winner of the 1907 Suburban, which comes back to the turf apparently as sound as ever. In popular favor these horses have the call. Jack Atkin will pick up top weight, 135 pounds, which is considered a moderately light burden for him.

Dave Nicol, the western jockey, will ride Jack Atkin. Trainer John Powers said today if the big horse got away well at the start he would run the eyeballs out of the others. Nealon, a patched up cripple, won a race with 119 pounds in Florida recently, showing all his former speed and stamina.

On recent time trials Alfred Noble, King Cobalt, Prince Imperial, and Price Ahmed appear to be dangerous factors.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Comiskey's cometary constellation frisked its tail merrily, not to say sassily, in the faces of St. Louis' Browns yesterday at the south side star garage, then flew away with the opening game of the American league season at a rate estimated to be close to 1,000,000 miles a minute while nearly 20,000 professional and amateur astronomers gazed in admiration. Score, 3 to 0.

For a brief space—four innings, to be explicit—the comets hung around the horizon, revolving in a confined circular orbit as if to give everybody a better view and to let the telescopic cameras get in their work. Then they shot from perihelion to zenith and staid there, blazing away like luminaries of the double nth magnitude before whose effulgence the visiting athletes looked like tramp meteors at high noon hunting a soft spot in which to bury themselves.

There never was a chance for O'Connor's bunch to shine. Comet Smith, standing in the exact center of the nucleus, threw star dust in their eyes from Alpha to Omega, and then shot things parabolic at them. By the time the mathematicians among the strangers had partially charted these curves Smith changed to hyperbolas and mixed in a few spitters just for the joke of it.

Great Day for "Old Roman."

When the dazzling display was over Comiskey's face resembled the noonday sun wreathed in an aureole of smiles, which extended beyond the rings of Saturn and half the distance to the milky way. For was he not greater than Halley, and had he not predicted just what came off as accurately as did the ancient disciple of the telescope and the logarithm seventy-five days, if not seventy-five years, in advance? Besides, it was the Old Roman's birthday, and if he lives another fifty odd years, there will be no happier anniversary of his debut on earth.

The championship season's inaugural could not have been more brilliant or propitious if Providence had taken the whole thing in charge, and, as James J. Brady put it, perhaps it did, for Manager Duffy comes from that part of Rhode Island. The weather bureau did its prettiest, and supplied an atmosphere in which an overcoat was as heavy a handicap as an army blanket in the neighborhood of the hinges of hades. Possibly the tremendous impact of Comiskey's comets against the atmosphere was responsible for raising the temperature some degrees.

Comets Attract Huge Throng.

The double magnetism of June weather and curiosity as to the new comets served to draw a crowd bigger than the plant could hold with any degree of comfort. That was the chief drawback—that and the fact the warmth of the welcome extended by Chicago's fans caught Comiskey himself napping, for he had failed to make preparations for the outpouring. Long before the game started the crowd overflowed everything in sight, and the small force of bluecoats on hand proved incapable of handling excess baggage. For a time streams of restless humanity ran across and around the playing field without opposition, and in many places the time begrimed barriers gave way under the crush. The throng caused a delay at the start, but it finally put itself in something like order and good naturedly remained there or thereabouts until the end. Not every one got a peek at the comets, but the more fortunate ones kindly relayed verbal information of how they looked and acted back to those in the rear ranks, and every one tried to be satisfied and happy in the thought it will not always be thus.

Nothing but encomiums were heard regarding the constellation. Hugh Duffy had his luminaries polished and trimmed until they fairly dazzled, and not a flaw was to be seen. Comets Gandil, Zeider, Blackburne, and Purtell flashed around the inner orbit with dazzling speed and headed off everything that tried to escape their vigilance. In the next dimension Comets Dougherty, Parent, and Hahn kept their throttles wide open and doomed to death the occasional vagrant fly which came their way. Comet Payne computed Comet Smith's ellipses with mathematical precision and threw a red flashlight in the faces of every one who tried to steal anything.

Smith a Shining Light.

Not a fielding fault marred the work of the [illegible] anywhere, and they backed up Smith as his great pitching deserved. The stocky pianist demonstrated that there is nothing the matter with the gray tissues beneath Manager Duffy's skull, for he delivered the goods at the front door every time and justified all the way his choice for the honor of pitching the opener. One hit, a measley little Texas leaguer which sailed over Zeider and dropped safely too short for Hahn to reach, was all St. Louis could get off Herr Smith. It landed in the third inning, and Demmitt, who was the lucky player to make it, reached second base on a [illegible]. He perished there and was the only visiting athlete to get that far around the orbit [illegible].

Two other visitors reached first base in nine innings, both of them on balls. There is a persistent suspicion that Smith gave these passes intentionally for the express purpose of demonstrating what he has acquired during the spring the necessary motion to hold up runners on first and trap them if they get frisky. Opposing runners have been wont to flirt with Smith's delivery in other seasons and take daring liberties, but when Bobby Wallace, veteran that he is, tried it in the first inning yesterday Smith tricked him as smoothly as greased graphite, and thereafter the occasional [illegible] who saw first behaved himself.

Old Army Game Effective.

With the stick the Sox were not overstrong, but they played the old army game so persistently that they chased Graham off the slab with only three hits. [illegible] were all they could connect with, and one of these was a combination of Gandil's speed and a [illegible] in the head by Graham, who under[illegible] the gait at which comets travel through a [illegible] space.

It was not until the Browns broke and faltered under pressure in the fifth inning that the Sox were able to register. Then a slip by Abstein gave them the opening, and Comet Payne earned his fame for his corona by soaking out the [illegible] swat and driving home the first run of the local season. In the sixth Graham wabbled so badly that he practically handed the Comets a run, and then his light went out, Lake being set in his place. Comets Dougherty and Purtell solved Lake's problems in the eighth with a double and a single, which made the third and only clean cut [illegible].

[illegible] enemy displayed the brightest light in the [illegible] Griggs, who is trying to fill the gap at second for the Browns, threw his hooks into the [illegible] for a time at least, by robbing Comet Blackburne, alias Lena, of as sweet a swat as ever was [illegible]. It came off in the sixth inning, with the bases full, and that pinch by Griggs cost us a couple or three runs. Zeider, Gandil, and Blackburne, however, retaliated by taking safe ones away from the Browns, and Purtell closed the battle with a brilliant stab of Stone's sharp rap within two degrees of the foul stance.

The brass band was not all the trimmings fixed up for the blowoff, for the Sox rooters got busy and trotted out presents before the game which made the vicinity of the plate look like a cross between a florist's and a show window full of cut glass. For Manager Duffy there was a gift of a cut glass water set from a small but select coterie of local admirers, and for the Sox there was a huge floral horseshoe, inscribed with good luck and best wishes and crowned with a miniature pennant bearing the figures 1910. After these had been admired and the crowd had cleared space enough for the game Silk O'Loughlin, looking as spick and span as if he had just dropped in from the planet Venus, uttered the usual oration which informed those within hearing "Who's who, and what of it?"

For four quiescent rounds the issue hung trembling in the balance, needing, apparently, only the most diaphanously thin element of luck to turn the scale either way. In that time there had been two Comets launched over the first station in safety. Zeider walked in the first and was held up at second, trying to sneak it. Purtell met exactly the same fate after perambulating to first in the second inning. In the same time the Browns got three men to first, one in each of the first three innings. Wallace was caught napping, as already related. Abstein was caught stealing in the second and Demmitt, who made the only safe hit, was sacrificed to second only to stand around there while two victims were snuffed out. From there to the ultimate finish it was a total eclipse for the Browns. Not another of them became visible to the nude eye.

Comets Illuminate Things.

The Comets began illuminating things in the fifth. Abstein dropped an easy toss from Griggs, which gave Dougherty his life. Gandil dropped a bunt at Graham's feet and while the hurler was computing the relative distances to first and second bases Chic raced for the former and beat the belated throw. Purtell hopped a bunt off his bat high enough for Stephens to pinch. Blackburne shot a sizzling meteor into right, but Demmitt had the proper dope on its declination and gathered it in, while everyone said something which sounded like the fielder's name. Payne followed with a red hot roller in the other direction and it percolated safely into left, letting Dougherty project himself across the plate with the first run.

Hahn started the sixth with a pass and Zeider poked a single into center. Parent bunted to Graham, who made a low down peg to first and Freddy was safe with the bases stocked and none gone. Dougherty rainbowed a little fly to Abstein, but Gandil, trying desperately, failed to get out of the way of one of Graham's loose benders, thereby forcing Hahn home. Lake went into the limelight there and Purtell fouled out. Blackburne squared away and aimed one on a straight line just 4 degrees and 14 minutes above the horison beyond the right field fence. From the appearance of its trajectory there wasn't a chance for a soul to get near its periphery, but Griggs guessed otherwise. Getting exactly the right ascension by an instant's calculation, he stuck his left mitt directly in the path. When he parachuted back to earth he had that ball squarely trapped, and the whole side was pinched.

Big Pat Hits Into Star Gazers.

Lake got along safely in the seventh and retired two in the eighth before Pat Dougherty pulled a loud one just inside first base and into the ring of star gazers for two corners of the diagram. Gandil was passed and Purtell sailed a nice one over the infield into center, giving Dougherty his second ride to the counting house. Blackburne tried again, but raised his sights too high. His fly scraped the paint off a spot in the blue dome, and Abstein had an awful time catching it when it came down, but he did. Score:

COMET TALES.

Off in front.

The first ball pitched, as usual, was a strike.

St. Louis again today, tomorrow, and Sunday.

"Some pitching, believe me." (With apologies to Hek.)

Pat Dougherty had a new haircut, otherwise he might have grabbed another hit.

All that was needed to make the opening's success complete was that new plant.

Possibly the White Sox were handed all the hard luck in store for them during the preliminaries.

Manager Duffy will send Walsh to the slab if he feels fit today, otherwise Olmstead is likely to be in line.

Only once did the crowd get unruly, and then Umpire O'Loughlin stopped play in the fifth inning while the cops gently urged the bugs off fair ground.

From down state cities the railroads are advertising round trip excursion rates to Chicago for tomorrow, using "baseball and grand opera" as tempting bait. Notice which is put second.

Hartzell played short both well and confidently and stole a single from Gandil in the second inning by a fast stop and throw. Wallace seemed as much at home at third as in his more familiar surroundings.

One bug who escaped from Kankakee for the afternoon produced the dope to show that Smith pitched only eighty-one balls in nine innings, an average of nine to an inning. Graham and Lake pitched 125 in eight innings.

Stone's arm is bad, as was demonstrated in the fifth, when he came up with Payne's hit in time to have given Dougherty a hot argument with a good throw to the plate. But George could only heave the ball to Wallace.

Hartzell poked a slow roller just out of Smith's reach in the fifth inning, but Zeider raced in and scooped it with one hand, then fired the ball to first in time to get the verdict from Umpire Perrine. His resemblance to Jakey Atz was not so marked after that.

Enterprising youngsters who knew the ropes and mysteries of the labyrinths under the stands did a thriving business in renting empty boxes to late comers. They got two bits apiece for as many as they could dig up, and the supply of elevated standing room did not half go around.

With Gandil on first and Dougherty on second in the fifth Demmitt pulled down Blackburne's line drive and had an easy double play on Gandil, who had gone almost to second base. Demmitt tried to double up Dougherty instead, but Pat heard the coacher's warning cry more quickly and got back ahead of the ball.

The grafters who steal balls as souvenirs were outdone yesterday by somebody who pinched Blackburne's glove while he was escaping from the throng. It takes weeks, sometimes years, to break in a fielding glove to suit a ball player, and Lena was disconsolate last night. He will not be able to play his game until the souvenir grabber repents and returns the mitt. Under the circumstances he will be forgiven—once.

TAFT PITCHES FIRST BALL

President Throws Low to Washington's Twirler at Capital.

ROOTS FOR THE HOME TEAM.

Rejoices in Defeat of Athletics by the Sprightly Senators, 3-0.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—[Special.]—President Taft, provided with pass No. 1, today enjoyed the novel experience of seeing the Washington American league team win a ball game. With the executive were Mrs. Taft, her sister, Mrs. Moore, and Mrs. Eckstein of Cincinnati, who is a White house guest.

Last year the executive saw Washington play Boston, late in the season, but the local players got stage fright when the president arrived and threw away the game. Mr. Taft remarked then that he must be a "hoodoo" and remained away from the ball park the rest of the season. The crowd cheered lustily when he arrived.

The president took an active part in the game. Just before play was started, Umpire "Billy" Evans made his way to the Taft box in the right wing of the grand stand, and presented the chief magistrate with a new ball.

President Is Surprised.

The president took the ball in his gloved hand as if he were at a loss what to do with it until Evans told him he was expected to throw it over the plate when he gave the signal.

He handed the ball to Mrs. Taft, who accompanied him. She weighed it carefully in her hand while the president was doffing his bright new kid gloves in preparation for his debut as a baseball pitcher.

The president watched the players warm up, and a few minutes later shook hands with the managers, McAleer and Mack. When the bell rang for the beginning of the game, the president shifted uneasily in his seat, the umpire gave the signal, and Mr. Taft raised his arm.

Catcher Street stood at the home plate ready to receive the ball, but the president knew the pitcher was the man who usually began business operations with it, so he threw it straight to Pitcher Walter Johnson.

The throw was a little low, but the pitcher stuck out his long arm and grabbed the ball before it hit the ground, while the insurgents in the bleachers cheered wildly. The ball was never actually put in play, as it is to be retained as a souvenir of the occasion.

Roots for Home Team.

As the game progressed and the Senators maintained the lead they took at the outset, the president became as enthusiastic as the most rabid fan, and rooted hard for the home team. He insisted on remaining until the last Philadelphian had been retired. Then he held a reception in his box for the members of the two teams.

Vice President Sherman, who rarely misses a game when he can get out of the job of running the senate, witnessed the contest from another box, and seemed to get as much satisfaction out of the victory as did the president.

Charles Bennett, secretary of the senate, got a hard rap on the head as the result of a foul tip. He was in the box with Representative Longworth.

Plank was hit hard, thirteen bingles for a total of nineteen bases, being the Senators' batting record. Exceptionally brilliant fielding behind the Athletic twirler, however, prevented a larger score. On the other hand, Johnson pitched in great form, never being in danger at any stage of the contest.

Doubles by Schaefer and Lelivelt in the first inning scored the initial run. The Senators made the game safe in the fifth by counting two more tallies. Johnson opened this round with a terrific drive to center field for two bases and went to third when Milan beat out a slow bunt to Baker. Schaefer banged out a lucky two bagger into the right field crowd, scoring Johnson, Milan going to third. The latter brought in the third run when Lelivelt hit a long fly to Murphy. Score:

Labor "Gets Even" with Naps.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—[Special.]—Because he claims Cleveland baseball is "unfair" to organized labor, John Potter, walking delegate of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, refused to allow a party of ice workers to attend the ball game at Bennett park this afternoon. Potter met a wagon of the company hauling the men to the game. He ordered all union men in the party to descend. All obeyed except two foremen of the ice company.

Peoria, Ill., April 14.—[Special.]—Manager Rowan tonight released Outfielder Reynolds, Infielders Horne and Ireland and Pitchers Freeman and Lang to Kankakee.

BATTLE 14 INNINGS TO A TIE

Yankees and Red Sox Clash Till Darkness Calls Halt.

SCORE BY LANTERN IS 4 TO 4.

Highlanders, After Poor Start, Brace in Closing Rounds of Tilt.

New York, April 14.—The New York and Boston Americans battled for fourteen innings until darkness stopped the game with the score 4 to 4. The contest was witnessed by an assemblage so large that 6,000 spectators crowded on to the playing field.

In the early part of the game the Highlanders played poorly and errors by Foster and Austin gave the Red Sox what looked to be a safe lead. The locals started to hit Cicotte in the third inning and drove him from the rubber in the eighth, when Wood took his place with men on third and first and none out.

The newcomer made a wild pitch on his first serve to Chase. Hemphill scored and Wolter went to third. Chase's sacrifice fly registered Wolter and tied the count. Score:

NAPS VICTORS IN THE TENTH.

Cleveland Outslugs Champion Tigers and Wins by Final Count of Nine to Seven.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—Cleveland and Detroit seesawed through a ten inning game finally won by the visitors, 9 to 7.

The home team got away in the lead, but Cleveland went by in the seventh. Detroit tied it in the ninth, but four doubles and a single in the next inning gave Cleveland a four run lead that Detroit's two run rally could not meet.

Crawford was the individual star, driving in four runs and scoring the one that tied it in the ninth, which he opened with a double.

It was the best opening day weather in years, and a new attendance record for an inaugural was set. Score:

New York, April 14.—Running out with an unfinished break of 37, Charles F. Conklin of Chicago defeated Joseph Mayer of Philadelphia, 400 to 388, in the national amateur billiard championship at the Hamilton club of Brooklyn tonight. The Chicagoan secured the best average of the tournament, 12 28-31, and assured himself of second prize, with a chance to tie Gardner for first place.

The game was the most interesting of the tournament. Conklin took a fair lead at the start, but runs of 82, 37, and 36 in succession gave the Philadelphian a lead of 183 to 149 at the end of the tenth inning. Conklin replied with 37, and at the end of the sixteenth inning was leading, 230 to 222.

At the end of the twentieth inning Mayer again was in the lead, 294 to 281, and three sessions later he had a lead of 27 points. From this point on Mayer fell off in his play and Conklin, with runs of 11, 18, and 12, reduced his opponent's lead. Mayer counted 9 and 6 while the Chicagoan made two blanks. A cipher by Mayer ended his chances, as Conklin ran out with 37, a winner by 12 points.

HANDY CUP GOES TO M'DERMOTT

Star Swimmer Wins Central Y. M. C. A. Tank Title from Hanson by Close Margin of Two Points.

Scoring a total of 21 points, Michael McDermott won the annual swimming championships of the Central Y. M. C. A., in the La Salle street tank last night. Harry Hanson secured second place with 19 points, while William Heyn and Robert Schlemn were tied for third with 11.

In order to win the championships and the cup, which was presented by H. J. Handy of the I. A. C., McDermott had to win the half mile, the last event, or secure second place to the Hanson. At the crack of the gun McDermott left the rest of the field and never was headed. He won from Schlemn by half a length. In the other events McDermott was given keen competition and won the title only after hard races. Summaries:

Plunge for distance—Hanson and Ferguson tied for first. Distance, 57 ft.; Roberts, third. Distance, 52 ft. 6 in.

100 yard breast stroke—Won by McDermott; Heyn, second. Time, 1:17 4-5.

JEFF PUTS ON GLOVES AGAIN

Rushes Bob Armstrong Through Three Fast Rounds.

EX-CHAMPION LACKS VIM.

Sam Berger Criticises Day's Training Work of the Champion.

Rowardennan, Cal., April 14.—Refreshed by his relaxation and diversion yesterday, James J. Jeffries returned to the training grind with more ginger in his work.

The first stunt on the program was three rounds of boxing with Bob Armstrong, the colored heavyweight. Beginning with defensive tactics in the first round to improve his speed and footwork, Jeffries, who is not much given to backing away, was soon chasing the big negro all over the ring. Armstrong was glad when it was over.

Jeffries' speed was a trifle better than last Monday, but it was evident he still needs a lot of boxing practice to be anything like his former self. Bag punching and handball followed, and when the work was over the perspiration fairly rolled off him.

Fast as Jeffries appeared, Manager Sam Berger thought the undefeated champion was a bit off in his work.

"He's not himself," said Berger, "and I know his heart was not in anything he did this afternoon. It may have seemed to the casual onlooker that he showed plenty of ginger and life, but I know him too well."

Jeffries is much worried over the impending operation on his wife. Mrs. Jeffries, accompanied by Dick Adams, left tonight for Oakland, where she is to go under the surgeon's knife on Saturday. Her illness and departure has cast gloom over him and puts an end to plans for a party tomorrow night in honor of Jeffries' thirty-fifth birthday. Under the circumstances, it is not likely he will enter into any festivities.

U. OF C. GYMNASTS TO GO NORTH.

Nine Athletes Are Entered in the Conference Tournament in Minneapolis Tomorrow.

Nine University of Chicago athletes will leave for Minneapolis tonight for the conference wrestling, fencing, and gymnastic tournament tomorrow. Particular interest attaches to M. A. Gerend, the "strong man," who will compete for the heavyweight championship. Gerend is a "find" of Tilden Stearns, the wrestling coach, and though having only a few weeks of experience at the mat game, is picked to carry off the laurels. Watkins will enter the middleweight event, and Lawlor in the lightweight division. The gymnastic team will consist of Davis, Bartlett, Kayton, Rosenstiel, and Wisely. Levinson will enter the fencing tournament.

COOLEY ROLLS TOTAL OF 290.

Veteran of Belmont Team Averages 222 1-3, Helping His Side to Blank the List Colts.

Fred Cooley of the Belmont team in the Brand's Park league broke into the limelight last night with a 290 count in his second game against the List Colts. Totals of 187 and 190 gave him an average of 222 1-3 and enabled his side to win all three games.

Hyde of the Bankers' league rolled top series of the night with his 226 series at Flenner's, his series coming in the Commercial Bank scores and aiding that club in averaging 983 flat and blanking the First Nationals.

Three new second place holders turned up in Bensinger's curtain raiser last night, the Boller Pianos drawing 2,737 in the fives, Toemmel and Alfeld running 1,169 in the doubles, and Eddie Kelley getting 639 in the singles.

Contestants in the Greater Chicago Individual tournament will meet at Brill's alleys at 8 o'clock this afternoon to receive their prizes from Treasurer Brill and wind up the third annual tournament.

LANGFORD LANDS KNOCKOUT SMASH

Black Fighting Machine Stops Jim Barry in 16th Round of Vicious Battle.

CHICAGO BOXER IS GAME.

Crushing Blows Inflict Terrific Punishment to White During Slugging Melees.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 14.—In a battle which demonstrated anew the ability of Sam Langford of Boston as a human fighting machine, and added to the reputation of Jim Barry of Chicago only a tribute to gameness and ability to withstand punishment, the "Boston demon" sent his white antagonist to the mat for the final count in the sixteenth round at the Vernon arena today.

It was a vicious go from start to finish with the negro well in the lead after the first six rounds. From the tenth, in which Barry twice went down for the count of nine, until the sixteenth, when a straight left to the chin ended the combat, it was wholly one sided. Langford landed upon his man almost at will and victory by the knockout route appeared only a matter of time.

Barry surprised the ringside crowd with the strength he displayed, despite the terrific bombardment, and a rally in the fifteenth inspired his backers with the hope he would yet outlast Langford.

Barry Outweighs Negro 30 Pounds.

While the men did not weigh in before entering the ring, it was said a difference of thirty pounds in weight favored the white fighter. Barry's weight was given as 196 and that of Langford at 166. In the clinches the white man proved far the stronger of the two, being cautioned by the referee several times for rough tactics at close range.

The men went at each other viciously at the sound of the gong for the first round. There was slugging at close range in the second and both men were bleeding at the mouth when they went to their corners. In a clinch near the end of the third round, Barry almost threw Langford through the ropes. From then until the eighth the milling was a mixture of terrific slugging rallies and infighting, Barry throwing the negro around roughly in the clinches and undergoing severe punishment whenever they fought at long range. Several times during the eighth and succeeding rounds the men were hooted for wrestling. Langford showed the utmost good nature.

"Stop your tickling," he admonished during a clinch. "You can't win that way."

Langford Goes After Knockout.

Langford cut loose after the eighth round and was constantly trying for a knockout. Barry fought back gamely and at times rushed his lighter opponent to the ropes. In the tenth the negro executed a coup in ring tactics. Getting Barry near the ropes he suddenly exerted all his strength and threw the white man against them; then, catching him on the rebound, landed a terrific swing flush on the jaw. Barry dropped for the count of nine.

After that it was only a question of how long Barry could stand the punishment. His left eye, cut open early in the fight, was almost closed; his cheeks were puffed and blood flowed in a stream from his nose and mouth.

The last four rounds were marked by a succession of slugging matches. It was during one of these hard rushes in the sixteenth round that Langford caught his almost exhausted opponent with a straight left to the chin that ended the combat.

The two-ten round preliminaries were won on decisions by "Young" Rivers of Los Angeles over "Red" Corbett of San Diego and Morris Bloom of Chicago over "Young" Rogers of Los Angeles.

JOHNSON RESUMES HARD WORK.

Champion Takes Long Road Jog and Finishes with Boxing Bouts and Gymnasium Exercise.

After a day's layoff, due to his appearance in court, Champion Jack Johnson put in a strenuous training session yesterday at his home, arising early, he struck out with his trainers for Michigan avenue, and thence south to Washington park and back again, a distance of about ten miles.

Upon his return to his quarters the negro boxed with Cutler and Cotton and finished his day's training with an hour's gymnasium work. The champion asserted if no other court proceedings interfere he will continue this sort of work every day until he leaves for the coast.

Johnson displayed a keen interest in the Langford-Barry fight. He thought Sam would win, but looked for a quicker finish. When told of the details Johnson said it must have been a great battle, and that either Barry is improving or Langford going back. After he had finished his training the champion motored to the city where he purchased $1,500 worth of chandeliers and other apparatus for lighting his house.

Promoter Gleason, who was to have left for the coast yesterday, will stop over another day to close deals with local railroad officials for the handling of admission tickets with railroad passage. The Californian said he was informed he would have to wait until he got to the coast for a definite answer, and was pleased to get the chance to close the deal here.

Gleason said it would not be necessary to commission anyone to see that Johnson starts for the coast next week. The Californian had a long talk with the champion Wednesday night, and is sure Johnson will live up to his word and leave Chicago April 23.

WEILS PAY $90,000 FOR BUSINESS SITE

Joseph M. and Victor Acquire Property at 297 South Clark Street.

LAND FOR STEEL FIRM.

Universal Portland Cement Company Said to Plan a Warehouse on Elston Avenue.

While Adolf Kraus, in a deed filed for record yesterday, appears as the purchaser of the property at 297 South Clark street, the sale of which was closed last week by Albert L. Strauss, it is understood that the new owners are Joseph and Victor Weil, Mr. Kraus taking title temporarily for convenience.

The grantor is Joseph B. Earl, and the property, which is on the east side of the street between Van Buren and Harrison streets, has a frontage of 30½ feet, with a depth of 106 feet. It is improved with a two story and basement building, which was valued by the board of review at only $4,800, the land going in at $62,640. A nominal consideration, subject to an incumbrance of $36,000, appears in the deed, but it is reported that the actual price is in the neighborhood of $90,000.

The Weils, who have acquired considerable central business property during the last few years, own the twenty feet adjoining on the north, and striking evidence of the advance of values in this neighborhood during the last few years is shown by the fact that the Weils acquired this twenty feet in July, 1902, at a reported consideration of $22,000. They are said to have no plans for improving this holding of fifty feet.

Steel Company Acquires Property.

In three deeds filed for record, the Illinois Steel company, appears as acquiring 200 feet of frontage, 135 feet deep in Elston avenue, 100 feet south of Bloomingdale avenue, for $15,250. The property, which is distant only about a block from the old North Chicago Rolling Mill plant, is vacant, and is said to have been acquired for the Universal Portland Cement company, a subsidiary corporation of the United States Steel company, as a site for a large warehouse.

The Library Bureau has acquired for a nominal consideration from John N. Wilcox, and others 91x125 feet at the southeast corner of Diversey boulevard, and Hermitage avenue. The bureau has a large plant with five and three story buildings on the opposite corner, which at one time was occupied by the notorious Luetgert sausage factory. The present purchase is for future possible business requirements of the bureau.

Clyde D. Armstrong, the builder, has sold to John T. Giblin of the McGuire & Cummings Manufacturing company, the new fifteen flat building with 100x110 feet of ground at the southeast corner of Clarendon avenue and Bittersweet place, for $70,000 with incumbrance of $42,000 assumed. A twelve room residence at 616 Belden avenue, with lot 51x134 feet, valued at $14,000, was given in part payment. C. A. E. Grip of H. O. Stone & Co., made the deal.

A twelve room residence at 616 Belden avenue with lot 51x134 feet, valued at $14,000, was given in part payment. C. A. E. Grip of H. O. Stone & Co. made the deal.

Record was made of the purchase by the city of Chicago, of 90x120 feet, at the northeast corner of Sixty-second street and Normal avenue for $16,000, which is to be used as the site for a branch public library to cost about $50,000.

Shows Benefit of Realty Loans.

The advantages of real estate loans as an investment was discussed by Edgar M. Snow, M. E. Greenebaum, and E. G. Pauling at the weekly luncheon of the Chicago real estate board, which was attended by ninety-four members and their guests.

Mr. Snow declared that no other investment presents such attractive features as a good mortgage, because it is safe; because security in land is the most stable of all securities; because the mortgagee owns and controls the entire indebtedness; because the mortgagee can examine and secure a fair idea as to its value, and because those with little or no business knowledge can more safely rely upon this than any other form of investment.

Mr. Greenebaum said that the real estate mortgage is the best known and oldest form of safe investment, which fact has been recognized by the law in confining investments of funds for minors to this class of securities, and that insurance company investigations have resulted in larger investments in mortgages and less in stocks and bonds. In nearly all cases, he said, the investment of endowment funds by charitable institutions is restricted to first mortgages.

He declared that the money which goes into mortgages is of a different class from that which goes into stocks, and that in the long run the man with the mortgages has more money than the man with the stock. He said that the number of foreclosures in proportion to the number of loans is small, and that the profits derived from the sale of land obtained under foreclosure fully offsets the losses.

MAY WHEAT HOLDERS UNLOAD

Slow Milling Call Makes Bulls Heavy Sellers on Decline.

RAINS IMPROVE OUTLOOK.

Coarse Grains Score Moderate Advance; Lard and Ribs Have Rally.

Holders of May and July wheat liquidated freely yesterday. The desire to unload was particularly apparent in the May, which finished 1⅝c lower, while the July closed ⅝c down and the September lost only ⅜c. Commission firms supposed to be acting for one of the big eastern holders of May wheat were busy changing the May over into September at 9@10c difference, and this was the main cause of the narrowing of the spread. The Bartlett-Patten house also gave the September fair support on the break, which helped to rally the deferred future from the declines. Outside trade was light and the lower range of values did not cause much of any inspiration to buy wheat.

Milling Business Is Poor.

The weakness in the cash wheat is the main factor in the liquidation of the May and July. Mills have not taken the wheat in the way expected, while the flour demand is slow in all directions. Spring wheat millers who have ground wheat heavily up to the last few weeks are now finding the markets well supplied and the inquiry slow, while the output is much smaller than it was a year ago. Stocks instead of decreasing are increasing. Farmers, moreover, are increasingly willing to sell the wheat they have been hoarding in the hopes of receiving higher prices, as was the case a year ago. A fair movement of old wheat is expected up till the time the new grain begins to move. Texas reports state that wheat will be ready for market in that state by the latter part of May, and Oklahoma reports indicate a yield of 20,000,000 bu.

September Is in Demand.

Kidston, Knight-McDougal, the Shearson-Hammill were the big sellers of the May, the two first named houses taking the September in place of the May sold. Bartlett-Patten, bought the September, and there was also good buying of the deferred month on the break by Marfield, Wagner, Schultz, and wire houses in general around $1.000. Shorts were free buyers also and the trade at the close was regarded as fairly well evened up. The May selling was credited to an eastern coterie of traders which operates largely through Knight-McDougal, and not for the account of Waterman, who is credited with being the chief holder. Barrell, Pardridge, Armour, and Friedman were good sellers early, and the local professional contingent was pounding the market at every opportunity. Primary receipts were 316,000 bu, against 206,000 bu a year ago.

Heavy Rains Are General.

Rains were general over the wheat belt in the southwest, and while there was a generally more optimistic tone to the crop advices, there were a few pessimists, who continue to send in alarming reports in regard to conditions in Kansas and Nebraska. Advices from Kansas to a leading elevator concern here place the minimum crop of wheat in that state at 65,000,000 bu, with the probability that the state will go over 70,000,000 bu. This was regarded as bearish and offset the Smiley report placing the condition at 59.6. Minneapolis wheat stocks were estimated to have increased 175,000 bu for five days, and another good sized increase for the week is expected at Duluth. Nebraska is selling wheat to come here, and in the northwest premiums are disappearing, making the general position of the nearby delivery uncertain. Liverpool closed ⅛@⅜d off.

Corn Shows Better Undertone.

Corn showed a decidedly firm tone in view of the weakness in wheat. Early prices were sharply lower, but the offerings were easily absorbed on the break and at the finish values were ⅛@⅜c to ½c higher. Bartlett-Patten were on the buying side a good share of the time, and there was free buying of the September by Bennett and Comstock, while commission houses had buying orders as a rule. Knight-McDougal sold the July. The cash demand was fair with sales of 85,000 bu, at unchanged prices. Receipts here were 136 cars, with 108 cars inspected yesterday. Primary arrivals were 254,000 bu, against 164,000 bu a year ago. Liverpool was nominally unchanged. Argentine shipments were estimated at 40,000 bu for the week. Country offerings were reported moderate.

Oats Futures Close Higher.

Oats followed corn and closed ⅛@¼c to ⅜c higher. There was no pressure of importance in the market, and Bartlett-Patten, and other commission houses were fair buyers. The eastern shipping demand is fair in view of the small receipts, and prices are at a level which discourages much enthusiasm on the short side. Arrivals here were 88 cars, with 83 cars promised for today. Cash prices were steady to ½c up and sales were estimated at 180,000 bu. Primary points had 321,000 bu, compared to 290,000 bu a year ago.

Pork Prices Raided Early.

While there was a brisk onslaught on pork prices early in the day and a little scattered liquidation carried values down sharply, lard and ribs were relatively strong, closing the day higher, while pork recovered a large share of its early decline. The tone at the close indicated a more hopeful spirit. Packers and outside investors were credited with buying product on the break and offerings near the close were light. Hog packing for the week was estimated at 335,000, against 405,000 a year ago. Receipts here were 13,000, with 10,000 estimated for today. Prices at the yards were easy and finished about 10c lower.

Rye Trade Continues Slow.

Rye was quiet. May was offered at 79c; No. 2 was quoted at 78@79c; No. 3, 65@75c; and No. 4, 55@65c. There were no fresh receipts on the market.

Barley was unchanged. Malting was quoted at 55@68c; mixing, 46@52c; and screenings, 30@47c. Receipts were estimated at 47 cars.

Timothy seed was quiet. Spot contract closed at $4.60 asked, and October $4.00 nominal; country lots, $2.75@4.00.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON CHANGE.

It was the general opinion yesterday that one of the big eastern holdings of May wheat had been to a large extent changed over into the September. The wheat sold was supposed to be for Oliver, an Albany, N. Y., trader. It was estimated that Kidston sold about 1,000,000 bu May and bought that amount of September at from 9c to 10c difference, while Knight-McDougal changed about 600,000 bu at about 10c difference. There was also considerable selling of May by Shearson-Hammill, Rosenbaum Grain, and Friedman. The buying was scattered and principally by scattered shorts. Lowitz bought a little; Peavey took about 250,000 bu, and there was buying of small lots by a number of different houses. The continued weakness in the cash situation was supposed to have been instrumental in causing the liquidation and changing of the May, and it was the belief of most traders last night that any attempt to run a May deal would prove disastrous.

The Smiley report on Kansas crop conditions has been hanging fire for several days, and it has been known generally that the condition estimated would be about 59.6. Just why there was so much mystery about it is hard to say, as it would have had little effect in any case. When it was finally made public property in all its details it did not cause hardly a ripple. The farm reserves were placed at 6.7 and the acreage of wheat at 6,433,000 acres. Corn in farm hands about 20 per cent. Other reports do not indicate any such low condition of the crop. Armour's figures on the Kansas crop indicate a yield of 65,000,000 bu as the minimum figure, with the prospects favoring an outturn of upwards of 70,000,000 bu. This estimate is based on reports from conservative agents who have made a careful investigation of conditions throughout the state.

While there were reports from Duluth that some durum wheat had been taken for export and receipts are running lighter, especially in the west and southwest, there was not much improvement in the cash situation. Nebraska No. 2 hard winter wheat is headed this way, and there was a sale of 20,000 bu to come here from Omaha. Farmers in the country are loosening up on their wheat holdings but are not finding much demand for it. In the southwest prices were steady relatively. Receipts were light. Cash corn was about steady here, with oats a shade firmer.

John Inglis wired Logan-Bryan from Indianapolis: "Called at some country stations and found a demoralized feeling in reference to prices, as there is more wheat in farmers' hands than usual and a decided overabundance of corn in farmers' hands. Country houses offering $1.00 for wheat, 50c for corn, 38c for oats, but are not anxious to buy. Farmers asking for prices, but too busy to deliver, and they will hold for 60c, but some corn is coming in at 50c. Cash wheat is a drug on the market and dealers are not anxious to buy any cash stuff at present."

The death of Lucius C. Platt at his home in Lake Forest was announced yesterday. He was one of the old members of the board of trade and was well known to nearly all the traders who have been on the floor any length of time. He has conducted his business in cash grain practically up to the last few weeks. His business was conducted under the firm name of L. C. Platt & Co.

Schwabacher estimates the stocks of provisions in local warehouses, with comparisons, as follows:

	April 14.	April 1, official.
Pork, old, brls	250	989
Pork, new, brls	14,000	10,092
Lard, tcs	12,500	11,690
Ribs, lbs	8,000,000	8,642,834

The government May report will be issued on May 9 at 1 p. m., eastern time, according to a message received by D. S. Anderson of the Western Union yesterday. It will give the condition and acreage of winter wheat and rye and the percentage of spring wheat sown.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were unchanged to 1½c lower; corn, ½c lower to 1c higher; oats, unchanged to 1c higher, and rye unchanged. Sales were: 5,000 bu standard oats, April shipment, 44⅜c, Illinois proportional.

In some quarters a more hopeful view is taken of the cash corn situation, and it is noted that the May does not respond to the selling the way it did for a time, but reacts sharply as soon as the selling pressure is removed.

Closing prices of wheat in foreign markets: Liverpool, spot unchanged to ½d lower; futures ⅛@⅜d lower; Paris, unchanged to ¼c higher; Antwerp, unchanged; Berlin, ¼c lower; Budapest, 1¼c lower.

"George M. Le Count wired Barrell from Caldwell, Kas.: "In this vicinity stand is poor. Color is good, and the condition of wheat is improving. All crops showing great improvement. Raining hard."

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 175,000 bu for five days, compared with a decrease of 600,000 bu the corresponding five days a year ago.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg were 220 cars, compared with 189 cars a week ago and 167 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Estimated receipts are: Wheat, 14 cars corn, 106 cars; oats, 83 cars; rye, none; barley, 45 cars; hogs, 10,000.

Argentine shipments for the week were estimated at 2,240,000 bu wheat and 40,000 bu corn.

The night letter telegraph service has been extended to include Canadian points.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Packers made up their droves of hogs at less than $10.00 for the first time in nearly six weeks, and added another 5@10c decline to the long list of losses recorded since the high spot of the year was touched on March 28. Early sales were made at up to $10.10, but few loads cleared at higher than $9.95 after the market was definitely established at the decline. The show of strength noted in the market for fair to good handy weight steers Wednesday developed into a full grown, healthy upturn of 10@15c, and an occasional gain of 10c was also noted in the value of prime heavy steers, while the general trade was more active than on any previous day this week, with light receipts acting as the chief stimulating influence. Sheep and lamb prices recovered all of the loss suffered Wednesday and the market had a strong and active tone at the best prices of the week. Wool lambs made $10.20, while clippers reached $9.60.

CATTLE.

General receipts of 5,000 cattle included an insufficient supply of desirable beef steers, and in their efforts to fill orders local and outside buyers outbid each other until prices were firmly established at an advance of 10@15c. The trade was active and an early clearance of the supply was effected, with local buyers securing the bulk of the offerings, although there was a fairly active eastern shipping demand. Sales of prime beeves were made at $8.00@8.40 with the bulk of the good 1,250@1,400 lb fat offerings clearing at $7.35@8.00, and with the medium to good light killers finding an outlet at $6.75@7.25.

Butcher stock trade continued active and prices were rigidly sustained at the recent big upturns, while bulls held steady to firm. Calves made further recovery from Tuesday's low figures and sold at $7.75 for the bulk of the fancy vealers, with odd lots of extra choice offerings at up to $8.00. Stocker and feeder trade was quiet, but values were firm and there was no stock pressing on sale in excess of trade requirements. Quotations:

Beef steers, good to choice	$6.90@8.50
Beef steers, plain to good	5.40@[illegible]
Exporters	6.50@7.25

Cattle at six western markets 6,300, against 13,800 a week ago, 17,300 a year ago, and 11,800 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date 2,064,000, against 2,083,000 the same period in 1909.

HOGS.

Shippers and speculators opened the market at a decline of 5c from Wednesday's closing figures, while packers staid out of the deal until after the opening of the downtown provision market. The outsiders paid $10.00@10.10 for many loads of choice light hogs suitable for shipment to the eastern trade, but packers had their early bids for the same class of stock pegged at $9.90, and although they finally paid up to $9.95 they did not have to bid higher than the latter figure for more than an occasional load of extra prime offerings. Practically all of the droves amassed by packers cost 10c less than on the preceding day, and the average price was lowered to $9.95, against $10.06 on Wednesday.

Receipts were placed at 11,000 head, but there were more than 8,000 hogs left over from the preceding day and the total supply on the market was more than the trade could handle without a recession in prices. Packers were generous buyers at the decline, however, and it was not believed that more than 5,000 hogs would be carried over unsold for another day. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$ 9.85@ 9.95
Common to good mixed	9.70@ 9.90
Fair to choice medium weights	9.80@ 9.95

SHEEP.

A clean rally of 15@25c was made in prices and the basis of trading was the highest of the week, with the bulk of sales at an upturn of 10@15c from last week's closing figures. Receipts were placed at 10,000 head, but the supply on sale did not bear out this estimate, and many orders had to be carried over unfilled. Packers did not have much outside competition to contend with, but each one held so many orders that they boosted prices on themselves and paid the full advance for stock on which they had refused to bid the preceding day. This enabled salesmen to clear the market of all accumulations and the trade was in an exceptionally strong position at the finish.

Colorado woolskins sold at $10.00@10.20, while all classes of shorn lambs topped at $9.60, with the bulk of the good killers clearing at $9.00 and higher. Practically all of the choice fat sheep at hand were shorn Ohio fed wethers and they sold at $8.25, with inferior westerns and natives at $7.25@8.00. Shorn native ewes cleared at $4.00@7.50, with plain western offerings at $6.50. Quotations:

Shorn wethers	$ 7.00@ 8.25
Native ewes, shorn	4.50@ 8.00

Receipts for April 15 were estimated at 1,000 cattle, 9,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep, against actual arrivals of 1,043 cattle, 14,961 hogs, and 4,592 sheep for Friday, April 16, 1909.

STOCKYARDS GOSSIP.

Country shippers reported that it was almost impossible to induce farmers to sell hogs at $9.50, a price made necessary by the recent big breaks in values here, and traders are wondering if farmers will market their hogs themselves or go back to their field work and hold their stock for a higher price.

"Hog prices are in a ticklish position and predictions of a further break to $8.00 and lower are just as likely to prove correct as prophecies of a rally of $1.00 or more from the present level," said a prominent trader. "We have never before gone through a siege like the present, and it is impossible to provide for the future with any degree of safety."

Charles Goepper amassed a drove of 550 prime 224 lb hogs at an average of $9.93¼ for Hammond and secured a drove of 230 lb offerings at $9.94 for the Anglo-American company.

Armour & Co. had 600 hogs in direct from the St. Paul market, it being the first time in two weeks that they received stock from an outside point.

Western markets have been receiving much more liberal supplies of hogs lately, receipts at six markets for the week thus far being 218,000 head, against 174,000 head a week ago.

Chicago Horse Market.

Firmness pervaded the market for horses, and all offerings were quickly taken at the week's best prices. Buyers held more orders than they could fill, and, although prices were not advanced, shippers were assured a ready outlet for all desirable horses marketed here the next few days. Sales of fancy draft animals ranged all the way from $270.00 to $375.00, with several offerings on the show order bringing up to the latter price. Expressers and feeders cleared at $165.00@220.00, while drivers and saddlers made $150.00@300.00, with most sales at $175.00@225.00. Plain, light, second hand city horses and work worn farm mares were slow sellers at $75.00@150.00, but no difficulty was experienced in disposing of fresh, sound animals, and the market was in a strong position at the close. Receipts for four days this week were 1,538, against 1,889 a week ago and 1,966 a year ago.

Groceries.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Dan Talmage's Sons company of New York in a weekly review of the rice market said: "More interest is manifested in trade circles. Unusually low prices have brought about freer buying and some speculation has developed. Advices from the south note a decidedly better tone, although the market on the Atlantic coast is still quiet. At New Orleans an improved demand prevails; some difficulty is experienced in filling orders, and an advance of ⅛c to ¼c on higher sorts has been secured. In the interior, southwest Louisiana and Texas, an active inquiry is reported for export and also for home consumption, and buying limits have been advanced full ⅛ to ¼c on desirable quality. New Orleans telegraphs Louisiana crop movement to date: Receipts, rough, 1,854,206 sacks; last year, 1,[illegible] sacks. Sales cleaned, 1,022,502 pkts.; last year, 1,277,[illegible] pkts. Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The John V. Farwell company weekly letter said: "This is a time when wholesalers are busy with reorders for many lines of merchandise, an indication of the healthy conditions of trade prevailing among retailers, for which the generally mild weather and the early opening of the season are responsible. A heavy reorder business on such lines as wash and wool dress goods, silks, ribbons, underwear, hosiery, neckwear, belts, and gloves is a leading feature this week. Rather a critical situation confronts the kid glove trade. At the Grenoble market an advance of from 4 to 6 francs per dozen, according to quality, has been made on certain lines of gloves, influenced by the strong advance in the price of real kid skins, particularly for stock from which kid gloves retailing at $1.50 are made. This means from 90c to $1.20 a dozen advance here, and some wholesalers already have marked their goods accordingly. Retailers are urged to protect themselves before certain advances become general."

NARROW CHANGE IN STOCKS

Price Fluctuations Small, Although Trading Is Active.

READING AND STEEL LEAD.

Gold Exports Will Continue Until Trade Balance Is Changed.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, April 14.—[Special.]—Although trading was fairly active in the stock market today, nearly all stocks which supplied any substantial share of the total were restricted to a relatively narrow range. The market in this respect was in contrast to the fluctuations in the earlier days of the week. The range in most cases today did not exceed a point, if exception be made of Great Northern and Northern Pacific, the former of which closed with a net gain of 1¼ and the latter with a net gain of 1⅜.

The market, while narrower so far as price movements were concerned, was firm in tone despite some irregularity toward the close of the session, and the great majority of net changes were recorded on side advances. Union Pacific, Reading, and United States Steel, three of the most active stocks of the day, each showed a net advance of ¼. New York Central made a net gain of one point, but with this exception and those of the two Hill stocks the active issues showed only fractional changes.

Two really interesting items of information were submitted to the attention of the financial district today in the statement of the Bank of England showing a substantial improvement in the reserve position of that institution compared with the full statement of this country's foreign commerce for the month of March, which made a decidedly unfavorable showing. The Bank of England reported an increase of about $4,250,000 in its reserves, thanks to gold arrivals from the United States and South Africa, and the bank's proportion of reserve liabilities was increased from 39.50 last week to 43.95 per cent this week.

This improvement still leaves the bank with the lowest reserve recorded at this date in eight out of the last ten years. This is not a showing which suggested an abandonment by the Bank of England of a desire to strengthen its gold holdings, but it was good enough, particularly in view of further supplies of gold which are on their way to the bank from this center to give ground for hope that the 4 per cent rate which has been established by the bank will, in connection with other steps taken by that institution to strengthen its position, be effective in accomplishing the result desired by the bank.

Money on call firm, 3¼@3½ per cent; ruling rate, 3½; closing bid, 3¼; offered at 3½. Time loans easier; sixty days, 4@4¼ per cent and ninety days ruling at 4¼; six months, 4@4¼. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4¾@5 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8425@4.8435 for sixty day bills and at 4.8785 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.83¼@4.84. Bar silver, 53⅛c. Mexican dollars, 44c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds firmer.

IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

Market Affected by the Farmers Holding Their Grain.

THINK OUTLOOK ALL RIGHT.

New Stable Car Directors to Take Up Duties April 26.

Much interest attaches to the character of the present money market in Chicago and the west. Rates are firm and there is expressed in different quarters some apprehension over the outlook. But there is evidence that the market at this time is due to the attitude of the farmers toward disposing of their surplus stocks of grain rather than to any general causes. George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental National bank, said yesterday:

"Within the last few days I have talked with probably thirty-five persons, bankers, from the west. They have told me that the occasion for lowering their balances with Chicago banks was to accommodate the farmers who are holding back their grain, principally corn, because they are not satisfied with prices. The western bankers tell me the country is relatively full of corn, but that the farmers are in such an independent position they are able to hold it for a higher market. They have seen the price drop 10 cents a bushel and it sticks in their mind that if they wait a while the price will move up again.

Farmers Busy Planting.

"The farmers at the same time are busy with spring preparations for crop planting and will not move their grain at this time, especially since the price is not satisfactory. However, after their corn crop has been planted, these western bankers believe there will be a liberal movement of grain.

"Another feature of the situation is that in the states where hogs are largely raised the droves are relatively small and there is less use for the corn for feeding purposes. If I am correctly advised I see no occasion for feeling otherwise than comfortable over the money outlook, although I do not anticipate very easy rates. When the old grain begins to come on to the market the country banks again will be increasing their balances with their correspondents in the central reserve cities."

The foregoing presents the money situation in an entirely new phase so far as discussion at this time goes.

Street's Stable Car Line.

Developments thus far indicate that at the annual meeting of Street's Western Stable Car Line on April 26, the directors elected to control the company for the ensuing year will take up their work untrammeled by whatever have been or are presumed to have been the operations of the former management. The La Salle street commission houses have undertaken to elect a new management because of fault found with the old, and until the new board shall have been installed, and familiarized itself with the company's affairs, it will not be in position to state of its own knowledge the company's condition. But present indications are that it should be able to devise and carry out its own policies, if the board selected is the proper one to fulfill the implied pledges, which the proxy committee of the commission houses have made to dissatisfied stockholders.

No attempt is made to defend the stock market operations of the present directors in the company. These members will be willing to retire, and give the new board an opportunity to demonstrate its capacity to direct the business.

The Record—The Remedy.

Aside from the question of the propriety of a corporation's directors using their position to conduct a stock market campaign with resulting losses to those led to invest in the company's shares, it is unfortunately true that the operations of the Street's Stable Car pool proved to have been bad for the business of the concern itself. The dividend rate on the common stock was raised from 2 to 4 per cent. The stock advanced from around 26 to around 54½. Then the dividend was put back to 2 per cent, and the price of the stock preceeding this, dropped back to 26. That is the record.

In the meantime, however, railroad people here and there, who could help the company by giving employment to its cars, were led to buy stock. They did not know the dividend was to be reduced, and they now have losses. In consequence there is a natural disposition to get even with the mangement in its business matters.

At the same time the banks have been given a bad impression of the company. Its credit has been impaired. No amount of protestations on the part of the present board will help the situation. The company is in no better is worse position than would be any other corporation under similar circumstances. The remedy also is the same—a new and competent management.

The old crowd, if it owns a considerable quantity of the stock, will have its sorrow mitigated by the fact of an increase in value of its shares.

United States Steel Common.

The following bearing on the probability of a 5 per cent dividend rate on United States Steel common was wired yesterday from New York:

"In quarters closely in touch with the affairs of the United States Steel corporation it is accepted as a fact that the common stock of the corporation will be placed on a 5 per cent dividend basis at the quarterly meeting on April 26. The final decision to do this, it is said, has only recently been arrived at, having been for a long time contingent, it is understood, upon the outcome of the American Tobacco case in the United States Supreme court.

"While some of the directors have been for several months in favor of a regular 5 per cent rate, those in the majority have deemed it wise to await the Tobacco decision in order to ascertain the legal standing of corporate combinations under any new interpretation of the anti-trust law. It had been definitely decided that in the event of a favorable decision the dividend would be increased at the next meeting. Now that the possibility of a decision is indefinitely postponed by the order for the reargument of this and the Standard Oil case it is said that objection to the increase has been withdrawn, inasmuch as the earnings of the corporation, present and prospective, are considered to justify fully a larger return to the stockholders. Those directors who have favored conservative action conceded that this fact could no longer be ignored.

"At the present rate the earnings for the year 1910 should show a surplus for the common stock of at least 15 per cent, and it is believed that they probably will run higher."

Dividends Declared.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company of Chicago declared its regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent, payable May 25 to stock of record May 3.

The Havana Electric railway company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on its common stock and the usual quarterly dividend of $1.50 on its preferred stock, payable May 14. The previous disbursement on common was $1 a share on Feb. 14 last. The annual meeting will be held May 31. Transfer books close April 22 and reopen June 1.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, April 14.—Money was in fair supply and good demand and discount rates were steady today. Trading on stock exchange was generally firm, with pronounced strength and activity in Grand Trunk, Rubber, and oil shares, while home rails hardened under steady investment buying. The better statement of the Bank of England helped consols and gilt-edged securities, but speculative issues closed below the best. Kaffirs were especially weak. American securities opened a fraction higher and improved on fair buying during the early session. In the afternoon dividend rumors and covering helped the advance, and New York sent fair support. A fractional decline occurred in the late trading, but the market closed firm.

The Sherman House, Chicago, is one of the oldest hotels in the city and has a reputation that is world-wide. Since its inception it has been a very large dividend payer.

Under the ownership and management of Mr. Joseph Beifeld the old structure of 196 rooms was the largest earning hotel proposition in the City of Chicago, considering its size and the amount of the investment. For 72 years the corner occupied by the old structure has been used for hotel purposes, and under the present management the clientage has grown until there is an urgent and positive demand for a larger and more modern building.

The new structure, fifteen (15) stories high, contains 757 rooms, and is now over half completed and will be ready for occupancy December 1, 1910. It will be, when finished, one of the most modern and complete hostelries in the United States. Location, clientele, management and past history assure that the new building will be a big earner from the date of its opening.

We consider these bonds one of the strongest local investments ever marketed, and, judging from the experience of similar issues, they should appreciate in value very rapidly.

We are led to our strong convictions on this security by consideration of the following facts:

(1) This bond issue is secured by assets over three times the amount of the mortgage.
(2) It is the first obligation of a successful concern of many years' experience.
(3) Net profits over eight times the annual interest on bonds (based on the actual experience of the old Sherman House).
(4) The desirability of this site is established by the fact that for 72 years it has been occupied as a public hostelry and that the business at this point has increased from year to year until there is a demand for greater hotel facilities at this particular point.
(5) The control and management of the Hotel Sherman Company is in the hands of one of Chicago's most successful business men, Mr. Joseph Beifeld, and his lieutenants, Frank W. Bering and Eugene V. Beifeld.
(6) These are serial bonds, therefore as each maturing series of bonds is paid the security back of the mortgage becomes greater.

Our circular descriptive of this issue is very complete. We suggest you send for it. As our intimate friends have already subscribed for the greater portion of the bonds, we advise your immediate subscription.

The earnings of the Company for the past four and one-half years have averaged nearly six times the amount of the annual interest on the $10,000,000 bonds; at no time within these years have they amounted to less than four times the amount of said interest. The total value of our mineral reserves, fixed assets and quick assets is estimated at over $78,000,000, or nearly eight times the amount of our present bond issue.

The bonds carry a minimum Sinking Fund, payable in cash or bonds at par, of 2½ per cent per annum on $10,000,000 bonds and on all further bonds issued; to be increased whenever annual extraction of minerals exceeds amount specified in mortgage.

The Republic Iron & Steel Company hereby offers until April 25, 1910, to the holders of its First Mortgage Bonds to purchase their bonds at 105 and accrued interest in cash, and has also arranged with Messrs. Hallgarten & Co. and J. & W. Seligman & Co. that such bondholders as may desire to do so shall have the privilege of taking in exchange the new bonds par for par and cash for the premium.

Anywhere, U. S. A.

Gentlemen:

Do you want to hire a live wire business developer who will start in with you at $35 a week on a make-good basis?

Am now handling the advertising of a large wholesale house in a middle western city. I organized this advertising department about a year and a half ago, also built up a good mailing list, and am conducting a follow-up system that is a big paying factor. My work is producing very profitable results ("highly satisfactory," the president told me), but there's a reason for my desiring a change.

Have a large stock of initiative, coupled with good advertising instinct and ability, and the salary figure mentioned above is a very reasonable one considering the class of work I turn out. Can also write forceful letters and install a follow-up system that will prove a clinching argument in my favor.

Drop me a line or two and give me a chance to show you what I can do. I'll measure up to your requirements or forfeit my salary.

Yours very truly,
Address H H 461, Tribune.

GLEN ELLYN

THE SUBURB BEAUTIFUL.

GLEN ELLYN PARK ADDITION.

We have just opened the most desirable and most attractive subdivision west of Chicago. Glen Ellyn offers more advantage than any other west suburb. Think of it! Only $6.00 to $15 per foot for lots, only one and two blocks from the Chicago and Northwestern and Aurora and Elgin Electric rys., respectively, in a subdivision having cement sidewalks, gravel roads, water, gas and electric light. The magnificent landscape views and high undulating topography, surrounded by picturesque territory, together with many other attractive features make this subdivision the best of all home sites. Make your choice at once. Let our representative show you this property, it must be seen to be appreciated.

A home here will be a life long enjoyment and an opportunity to double and triple your investment. Values inevitably will greatly enhance as soon as the subdivision is closed, as there is no other available property as near the station and as good as this at such low prices.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

$50.00 WEEKLY

$1,000 invested in Hilo Aluminum P. N. machines will earn the above amount. Read:

Hilo Gum Co., 127 Market-st., Chicago, Ill.— Chicago, Ill., April 11, 1910.

Gentlemen:

I have operated your Hilo Peanut Vending Machines for the past two years on the Metropolitan and Lake street elevated roads and also a route in city of thirty machines.

On 110 Hilo machines I have made a living and saved $400 in five months. I have ten machines on the elevated roads which take in an average of $8 per month. My route of thirty machines average me a little over $3 per month each, or a total of about $100.

My expenses for breakage, etc., is about 1 per cent.

I can recommend your Hilo peanut machine as the best vending machine on the market. Give less trouble to the operator than any other machine I have ever had experience with.

Yours truly,
[Signed] WILLIAM W. RICHARDS,
2877 Dickens-av.

Special offer—Bring in this ad and if you purchase 50 or more machines we will locate and install your route

IF YOU COULD BE SHOWN A REASONABLE prospect of making 100 for 1 on your money, would you risk a small sum in patents which may revolutionize the most important industry in this country? The proposition at present is a speculation and not an investment. After a practical demonstration has made it an assured success the financial magnates will be clamoring for stock at fancy prices as an investment. This is the history of all new inventions that have made their mark in the world. Why not have some treasury stock on hand to sell the capitalists later on, and thus be in a position to reap the rich harvest of profits that may be in store for those who have the courage to risk small amounts now? Address B 368, Tribune.

GRAND OPENINGS—We are building 25 miles new R. R., near Des Moines, Ia., through best coal fields in state; fine farming and stock country; will have four good towns; we want good stenographer with $1,000, also secretary, for coal company, with $2,500; highest references exchanged. C. O. & W. RY. CO., 1310 Fort Dearborn Bldg.

SMITH, P. O. Box 1157, Milwaukee, Wis.

WANTED—A BRIGHT YOUNG MAN TO ACT as assistant manager in a very legitimate Chicago business, and a chance of a lifetime to grow up with a new firm and be independent; only $1,000 required to get in with a $200,000 incorporation, with absolutely no element of risk; salary to start $25; personal interview and quick action necessary. Call today or tomorrow at 605 Steinway Hall, 17 E. Van Buren-st., and bring references.

OPPORTUNITY OF LIFETIME FOR HONEST, ambitious young man to fill vacancy of secretaryship in going company; must invest $2,000 to $3,000; salary commensurate with ability; profits and salary should yield $7,500 per year. This is a bona fide proposition, and if you mean business investigate; references required. Address H P 168, Tribune.

YOU CAN NOW GRASP A FORTUNE FOR $200; you will receive $400 back in three months and the annuity afterwards; this is only open to 20 people or one person with $4,000 or less in proportion; no speculation; straight business. Address X 199, Tribune.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands, or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from loop district], and my being the president of a large wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings where money lenders congregate. My customer's name and address are known only to me; my employes know accounts only by serial number. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges for any time are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, often less, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. RAILWAYS' LIVING COST BIG PROBLEM

Former Financial Editor of "Tribune," in Magazine, Says They Bear Brunt.

EXPENSES MEET EARNINGS

Declares Roads Pay Increase in Other Industries by Giving More for Equipment.

The railroads are as greatly concerned over the increased cost of living as the average housewife or laborer, according to Edward W. Harden, former financial editor of THE TRIBUNE, writing in the current issue of the Outlook on "The Cost of Living to Railways."

"No one," he stated, "who gives the subject serious study can avoid the conclusion that the railways of the United States have been affected by the increased cost of living to quite as great an extent as has any individual, and, moreover, that they are subject to a variety of influences tending to increase the current cost of their existence which do not affect the individual."

While admitting the justice of wage demands by the railway employés, based upon increase in cost of their living, the writer declares that the roads are in the same or even a worse condition. In this connection he says:

"That any large number of corporations find themselves between the same upper and nether millstones of rising prices for the necessaries of life and rigidly fixed income as does the individual wage earner or professional man today will strike perhaps nine readers out of ten as a biased, if not wholly unwarranted, assertion.

Such Assertions Laughed At.

"If one should say that the most important single class of corporations in the country has for years been less able to help itself in this predicament than the least skilled of its 1,500,000 employés, his unsupported statement would be almost everywhere dismissed with a laugh.

"Yet it is proved by an abundance of quite unimpeachable evidence that, whereas the only variation worth mentioning in the general level of railway compensation for the last two decades has been downward, the railways have not only had to come to the rescue of their own employés with repeated increases of wages but have had to bear, through the increased cost of materials and supplies of all kinds, a large proportion of the related increase in the market value of labor in all other industries.

"Nor is this all. The owner of timber lands has advanced his prices for cross ties, car siding, and bridge timbers out of all proportion to the higher cost of the labor entering into their production; the owner of the iron in the ground and of every other raw material of which railways are made and maintained has done the same."

Increase in Employes' Wages.

Increases in the wages paid to employés ranging from 19.4 to 38.9 per cent from 1897 to 1908 and in the prices of standard supplies ranging from 20.7 to 116.2 per cent from 1897 to 1909 are among the tabulated items given as representing the railways' increased cost of living. Locomotives are said to have increased from a maximum price of about $12,000 to about $20,000, and freight cars, which the roads buy by the hundreds of thousands annually and of which they destroy about 100,000 annually, have advanced from an average of $700 and $750 to about $1,000 each.

Gross earnings, the writer declares, increased 94.1 per cent in ten years, while the cost of fuel increased 176.3 per cent. While gross earnings per mile increased 52.8 per cent taxes increased 55.3 per cent per mile, and the "elaborate reports now required by the interstate commerce commission and local authorities in a majority of states have added enormous sums to the permanent cost of operation, to say nothing of the expense of legal representation and the submission of evidence in the investigation of railway affairs by almost innumerable government agencies."

Cut Rate Abuses Investigated.

Complaints of discrimination by the railroads in granting special passenger rates to members of particular organizations for conventions and meetings has led the Interstate Commerce commission to investigate.

Secretary E. A. Moseley of the commission has served notice on railroad officials and representatives of organizations which have been enjoying the favors to appear at a public hearing to be held in Chicago on April 25 by Special Examiner Lyon. It is understood that the commission proposes to look into the workings of the certificate plan of making special rates as basis for a possible change in its rulings on the subject. Representatives of the railroads and of the organizations will be given an opportunity to present their views.

W. L. Park, the new vice president of the Illinois Central, has started on a two weeks' trip to inspect every mile of the main line and branches of the road.

It was announced yesterday that Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, had been elected chairman of the board of directors and a member of the executive committee of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton. Harry Bronner was elected a director, vice H. S. Redmond, deceased. At a meeting of the directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern, George F. Randolph was elected vice president in charge of traffic and George L. Potter vice president in charge of operation.

PERJURER UNDER HOT FIRE

Stridiron Is Cross Examined Six Hours by Lawyer O'Donnell.

STICKS TO HIS MAIN STORY.

Says He Expected Attorney Cantwell to Protect Him in Court.

In an effort to save himself from the penitentiary, and to give his friend, Robert E. Cantwell, a coat of whitewash, H. H. Stridiron, confessed perjurer, withstood for six hours yesterday a scorching cross-examination by Patrick H. O'Donnell, attorney for Hip Lung and Moy Dong Hoy, whom Stridiron accuses of having bought his testimony for use in their murder trial.

The defense claims to have tangled Stridiron in a net of contradictions and proved him a perjurer at the present trial. The state, on the other hand, claims that the essentials of his story have not been affected, and that other testimony will be produced to corroborate all material points of his story.

It is disclosed that the juror on the murder case whose intimacy with Cantwell caused the interruption of that case, "Tony" Moran, is now a law associate of Cantwell's.

Conversation Is Ruled Out.

Stridiron admitted on cross examination, that Former Ald. James Considine met him at Pine Hill, Ala., while he was a fugitive from justice. Immediately thereafter he left for Belize, Honduras. His conversations with Considine, and the purpose of Considine's visit were ruled out by the court.

It was shown that when Cantwell brought Stridiron back from Paris, he took him to Black River Falls, Wis., the former home of George M. Popham, special prosecutor in the case.

"Was Charles F. Hille, Mr. Popham's law partner, there?" Attorney O'Donnell asked.

"Charles F. Hille was not, and is not, and never has been my law partner," interrupted Mr. Popham sharply.

Tells Why Cantwell Was Hired.

Stridiron was asked his reasons for insisting that, if he were to commit perjury, Cantwell be hired as a lawyer for the defense.

"I wanted a lawyer I could be sure would take care of me if anything happened."

Former Constable Louis Greenberg was summoned by the state to testify to the contents of a paper that he took from Hip Lung's safe and read while making a levy there.

"Did you leave the paper there?" Attorney Erbstein asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"You are the ex-constable that was responsible for the creation of the Municipal court, are you not?" he was asked.

"I can't allow that question," interrupted the court, laughing. "There are too many now who claim that honor."

Abt's Greek Letter Lines

Clothes may be unbalanced just as individuals. Good woolens and poor workmanship are incongruous. So are poor woolens and good workmanship. In either case the bad counteracts the effect of the good.

Clothes should have balance and harmony throughout and this is the distinguishing characterictic of Abt's GREEK LETTER LINES.
